Full many a piece is penned to blush unseen,

A striking exhibition of congressional extravagance is the appropriation of more than $8,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for an unnecessary addition to the House Office Building, when since 1857 the Capitol itself has remained uncompleted, with the east central extension still only one of Walter's blueprints, and the majestic dome out of plumb. The completion of the Capitol for $3,000,000 would give all the extra space needed, except for swimming pools and gyms, but the modern Caracalla must have his Thermae.

THREE CABINET NAMES ARE LAID BEFORE HOOVER

CONGRESS LEADERS URGE EXTRA SESSION

President-Elect Acquiesces in Plan for Farm and Tariff Action, They Hint.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President-elect Hoover is reconciled to an extra session of Congress in the spring, in the opinion of congressional leaders who talked with him yesterday. It was not that Mr. Hoover said anything but the situation in Congress was fully made known to him and so far as could be learned he did not complain.

The leaders who called on him were those who concluded some time ago that the extra session for farm legislation and tariff revision was necessary and the fact that their conclusions remained unchanged after they had talked with Mr. Hoover was taken as virtual assurance that he is prepared to accept that course that events have charted for him. Senators Moses and Burton, and Sackett, and Majority Leader Tilson of the House, and Representative Snell, chairman of the House rules committee, all told him that the spring session was necessary.

Aside from having the congressional situation laid before him the President-elect also had formally on his desk, so to speak, three Cabinet names, none of whom is very likely to be selected.

Cabinet Names Offered.

They were those of Dwight P. Morrow, for Secretary of State; Walter F. Brown, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, for the commerce Cabinet post, and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, for Secretary of Interior.

If Mr. Hoover gave his feelings on any of these recommendations it was possibly that of Brown, and not necessarily because it was he but because the recommendation was made by Senator Burton. The Ohio senator is very close to Mr. Hoover and it is possible that Brown's name has been discussed by them many times before. The three of them, Hoover, Brown and Burton all went through the battle of Ohio together last spring. Following Burton was Senator Fess of Ohio, who also indorsed Brown.

Submission of Morrow's name by Senator Edge and Senator-elect Kean, of New Jersey, was one of those formal State indorsement things, a matter of State pride, and which in the event of Morrow's selection, which it is not believes will be, would have no bearing on it.

Dr. Klein Among Callers.

It would have been interesting to see the expression on Mr. Hoover's face when Senator Sackett solemnly suggested Mrs. Hert. From some quarter has recently come the word with a seeming authoritative stamp that it would be more pleasant all around if the ballahoo in Mrs. Hert's behalf ceased.

In connection with Brown's possibilities for the commerce post, Julius Klein, head of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Department of the Department of Commerce, was also a vis-

Woman, Breath Stopped, Saved By Rescue Squad

Her breathing stopped as the result of a spasm following hysteria, members of No. 2 Rescue Squad of the Fire Department and Dr. I. Rutkoski last night revived Mrs. Marian W. Rouzie, 35 years old, of 413 Columbia road northwest, the former through the use of an inhalator and the latter an injection of adrenalin.

Members of the rescue squad and Dr. Rutkoski, of Emergency Hospital, summoned by members of Mrs. Rouzie's family, found her gasping for breath as a result of a congested lung and hysteria, which caused her to develop a spasm.

The rescue squad worked over Mrs. Rouzie for 20 minutes with an inhalator, and apparently revived her, but as soon as the instrument was removed, it was discovered Mrs. Rouzie had stopped breathing.

In an effort to stimulate her heart action, Dr. Rutkoski injected the adrenalin. Mrs. Rouzie responded to the stimulant and members of the rescue squad and Dr. Rutkoski pronounced her out of danger.

NEW CITY DRY LAW NOW BEING DRAFTED

Representative W. H. Sproul Draws Preliminary Bill for Committee.

GIBSON EXPLAINS PLANS

A drastic prohibition law, modeled after the famous enforcement act in Kansas, is proposed for the District of Columbia, in a bill which now is being drafted by Representative W. H. Sproul (Republican), of that State.

Coincident with this, Representative Gibson, Republican, Vermont, chairman of the investigating subcommittee of the House District committee, stated that he had no intention at this time of drafting a prohibition enforcement act for the District, based on the recommendations made by Federal Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran. Gibson's subcommittee is studying the local whisky situation.

The Kansas law prohibits a physician from prescribing whisky for sick persons, but Sproul has not yet decided whether he will include such a provision in his bill for this city. He made it clear, however, that he does not think whisky has any medicinal value.

If he does not include such a provision, Sproul said, he certainly will provide severe penalties for the using of medicinal whisky for beverage purposes, penalties that will apply to both the physician and the patient.

Provisions that Sproul has determined to put in the bill include the following:

A mandatory combination sentence of 30 days in jail and a $100 fine for the first violation of the liquor laws. (This would be the minimum penalty for the first offense. Repeaters would be given more severe sentences as they continued to violate the law, and eventually would be sent to the penitentiary for a long term.)

An "inquisitorial" provisio, under which officers and attorneys could subpena citizens and compel them to tell what they knew about a bootlegger or a speak-easy.

A provision giving the police drastic search and seizure powers, and also a provision for a strong padlock law to close places selling liquor.

WORD "WITCH" HEARD AT TRIAL DESPITE STATE

Attempt Made, Youth Says, to Raise "Spell" Cast by Man Now Dead.

York, Pa., Jan. 7 (U.P.).—This prosperous Pennsylvania town which would so much rather be known for its cigar factories than for its black magic, fought hard all day against the witches which were hovering around its handsome courthouse, but it lost the fight in a final crushing hour of the first day's session of the trial of John Blymyer, tall, pasty-faced, sharp-nosed, tiny-eyed master of witchcraft, for the murder of Nelson Rehmeyer, himself a dabbler in the supernatural.

York was determined that it was not to be advertised to the world as the witches' den of America and to that end it developed not long after the Blymyer trial opened that the State had determined to make robbery the motive and to leave out all mention of witchcraft, if possible, in its attempts to prove Blymyer a murderer. Things moved swiftly.

Blymyer, John Curry and Wilbert Hess were indicted in 20 minutes by the grand jury. Promptly at 11 a. m. the work of getting a jury began and on the stroke of 3:40 p. m. the last of 12 substantial citizens of more than middle age, largely of German descent, and one 25 years old, were sworn in. Women do not serve on jury panels here.

Forgets to Name a Motive.

Until that moment York was on top in its battle to keep the witches all well exercised and not a sign of a broomstick rider had been seen, but then things began to happen. Amos Herrmann, broad-shouldered district attorney, who feared no man, but was very nervous after magic at that particular time, in a thoroughly disinterested fashion told the jury in his opening statement that he would prove Blymyer guilty of murder.

He outlined his case in some detail, promising to prove that Blymyer bought the rope with which Rehmeyer had been trussed up after being beaten into unconsciousness, and how Blymyer allegedly wanted to return Thanksgiving night to the scene of the murder and burn down the Rehmeyer house.

But so careful was Herrmann to delete from his statement any reference to the lock of hair which Blymyer, Curry and Wilbert Hess had intended to pluck from Rehmeyer's head and bury eight feet deep back of the Hess henhouse as symbolical destruction of one who had cast a witches' spell over the Hess family and possessions that he forgot to name a motive for the murder.

Overlooked It, He Says.

Herbert Cohen, defense attorney, was about to call his case won, when the court asked Herrmann if there were a motive for the crime. Herrmann stammered and thought fast.

"Oh, yes," he said, "in the stress of all the excitement I overlooked that. I will prove that there had been a sum of money in the house and that it was taken and divided among the three accused men."

That satisfied the legal requirements and the witches had been kept out by just that narrow margin.

Things went better then, until Clayton Hess, brother of Wilbert and member of the Hess family which had engaged Blymyer to raise the spell they thought Rehmeyer had cast over them, was called as the last witness of the day. Clayton, a tall, rangy lad of about 20, redfaced, with a shock of brown hair, and with a bit of antag-

LONGEST FLIGHT BY MAN ENDS AS 151ST HOUR APPROACHES; GIRDLING OF GLOBE FORESEEN

Rear Admiral Moffett, Air Chief, Foresees Single Hop Around Earth.

POINTS POSSIBILITIES OF REFUEL OPERATION

Congratulates Army on Stamina of Officers and Airship.

WOULD PROVIDE FOR GAS VESSELS AT SEA

Holds Available Airways on Land Could Facilitate Circumnavigation.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Rear Adm. William A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the United States Navy, commenting today on the 150-hour flight of the Army plane "Question Mark" visualized the day when a nonstop flight around the world would be made.

"After this test, so ambitious an experiment as a nonstop flight around the gibbe is now brought well within the realms of possibility," he said in a statement.

"The Army is to be congratulated profoundly upon the magnificent results of tis test flight with the endurance plane Question Mark. All the world may take pride in this splendid exploit, in the stamina of the crew and the Fokker ship, in the perfect operation of the refueling system, and in the Wright Whirlwind engines which created such remarkable new record of endurance."

Points Out Possibilities.

The flight brings forcibly to attention the new possibilities of retaining naval fighting planes in flight over battle areas, with special cargo planes serving them with fresh fuel and ammunition during a prolonged engagement. It emphasizes the tremendous potential value of merchant craft fitted with flight decks and operating ordinary commercial planes as fuel carriers in time of national emergency.

"After this test, so ambitious an experiment as a nonstop flight around the globe is now brought well within the realms of possibility. Motors, ship and men have proved that they are capable of it. In this flight, the replenishment of fuel tanks was achieved in a fashion that was entirely practicable and even simple. There is no reason to doubt that such refueling could be arranged from a chain of stations stretched around the globe as well as it was arranged from a single station in Los Angeles."

Plans for Refuel Stations.

"We know, from the flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd, that an airplane can go 4,000 miles on a single filling of its tanks. If we wished to contemplate a nonstop circumnavigation of the globe, we might assume as low a figure as 1,000 miles as the unit for each refueling. Certainly, it would be simple to arrange the replenishment of fuel every thousand miles over the land. Across the United States the excellent facilities of the air mail service could be brought into play. In Europe, and as far as Siam, stations of the Imperial Airways of Great Britain are maintained at intervals of less than 1,000 miles. Along the Chinese coast and in Japan special arrangement might be made without great trouble.

Could Refuel From Ships.

"This leaves us with many thousands of ocean miles to cover. Along the surface of the sea airplane carriers, such as the Lexington, the Saratoga and the Langley, might be strung out a thousand miles apart. Refueling planes might take off from their decks, make contact with the nonstop plane, deliver Question Mark Is Forced Down by Exhausted Motor's Failure.

CREW BESTS ENGINES IN ENDURANCE TRIAL

Army Men Land Fit and Ready, After Seven Days in Plane.

THOUSANDS APPLAUD LONG GLIDE TO EARTH

Ship That Broke All Records Was Aloft 150 Hours 40 Minutes 15 Seconds.

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The Army's endurance flight plane, the Question Mark, glided to a perfect landing here at 2:07:01 o'clock this afternoon, Pacific time, after a historic and record smashing flight of 150 hours 40 minutes and 15 seconds. The ship flew continuously for nearly seven days and nights following its take-off here on New Year's morning at 7:26:46 o'clock.

The end of one of the greatest flights in all aviation history came after a crew of five weary men had fought constant against time and motors, which piled trouble in a heap upon them an hour before the landing. Thirty hours before, their work seemed near an end when the motors balked, but the trouble cleared away and the flight went on. As though in protest to the great strain placed upon them, the motors finally stuttered, one went "dead" and with another rapidly failing, they forced the nose of the ship earthward. Previous motor trouble had been almost negligible.

Crew Shows Loss of Weight.

The members of the crew of the Question Mark were reported by a board of four Army surgeons to have been found in "excellent" physical condition following an examination made three hours after their gruelling 150-hour endurance flight ended this afternoon. The only effects noted were fatigue, which "was to be expected," the surgeon said, and the loss of one to four pounds in weight by each of the five men.

The official medical report of Capt. John M. Stanley, of Rockwell Field, San Diego, stated that all the crew "are physically qualified to start off any time on any Army mission." He added that Maj. Carl Spatz' condition indicated that "hard work in the air seems to agree with him."

As the great black-bodied trimotored Fokker with its shining yellow wings touched earth almost upon the spot where it had left so many hours before, a cabin door swung open and from it stepped the crew. In the milling crowd of laughing, cheering Army officers, they were the calmest of all, broad smiles spreading across their faces as they heard the acclaim to their efforts.

Quesada Tells of Flight.

Not one of the five, though worn looking, faltered. Maj. Carl Spatz, commanding officer; Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Lieuts. Harry A. Halverson and Elwood R. Quesada and Staff Sergt. Roy Hooe walked to a waiting car which carried them to a hangar and then to Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., for the official physical examination.

Just what happened aboard the Question Mark was told by Lieut. Quesada in simple words as he lounged in the automobile speeding to the medical base.

"Just as I left the controls at 1 o'clock this afternoon, Capt. Eaker took the wheel and the left motor went dead. We sent Sergt. Hooe out on the catwalk, but his weight was too heavy in the unstable condition of the Question Mark.

Had Trouble Saturday.

"We knew then that the flight was over. We dropped the gas within two or three minutes after we had taken it.

PACIFISTS TO OPEN ANTICRUISER RALLY

SENATORS QUIZZED TODAY

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The first Anti-American Navy Day in the history of the country is to be ushered in this morning by an imposing gathering of internationalists and pacifists whose slogan is "The cruiser bill should not pass."

It is to be the most effective and best organized propaganda drive ever undertaken, according to [illegible] and the anti-cruiser conference [illegible] quote from the advance announcement of the program, "will be conducted by as noteworthy a group as has ever assembled in the City of Washington to discuss any prominent question before the United States Congress."

The meeting and banquet are to be held at the Washington Hotel in the "hall of nations" and the program is under the direct supervision of the Washington Council on International Relations. But this council is admittedly representing all the combined power of church pacifist organizations, internationalist groups whose members are affiliated with the League of Nations at Geneva, as well as such affiliated organizations as the Methodist Federation for Social Service, of which the Rev. Harry F. Ward is secretary and a dominant leader in pacifist-anti-cruiser activities throughout many of the groups.

Mr. Ward, born in London, England, is a recognized authority on twentieth century internationalism, his work, "The New Social Order," being in line with the new theories advanced by the true-blue internationalists of Geneva.

ROADHOUSE CONTROL BY COUNTY IS URGED

Hyattsville Chamber Also Would Curb Activities of Dance Halls.

MORE POLICE ADVOCATED

Control of roadhouses and dance halls by the county commissioners of Prince Georges County, Md., to eliminate "disreputable halls" in the county was urged in a resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Hyattsville last night in the municipal hall at Hyattsville. The chamber also urged the State legislature to separate the offices of sheriff and chief of police in the interest of efficiency.

Judge J. H. Shepherd, supporting the resolution, declared that most of the dance halls and roadhouses cater to Washingtonians and that they bring disreputable persons into the county. He also declared that the county police force should be enlarged and made separate from the sheriff's office in order that the policemen could devote their entire time to suppressing bootleggers and gambling establishments.

Judge Shepherd said a large gambling establishment existed on the very edge of the county which the county police have been asked to stop but which "is still in full blast."

With a larger police force, Prince Georges County can be made as free of vice as Montgomery County, the judge declared.

The resolution called upon the county members of the State legislature to introduce a law to empower the county commissioners to regulate and license dance halls, roadhouses and other amusement places along the lines of the Montgomery County law.

Racket Court Nets Bailiff As Its Initial Racketeer

First Victims of New Chicago Tribunal Charged With Taking $600 To Free Prisoner—Inquiry Ordered Into Whole Legal Machinery.

Chicago, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Somewhat similar to the false legend which reported the inventor of the guillotine was one of its first victims, the creators of Chicago's new racketeer court today found its first "racket" within its ranks.

The first victim of the court, Daniel Sammons, a bailiff, learned that Chief Justice Harry Olson's new municipal branch extended within its portals its purpose to eradicate racketeers from Chicago, and to relieve the Federal court dockets of minor liquor cases.

"Our first case was against a bailiff of our own court," Judge Olsen said, after reviewing the day's developments. "Imagine a racket inside our own racketeer court!" The complainant, John W. Jones, charged he paid Sammons $600 on promise to get him released on probation. A warrant was issued against the bailiff for obtaining money under false pretenses.

"It reminds me of the case of the inventor of the guillotine. He was the first to have his head chopped off after the instrument of death was accepted for executions. Our first victim, of course, did not get such a penalty."

The old legend concerning Guillotine gained such credence for some time, but in later years official records showed the inventor of the death block died a natural death in 1814.

Judge Olson appointed Judge Daniel P. Trude to handle the new court and the latter presided on the bench today. Judge Trude joined with the chief justice in declaring a housecleaning of his own court.

"Of course, I was surprised to learn of a 'racket' being practiced by one of the bailiffs," the presding judge told the United Press. "We have had no official reports on further practices of this kind, but from the evidence in this case we plan to make a complete investigation."

Another case which attracted considerable attention today was a petition for a warrant against Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, who has fixed such famous faces as those of Lady Diana Manners, Jack Dempsey, Fanny Brice and Sophie Tucker.

Philip R. Davis, attorney for Charles Erickson, 21, brought his client into the "racket" court as exhibit 1 to support a charge of mayhem. Erickson's battered nose, Davis told the court, was the result of nine operations to relieve its flatness.

An attorney was in court for Dr. Schireson protesting that another surgeon's instruments had scarred Erickson's features, but the court issued the warrant, fixing bail at $10,000. Court attaches could not find the surgeon.

None of the bombing racketeers appeared today, but all forces of the law promised that racketeers of all descriptions would soon be seen in the open, and that even more interesting happenings than at the first day of court are ahead.

Roumania and Italy May Recall Envoys

Cretziano Reported Going to Warsaw; Grandi for Martino Post.

Announcement of the transfer of George Cretziano, Minister to the United States from Roumania, and intimation that important changes will take place soon in the personnel of the local Italian Legation were conveyed in Associated Press dispatches last night.

The dispatches further stated that Carol Davilla will succeed Minister Cretziano as head of the Roumanian diplomatic corps in Washington, and that the latter would take over the legation at Warsaw.

Relative to the changes in the Italian delegation, the dispatches stated that changes also are contemplated in embassies at London, Paris and Madrid, and that Undersecretary Grandi, of the Italian foreign office, is being mentioned as Ambassador to the United States. Nobile Giacomo de Martino is the present ambassador.

Capital Is Shelled By Afghan Rebels

Artillery Captured in Fort Five Miles Away Is Used in Attack.

Calcutta, India, Jan. 7 (United Press).—Afghan rebels have captured a government fort 5 miles from Kabul, the capital, and started bombarding the capital with captured artillery pieces, according to a message received here today by airplane from Kabul.

Gholum Nonobi, former colonel in the Afghan army has joined the forces of the rebel leader Batchai Sakkao and a night attack on the capital is regarded as imminent, the message said.

King Amanullah's forces, which recently drove back the insurgents when they invaded the outskirts of Kabul, were reported confident that they would defeat the revolting tribesmen.

It is believed that the King is ready to agree to a compromise with the rebels but he strongly resents the suggestion that he part with the lovely Queen Souriya, who was greatly responsible for the reforms in dress and custom, and banish her family from Afghanistan.

Coolidge, As Mighty Hunter, Plans to Invade Maryland

President, Fresh from Nimrod Triumphs in Virginia and Georgia, Obtains License With Two Aids for Further Expeditions Nearby.

Fresh from hunting expeditions in the mountains of Virginia and the sea island region of Georgia, President Coolidge now plans to invade Maryland.

This became known yesterday when hunting licenses were issued to the President, Col. E. W. Starling, the President's secret service agent, and Col. Osmun Latrobe, the Chief Executive's military aid.

Col. Starling attended to the details of getting the licenses. He telephoned Gov. Ritchie yesterday morning about the matter, explaining that the President is becoming stronger and stronger for hunting. The governor immediately dispatched his executive secretary, Kenneth M. Burns, to the county clerk's office to get the tags.

The President was issued tag No. 80, and when he invades Maryland with his gun he will be Hunter No. 80, the law of the State requiring that license numbers be worn on the back like a football player's numeral.

No information could be obtained yesterday as to just when the President will try his aim on the wild life of Maryland. It was learned, however, that Col. Starling will go to Cambridge tomorrow and it is probable that Coolidge will foloiw him in a day or so.

This was not the first trouble. Saturday night we thought it was all over. All three engines lost their power. That was fouled spark plugs. We were all ready to end the flight, but finally we cleaned that up. It was not necessary for any one to go out on the catwalks then. The first time during the flight that it was necessary to go out was at 1 o'clock today, when Sergt. Hooe went out to the left motor. It was worse than spark plug trouble this time. It looked like valves. Shortly after 1 o'clock the right motor began to weaken. Then we knew the flight was about to end."

When the plane landed the left motor was silent, the right motor was functioning, but a stream of oil spouted from it, and the center motor was able to make only 1,300 revolutions a minute.

Two Thousand Cheer Fliers.

Two thousand persons who swarmed about the airport cheered wildly as the plane taxied across the field. About the field scores of Army officers went into wild demonstrations of delight at the unheard of record which the plane had set up.

An hour before the plane came down it was apparent to those upon the field that some major trouble had cropped out. Flying between 3,000 and 4,000 feet altitude, the plane lost heavily and gradually fell to about 1,500 feet. A thousand feet higher the left motor had stopped. When the gasoline was seen to pour from the fuselage it became evident that a forced landing was close at hand.

In its flight, never paralleled as a continuous journey by any man-made thing, the Question Mark established itself as the longest flying aircraft either dirigible or airplane in aviation annals.

Passed Zeppelin Records.

It had surpassed the record of 118 hours of the ill-fated French dirigible, the Dixmude, by 32 hours, and the 111 hour and 30 minute mark of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, by 39 hours. The previous longest airplane flight on record, 65 hours and 25 minutes, accomplished in Germany by Johann Risticz and Wilhelm Zimmermann, was outdistanced by 85 hours, although the German mark was accomplished without refueling.

Head and shoulders above these achievements, however, the Army placed a now proved theory—that refueling of airplanes while en route is practical. This, Army officers said, was the major purpose of the flight and its success was regarded as phenomenal.

At the end of the flight Maj. Spatz exclaimed "We are feeling fine. We could take off immediately if the motors would run."

Lieut. Halverson was afflicted with a slight cold but otherwise the valiant crew showed little apparent ill effects.

Recover Hearing Quickly.

When they crawled out of the cabin the acclaim of the shouting crowd was met with shakes of their heads, indicating that roaring motors for six days had deadened their hearing. However, two hours later their conversation disclosed that the effect upon their hearing had been only temporary.

Army officers who talked with the six heroes declared they were "astonished" at the ease with which the men conversed after their six days and nights of listening to the roaring motors and the winds. The officers indicated that they were surprised to find that, after a short period away from all the din and tumult, the Question Mark's crew seemed to recover their hearing to a point near normalcy.

Tonight the record-breaking motors were stilled, and the strong pinioned mechanical bird which had held the attention of men and nations for a week, was tucked away in a hangar. Two Army sentries stood guard over the stilled bird, while sliding doors shut it away from the public gaze in which it had gloried for more than six days and six nights.

Some time tomorrow the Question Mark will be given a thorough inspection by Army aviation officers who staged the epochal endurance test flight.

Mrs. Spatz Voices Joy.

Mrs. Spatz, wife of the plane's commanding officer, was overjoyed when she was informed at her home in Santa Monica, of the safe landing.

"I am delighted. It was a superhuman flight and it was all simply marvelous. I wish I could have seen them land," she said.

Capt. Eaker and Maj. Spatz alternated in manning the plane's controls in the last minutes of the flight and when the ship rolled to a stop with two motors whirling their propellers in even rhythm, Capt. Eaker was at the controls.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—M. Vernon Little, traffic manager of the Interstate Airlines, read of the Question Mark's epochal endurance flight in California.

"Pretty good!" he observed, and turned his mind to other things. A picture in his office needed a new frame. He took it down.

Recalls Old Wright Flight.

A yellowed page of the old Chicago Record-Herald dropped out from the back of the picture. It bore the date September 10, 1908, and a top headline read: "Wright Flies One Hour; Breaks All Records."

It was the story of another epoch-making flight of 20 years ago.

NEW FLIGHT RECORD THRILL FOR CAPITAL

Families of Crew Members Overjoyed at Success of Question Mark.

OFFICIALS PRAISE MEN

While the wires hummed last night with the news of the amazing success of the record-smashing monoplane Question Mark with its Army crew in California, probably no city in the United States felt a greater thrill or a higher sense of elation than did Washington.

For it was here, at Bolling Field, that preparations were made and the first tests proved successful. From here the giant trimotored Fokker winged its way to unheard of accomplishments; to records which may stand for many months amid achievements which the nerve and zeal of modern airmen make all too fragile.

And, then, for those who like a dash of the intimate in their romance, Washington is the home of four of the men who made the accomplishment possible. Two of them, Capt. Ira C. Eaker and Lieut. Elwood Quesada, left families here to wait and hope during the long hours stretching into days while they winged their monotonous way over the San Fernando Valley.

Yesterday, the news that they had landed with every aviation record for sustained flight not only broken but in many cases doubled, left their loved one here almost delirious with joy and pride.

Wife of Chief Pilot Happy.

Mrs. Ira C. Eaker, wife of the chief pilot of the endurance ship, and who named it before it left Bolling Field, was overjoyed, but more at the success of the mission on which her husband had embarked than at the fact that he had landed safely. Her utmost confidence in his ability as a pilot and the crew with him gave her no cause to fear that the great ship would not land safely when landing became necessary.

"I think it is a perfectly marvelous accomplishment," she said last night. "Of course, it would have been very nice if they could have finished out the 300 hours they hoped for, but what they did was wonderful enough in itself.

"What plans does Capt. Eaker have for the future? I really don't know. He is planning other flights, but I have no idea what they are."

The family of Lieut. Elwood Quesada, relief pilot on the Question Mark, was elated. His father, L. Lopez Quesada, 63 years old, of 105 I street northwest, who is an employe of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, proudly exhibited a letter from his son which had been written on special stationery during the flight and had been forwarded by air mail, reaching here while the ship was still aloft.

Quesada told of the love for flying which seemed to be a part of Lieut. Quesada's nature. "Why, he flew up from Bolling Field to Philadelphia once just to have his pants pressed," he said, happily.

Inspiration for Investors Seen.

Quesada is a native Cuban, but a naturalized American. Lieut. Quesada is the youngest of four children, and is now 24 years old. His brother, Irving G. Quesada, a patent attorney, who lives at 1437 Lawrence street northeast, last night saw inspiration for the Nation's inventors in the accomplishment of the flying youngster and his colleagues.

His mother, Mrs. Helen A. Quesada, 4716 Ninth street northwest, said that she was "overjoyed at the success of her son's effort.

She declared that she was not worried while he was in the air, because he had explained to her the thoroughness of the preparations which had been made for the attempt. "And then," she said, "he had so much confidence in Maj. Spatz as a commander."

Official Washington also expressed its satisfaction and pleasure at the accomplishment made possible by the combination of a good ship and well trained, dogged men.

A far reaching effect on both military and civil aviation was seen by Maj. Gen. James A. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps, whom Lieut. Quesada has often piloted, as a result of the epic flight. "I am highly elated to learn of the safe landing of the Question Mark, and I am proud that it was accomplished by Army fliers," he said.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautic Association, felt that the achievement had brought new laurels to the Army and to American aviation. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, felt that the flight was of especial interest to the Navy in that it opened up possibilities for refueling naval planes on long overseas flights.

Credit Given to Gallant Crew.

Calling the achievement "a new and thrilling chapter in man's conquest of the air," F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in charge of aeronautics, gave full credit to the skill of the crew and the airworthiness of the ships which were used in making the refueling contacts.

"Several important problems were solved in preparation for the flight," he added "all of which make for increased safety and reliability. Many other lessons have been learned which a study of the details of the flight will reveal."

Washington was linked briefly with the refueling plane Question Mark, while it was still in flight, yesterday when Henry Berliner, president of the Berliner Aircraft Co., at Alexandria, received a telegram of greeting from Maj. Carl Spatz, commander of the flight.

"Hello to the gang as the seventh day is starting," the telegram read. It was signed "Toohey," as Maj. Spatz is known to his friends at the Berliner factory.

A letter transferred from the Army test plane Question Mark to the refueling plane on January 2 by Second Lieut. Elwood Quesada, one of the pilots, has been received here by his father, L. Lopez Quesada, 105 I street northwest. The envelope and the first page of the letter are reproduced herewith.

Record Plane Is University For Fliers Gathering Data

Advantages in Wartime Are Seen as Result of Test on Refueling.

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, January 7 (A.P.).—The Army monoplane Question Mark, which broke all endurance and refueling records before it alighted here today, was a veritable flying university to its crew of five and other flying service men who hope to study its accomplishments.

Every hour while aloft members of its crew accumulated new data which army officers said they expected would alter the entire future course of flying.

The flight will bring valuable results especially to the military and commercial departments of aviation. The outstanding demonstration presumably is that refueling and transfer of supplies to an airplane from another craft while both speed through the air, is feasible. In addition the army sees these additional benefits to flying:

Ability of airplanes to take off behind a front with great cargoes of war materials and only small gasoline stores. Heretofore the cargo was lessened appreciably because of the necessity of carrying a large load of fuel.

Protracted air skirmishes over a front without landing.

Enlargement of the Army's scale of war operations in the air.

To commercial flying:

Carrying of greater cargoes.

The making of more rapid flights across country.

Elimination of the danger of robbery and the ability safely to carry valuable shipments such as diamonds, money, papers, &c.

Increased air hours for planes and longer service through less wear on both plane and motor which frequent take-offs impose.

Behind these principal developments rests a technical study which scores of Army scientists will make.

These studies are expected to show what motors can stand, where defects develop, how better motors can be made and what must be done to increase the efficiency of the average airplane power plant. The researches anticipate disclosing what happens to a plane's fuselage and where its weaknesses are hidden as well as what man can stand and the effects of such flights upon pilots.

Officers point out that all of the findings probably will be abnormal to average airplane developments. The flight of the Question Mark already is far longer than any commercial plane would ever need to travel, they explain, and the speed of the Army ship is also lower than the usual speed of the commercial plane.

The performance of the Question Mark is viewed as a climax to five other pioneering efforts of the Army Air Corps, each of which added a monument to the history of aviation. Those others flights, a boast of the Army today, were the round-the-world, Hawaiian, South American and dawn to dusk and the model airway from which the American air mail system was developed.

SUGAR TARIFF RAISE ASKED BY AMERICANS

Can Not Meet Cuban Prices, Producers Declare; Three Cents Per Pound Sought.

BITTER STRUGGLE COMING

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.

Domestic sugar producers representing every branch of production under the American flag, with the exception of the Philippine growers, have reached an agreement, it was learned yesterday, to ask Congress to increase the base tariff on sugar from its present rate of 2.20 cents to 3 cents a pound. The request will be made by spokesmen of the various producing interests at a hearing of the ways and means committee, beginning January 21.

Decision to ask for a higher levy has opened anew the bitter warfare, quiescent for the past five years, between the domestic producers and the Cuban sugar interests. The latter have combined to resist the increase, and have retained Gen. Enoch A. Crowder, former Ambassador to Cuba, to appear before the committee and oppose the imposition of increased duties.

Because of a preferential rate of 80 per cent of the base figure, Cuban sugar is now paying duty at the rate of 1.76 cents a pound. The domestic producers are proposing that this rate be raised to 2.4 cents, an increase of about two-thirds of a cent a pound. The domestic growers claim that they have been losing money under the present rate, and that if the domestic industry is to survive, it must be given additional protection.

Denied by Cuban Interests.

This inference is denied by the Cuban interests, who claim that the present tariff is unduly prejudicial to them, and that an increased tariff would widen the margin of discrimination. The result, they assert, would simply be to increase the cost of sugar at retail by two-thirds of a cent a pound or more.

Domestic producers deny that the tariff has any appreciable effect on the retail price. A higher tariff, they assert, would enable the United States ultimately to become independent of the foreign sugar monopoly which now determines, to great extent, the price.

The domestic interests which have combined to present their plea to Congress include the beet sugar producers, the Louisiana cane sugar growers, the Hawaiian producers and the Porto Rican branch of the industry. Normal differences between the various domestic producers have been laid aside for the time being to enable them to concentrate their energies for a higher levy.

Although agreement has been reached to ask for the 3-cent base rate, there are certain elements in the domestic field who feel that a 4-cent level should be requested. Whether they will seek independently to obtain the higher rate could not be learned yesterday, but it was said that the chances were against such a move.

Restrictions Also Sought.

In addition to the 3-cent base rate, the domestic producers have decided to ask Congress to restrict duty-free importations from the Philippines to 500,000 tons annually. In 1926, the Philippines exported about 800,000 tons to the United States on which no duty was paid. The intent of the other producers under the American flag, is to hold Philippine importations at their present level as a maximum, if possible.

The life of the American sugar industry is declared to be at stake in the forthcoming tariff revision. Advocates of the higher duty are prepared to place their records before the committee, if desired, to show that producers in continental United States are unable to meet Cuban competition at the present rate.

Cuban raw sugar is now selling at New York at 2 cents a pound, plus the duty, or 3.76. The best sugar interests assert that their average cost of production is about 3½ cents a pound, to which must be added overhead and marketing costs, including freight, before a profit is realized.

Cuba has been preparing for the struggle, domestic producers assert, and will make no effort in 1929 to restrict the size of her production.

It was held in 1928 to 4,000,000 tons, of which 3,600,000 were imported by the United States. A prospective Cuban crop of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons in 1929 is giving domestic producers no end of worry and it is as a barrier against this overwhelming competition that they say they want the higher duty.

Louisiana Coming Back.

The Louisiana producers are coming back in a State in which the sugar industry was almost wiped out by a plant disease. They are vigorous in their advocacy of a minimum base rate of 3 cents a pound. They produced less than 200,000 tons last year. The best producers' total was not far from 1,000,000 tons. Hawaii produced about 900,000 tons and Porto Rico about 600,000 tons.

In addition to this production, the American consumer imported 3,600,000 tons from Cuba, making the total consumption of sugar in the United States last year approximately 6,000,000 tons. An increase of two-thirds of a cent a pound, sought under the proposed new tariff, would mean an additional cost of nearly $80,000,000 a year to the consuming public, assuming that it was all passed on and added to the retail price.

Actually, domestic producers assert, it will mean no increase, but would serve to give the domestic industry new life and ultimately would probably result in lower prices. Without such increase, it is contended, the American producers must go out of business, leaving the market wholly at the mercy of the Cuban growers, who would be able to manipulate prices without restraint by the American Government.

These arguments have resulted in a fight which has taken on major proportions between the united domestic interests on the one hand and the Cuban producers on the other. The latter, incidentally, are financed almost wholly by American capital. As a result of the fight, the sugar schedule bids fair to become the storm center of the forthcoming tariff revision fight, with the consumer standing a chance of paying higher prices for sugar under any increase in the rate.

NICARAGUA MARINE FORCE IS REDUCED

Wilbur Orders 38 Officers and 1,194 Men Back to Duty on Battle Fleet.

CUTS DETAIL ONE-THIRD

Withdrawal of one-third of the Marines who for more than a year have formed the American Army of Occupation in Nicaragua was ordered yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. The order is taken to indicate that all Marines will be removed from the Central American country within the next few months.

Detachments to be withdrawn include 38 officers and 1,194 enlisted men, all of whom will be returned to ships of the battle fleet from which they were taken for duty in Nicaragua.

A force of over 3,800 officers and men will be left behind. They include the following detachments: Brigade headquarters, Fifth and Eleventh Regiment headquarters, a Marine aviation detachment, officers and men now stationed with the Nicaraguan national guard, and Marines from the special service squadron.

Many of these marines were on duty with the Oklahoma and Nevada, capital ships of the line, when they were transferred to duty in Nicaragua. Both ships are now being reconditioned at the Philadelphia and Norfolk navy yards and are not ready to receive their marine allotments.

It is understood, however, that as soon as they are again seaworthy that they will steam for Nicaragua to take on their detachments.

Considerable disappointment was evidenced at Quantico, Va., yesterday when it was learned that the Fifth Marines would continue on duty in Central America.

The Fifth had been on duty at Quantico for a long time when the Nicaraguan troubles began.

Birger Gang Men Plead Guilty in Murder Case

Marion, Ill., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Art Newman, Fred Wooten, Riley Simmons and Leslie Simpson, Birger gangsters, pleaded guilty today of the murder of Mrs. Ethel Price, who, with her husband, State Highway Patrolman Lory L. Price, was kidnaped and slain nearly two years ago.

Defense attorneys announced their clients were pleading guilty "in view of an agreement and understanding with the State's attorney, pending sanction of the court." The agreement was understood to be that the State would accept life sentences instead of the death penalty if the defendants would plead guilty. Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell began to hear evidence before passing sentences.

Blackmer Is Cited Again in Contempt

Move by District Supreme Court Step in Seizure of $100,000 Bonds.

Acting on the District Supreme Court's second contempt citation against Harry M. Blackmer, former president of the Midwest Refining Co., for failure to appear as a prosecution witness at the two conspiracy trials of Harry F. Sinclair, New York oil magnate, the Government yesterday made a second levy on $100,000 worth of bonds, posted by Blackmer's counsel in the National Savings & Trust Co. after the first contempt citation.

C. W. Tyler, chief of the securities division of the Treasury Department, and F. A. Livingston, assistant chief, appraised the bonds at the request of United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder. The levy was made by Marshal Snyder and his chief deputy, Stephen B. Callahan, who apparently were satisfied that the amount of bonds would cover any possible fine imposed on Blackmer.

Copies of second levy notifications will be sent to United States representatives at Paris, Marseilles, Nice, Monaco and London, to be served on Blackmer should he be located. The action against Blackmer was taken under the provision of the Walsh act.

President and Shoemaker Discuss Old Times at Home

James Lucey, Early Adviser of Coolidge, Is Guest At White House.

Aristotle entertained his Socrates at luncheon at the White House yesterday; the pupil had his master come to see him; President Coolidge was host to that old shoemaker friend and political guide of his, James Lucey, of Northampton.

Old times were talked over by the President and Mr. Lucey, old faces and old names recalled, and friends of former days, some of whom are dead, remembered. Auld Lang Syne!

Further than this, the Northampton shoemaker—he doesn't like to be called a cobbler, because a cobbler is unskilled in his work, he said—would not discuss the conversation that took place between him and the man he has seen rise from a sophomore at Amherst.

Mr. Lucey had been quoted from Northampton as saying he intended to find out what the President plans to do after his retirement from the White House March 4, but, after his visit yesterday, he answered he had not broached the question.

The Northampton oracle is of the opinion, however, he ventured, that the President and Mrs. Coolidge will return to Northampton, for a time, at least, as the caretaker of their house there is understood to have been instructed to prepare for them.

Mr. Lucey arrived in Washington Sunday night. It is his first visit here, by the way, and he admires the Capital highly. He is stopping with a son, James Lucey, jr., of the Bureau of Research, United States Shipping Board, who has rooms at 1318 Park road northwest.

Henry Miller Service.

JAMES LUCEY.

The elder Lucey is 73 years old, though his vigor belies the fact. He called at the White House about 11 o'clock yesterday and, was the President and Mrs. Coolidge's luncheon guest at 1 o'clock. He plans to remain in Washington until tomorrow, when he will return home.

MERCURY TO FALL TO 10 ABOVE ZERO

Capital Faces Coldest Day This Year; No Relief; Worse Predicted.

WAVE HITS MIDWEST

Washington was scheduled to awaken this morning to the coldest weather of the winter, a low temperature of 10 degrees above zero being predicted by the United States Weather Bureau.

The low temperature means a continuation of the cold wave which began Sunday, and which saw the mercury tumble from a high mark of 62 degrees early Sunday, morning to a mark of 26 degrees yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. During yesterday the thermometer gradually ascended to 39 degrees at 1 o'clock, but immediately began the descent which will bring the record cold.

Falling temperatures were given impetus by the sharp northwest wind that whipped through the streets yesterday afternoon, and which sent the mercury down 17 degrees in the nine-hour period between 1 and 10 o'clock.

There is no prospect of an immediate lifting of the cold, forecasts for today indicating colder weather.

Chicago, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Eighteen deaths in the Midwest and Southwest were attributed today to a record cold wave that swooped down from Canada, blocking roads in many States and impeding railroad transportation.

No relief was in sight for the stricken area, the Government Weather Bureau here predicting still lower temperatures for tonight and tomorrow.

In the Chicago area the thermometer wavered around zero after a fall of more than 25 degrees in 24 hours. The lowest temperature here today was three degrees below zero. Eight degrees below was forecast for tonight.

Minneapolis and St. Paul shivered while the bottom dropped out of the thermometer. The mercury worked down to 17 below and threatened to go lower.

While the surrounding district put on its furs and "heavies," Medicine Hat, Saskatchewan, the reputed birthplace of cold waves and blizzards, "sweltered" in temperatures well above the zero mark, and contemplated a movement to boost the town as a winter resort.

In the neighboring province of Manitoba, Minnedosa fought through biting gales and 32 below zero weather.

James Muliqueny, 55, died of exposure in Chicago. Dr. F. W. Conway, 75, was killed when his automobile skidded on icy roads near Loganasport, Ind. Philip Atkinson was found frozen to death at Deadwood, S. Dak. The frozen body of an Indian was found at Bernard, Kans. Three deaths in Iowa were attributed indirectly to the cold wave. Wyoming reported one death from exposure. An unidentified man, who was found unconscious on the streets, died of exposure at the Kansas City police station.

Doctors here reported that many persons were treated for frozen ears and fingers. Icy sidewalks caused numerous minor injuries.

Several Vessels, In Distress, Aided

Coast Guard Cutters Tow Barges; Yacht Missing; Destroyer Damaged.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—As an aftermath of the week-end gales which swept the Atlantic Coast, the Coast Guard cutter Modoc and tug Neptune were heading tonight for Southport, N. C., each with a disabled barge in tow. The tug Peerless was towing the disabled intercoastal steamer Apolo, of the Williams Steamship Co., to Baltimore and the cutter Seminole was en route to St. Catherines Bay, Fla., to search for the yacht Gertrude.

Although the direction of the wind had shifted, tonight's reports indicated that weather conditions off the Virginia-Carolina coast still were dangerous.

The Coast Guard destroyer Beale, former Navy destroyer, reported at noon that she was battling a northwest gale off Hatteras, that she was leaking and that her foremast had been carried away and wire plant damaged. The Beale is one of five destroyers that left New London, Conn., Thursday for Charleston, S. C., to engage in target practice. All except the Beale put into Hampton Roads Saturday and escaped the worst of the storm.

FIVE BODIES FOUND IN VOLCANO'S RUINS

Many Injured in Eruption of Calbuco, in Chile—Forests Set Aflame.

HUNDREDS LOSE HOMES

Buenos Aires, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Five bodies have been recovered by carbineers from the ruin caused by eruption of the Chilean volcano Calbuco near Lake Llanquihue. The latest reports from Puerto Montt say that many injured have been taken from the stricken area.

The disturbance, which was the most intense in many years, now is subsiding and the population of the countryside is regaining tranquility, although there is death and destruction on all sides. For several days preceding its violent eruption Calbuco was increasingly active. The climax came late on Saturday and continued with unabated fury throughout Sunday. The earth rumblings which accompanied the eruption were equally terrifying to the inhabitants.

All available boats were sent across Lake Llanquihue from Puerto Varas, on the west shore, in attempt to rescue the stricken people and their live stock. The River Pescado was choked with tree trunks and steam rose from its waters as hot ashes and burning wood fell into it. The molten lava set fire to the forests and thus created an additional menace.

Calbuco is of peculiar formation, its three extremities bordering Lakes Llanquihue, Todos Santos and Chapodeasta. These lake waters have been heated by the river of lava which poured into them and the rising waters have inundated farm lands, destroying crops and killing live stock. In addition to the reported deaths and injuries it is believed that hundreds of homeless persons have fled to the mountains to escape the lava flow and low hanging clouds of gases.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Puerto Montt, based on unconfirmed reports of carbineers, state that five families, totaling 22 persons, are missing in the area over which the eruption of Calbuco has poured lava and ashes.

Positive information is still scanty owing to disrupted communications, but it is known that the region has been heavily damaged.

Miami Dedicates New City Airport

MacCracken Praises Air Mindedness; Others Join in Addresses.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—With a rapid fire program of flying events Miami concluded late today the first day of an all-American air meet celebrating the formal inauguration of its municipal airport.

The airport was formally dedicated to American and Pan-American air service by William P. MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aviation.

MacCracken, in a radio address, lauded the "air mindedness" of the city and congratulated Miami on its selection as a hub for air commerce between the United States and Central and South American nations.

With mail already being flown to Nassau, capital of the British Bahamas, Miami will witness on Wednesday the inauguration of air mail between this country and Porto Rico when the Pan-American Airways Inc., sends a plane across the island chain of the West Indies.

Prominent figures of aviation, including Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix; George Haldeman, who piloted Ruth Elder on an attempted transatlantic flight, and numerous crack pilots of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were here to lend support to the three-day program.

Throughout the day the pilots presented for several thousand spectators a variety of stunts.

Lady Heath participated in the speaking program, commenting briefly on the stage of aviation in this country. Postmaster General Harry S. New and Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, were to arrive tonight to witness tomorrow's program. On Wednesday the Postmaster General will inaugurate the Pan-American service by the Pan-American Airways, Inc.

First honors in the exhibition race for service planes went to Sergt. S. F. Belcher, of the Quantico, Va., Marines. Capt. F. C. Rogers, Marine flyer from Washington, was second, and Lieut. D. Rittenhouse, of the naval unit at Pensacola, was third.

Life for Pint of Gin Sentence Is Upheld

Michigan Supreme Court Sustains Criminal Code in Fred Palm Case.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The habituxal criminal section of the State criminal code was upheld by the State Supreme Court today when it affirmed the conviction of Fred Palm, Lansing bootlegger.

The code makes a life sentence mandatory upon conviction of four felonies.

Palm, who had previously been convicted of three other felonies, was convicted in the Ingham County Circuit Court for possession of a pint of gin and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He appealed on the ground that the mandatory provisions of the code were unconstitutional in that they are retroactive and deprived the courts of discretion.

"Experience teaches that the fear of severe punishment is more likely to rid the State of professional criminals than any effort looking to their reformation," the court decreed.

MURDER FARM TRIAL JURY NEARLY FILLED

Nature of Testimony Bars Women From Box, Both Attorneys Agree.

NORTHCOTT CLAIMS BIAS

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Gordon Stewart Northcott, accused of murdering three boys at his Wineville chicken ranch, stepped into the spotlight of his trial for the first time today. The 22-year-old Canadian, charged with having tortured and killed Lewis and Nelson Winslow and an unidentified Mexican boy, took the witness stand in behalf of an attempt of his counsel to challenge a venire of 30 men and women.

Norbert Savay, Northcott's attorney, based his challenge on grounds of bias on the part of Deputy Sheriff Charles B. Worcester, who summoned the panel.

Superior Judge George R. Freeman disallowed the challenge, and the new venire, which included ten women, was sworn to fill vacancies in the box after exhaustion of the regular panel.

Northcott testified that he considered Deputy Sheriff Worcester "to be a very sincere enemy of mine." He told of filing complaints against a 17-year-old neighbor boy and his mother.

Worcester made an arrest in each instance, Northcott said, but he declared the defendants were released before he had an opportunity to bring witnesses against them.

His testimony dealt only with his previous relations with the sheriff's office and did not touch upon his present trial for murder. Worcester, on the stand, denied "bawling out" Northcott at the time of the arrests. The "bawling out" was charged by Savay in his questioning of the deputy.

Savay announced after the close of today's session that he was prepared tomorrow to accept a jury comprised exclusively of men. Northcott has from the start of the trial insisted on women jurors.

Special Prosecutor Loyal C. Kelly, however, declared he would refuse to allow women on the jury because of the nature of the testimony. Savay concurred.

Scout Fleet Plans Canal Zone Battle

To Leave Hampton Roads This Morning Following Submarine Forces.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The scouting fleet assembled in Hampton Roads to take aboard fuel and supplies, will move southward tomorrow morning en route to the Canal Zone for joint battle maneuvers with the battle fleet.

The U. S. S. Wyoming, flagship of Vice Admiral M. M. Taylor, commanding the fleet, will lead the men of war through the Virginia Capes and down the coast.

The U. S. S. Camden, flagship of the submarine forces of the fleet, led the movement southward this morning when with fourteen S-class submarines in her train, she shoved off from the Hampton Roads naval operating base.

The fleet's visit in Hampton Roads on this occasion has been "strictly business." Busy with the task of taking aboard millions of pounds of fuel supplies, the usual formal calls on high officials in port were dispensed with by mutual agreement as all went about their business of making everything shipshape for the strenuous work ahead.

"It seems, of course, somewhat fabulous to think of an exploit of this sort. But the flight of the Question Mark stirs the imagination deeply and creates new standards against which to range our ambition."

SMUGGLING PARLEY AVOIDS EXTRADITION

U. S. Envoy in Canada Says Plea for Such Drastic Action Is Not in Plan.

CUSTOMS RULES FACTOR

Ottawa, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Contrary to expectations, no request will be made by American representatives at the antismuggling conference between Canada and the United States to have listed as extradictable offenses violations of customs and the liquor export laws, said Admiral F. C. Billard, commander of the United States Coast Guard and head of the American delegation, which arrived today.

Extradition matters are not on the agenda proposed by the United States, he said, although he intimated refusal of clearance papers by Canadian customs to liquor-laden vessels likely will be asked when the conference opens tomorrow.

Some believe public opinion would oppose as being too drastic any plan calling for extradition to either country of customs or liquor law violators, and opposition was expected also to the proposal to restrict clearance papers.

The opinion was that this last action would require an amendment to the American - Canadian antismuggling treaty of 1924, a step unlikely to get the support of the Dominion parliament without prolonged debate. Some considered that such action would be detrimental to Canadian export trade, and that a legal question as to the right of the Dominion government to prohibit export was also involved.

From Canada counter requests are expected for protection against smuggling of silks, cigarettes and some other American commodities.

The conference was called for consideration of commercial smuggling and revision of the liquor treaty. Besides Admiral Billard, the American representatives include James M. Doran, Prohibition Commissioner; E. W. Camp, Commissioner of Customs, and eight other Federal officials.

TAX REFUND CHECK REJECTED IN HOUSE

Democrats Lose Fight to Get Congressional Supervision of Treasury Action.

MELLON PARRIES CHARGE

(Associated Press.)

House Democrats yesterday lost a fight to require all tax refunds in excess of $75,000 to be passed upon by the joint congressional committee on internal revenue legislation before an appropriation could be made for their payment.

After an extended debate, an amendment to a deficiency supply bill, which carries $75,000,000 to repay a number of tax refunds now due, the House by a vote of 168 to 130 refused to return the bill to committee for inclusion of the Democratic sponsored provision. Shortly thereafter the House passed and sent the bill to the Senate.

The measure is the first deficiency bill of the present session, and would provide a total appropriation of $84,000,000 to meet emergency fiscal needs of the Government for the current fiscal year.

Byrns Introduces Amendment.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the House appropriations committee, offered the amendment, which was backed almost unanimously by the Democratic membership. Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, spoke against the proposal, but did not participate in the voting.

During consideration of the bill Representative Garner, of Texas, one of the Democratic financial spokesmen, directed an attack at a proposal to settle a claim of the United States Steel Corporation of $161,000,000 by the payment of the Government of $11,000,000, plus another $15,000,000 for interest.

While the debate on this and other tax refund matters was taking place in the House, it was announced at the Treasury that the steel company's claim had been paid.

The statement of Secretary Mellon was in the nature of a reply to a charge made by Garner that the tax refunds of the Treasury had made the Secretary "the greatest Santa Claus the country has ever seen."

Mellon Parries Accusation.

The Secretary said he had no hand in making tax refund settlements, that work being delegated by law to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Automatically, he said, those involving sums of more than $50,000 went before the general counsel of the bureau, while those of more than $75,000 had to be approved by the joint congressional committee.

"If what Mr. Garner has said were true it would be important," he said.

Garner had contended that the joint committee had not investigated the settlements sufficiently to know whether or not they should be approved and the fight on the floor today was described by the Democrats as an indirect way of accomplishing that purpose.

The Texan and other Democrats insisted that there was nothing in the statute to compel the joint committee to pass upon refunds of $75,000 or over before their payment and that they preferred such a provision written into law rather than any regulation which might exist.

King Still Gaining, Doctors Declare

Two Bulletins at Palace Tell of Fair Night and Quiet Day.

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Two medical bulletins issued today reported that King George had passed a fair night and a quiet day, although there was no noteworthy change in his majesty's condition.

But far more significant of the physicians' confidence in continuation of progress was the official announcement that only one bulletin would be issued tomorrow. It was indicated that, provided there was no relapse, the one bulletin rule probably would be continued. In that case it would be given out in the evening. Sir Hugh Rigby, the surgeon in the case, did not visit the palace this evening, his absence indicating that the condition of the wound was entirely satisfactory. Consultations of the doctors are becoming briefer daily, this evening's bulletin being issued unusually early. It came out at 7:45 p. m., and said:

"The king had a quiet day. There is no change to report in his majesty's condition. The next bulletin will be issued tomorrow evening."

Wisconsin Inducts Progressives' Foe

W. J. Kohler Takes Office as Climax of Brief Political Career.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Walter J. Kohler, Sheboygan business man and antiprogressive Republican, was inducted into office today as Wisconsin's twenty-sixth governor.

The inaugural climaxed a political career which began last spring, when Kohler became a candidate for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention. He was elected by a vote second only to that received by United States Senators LaFollette and Blaine. A candidate for governor on a liberal platform, but opposed to the LaFollette-progressive wing of the party, he defeated Fred R. Zimmerman, incumbent, and Joseph D. Beck, progressive candidate, in the primary and won out over Mayor Schedeman of Madison, the Democratic nominee, in the general election.

Progressive leaders have petitioned the State attorney general's office to institute proceedings against the new executive, charging violation of the corrupt practices act in connection with campaign expenditures. The petition has been taken under advisement.

11 Injured When Large Chemical Still Explodes

Pittsburgh, Penn., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—An explosion in the transformer section of the Allis-Chalmers Co. plant here this afternoon injured eleven workmen, one seriously. Two tanks exploded and the ironclad building housing them was partially wrecked. Plant representatives placed the loss at $35,000.

The containers which exploded were described as a vacuum tank and an "impregnating" still. Both were of large capacity and the still was utilized in the manufacture of substance for insulating coils of transformers. It held chemicals, Charles Kelly, 53 years old, who was working under the still at the time of the blast, was pinned to the floor. A coworker, Albert Dobber, 42, was injured in an attempt to extricate Kelly, who was the only one reported seriously hurt. The others were hurt when struck by debris.

WIDOW OF "WITCHCRAFT" VICTIM TESTIFIES AT BLYMYER TRIAL

onism in his voice, admitted he drove Blymyer, Curry and his brother Wilbert Hess to a spot in the woods near the Rehmeyer home.

That was the Tuesday before Thanksgiving and the night of the murder. Thanksgiving night Blymeyer came to see him.

"He wanted me to drive out and see if the Rehmeyer house had burned down," Clayton said. "He said that if it had not he was going to burn it down. He said too that he had got the man and he said a name."

Spectators Prepare to Blush.

"Said a name?" queried the district attorney.

"Yes, he said he got the man and he said a name," answered Clayton.

"What was the name?" asked the inquisitive district attorney.

"Shall I say the word?" asked the cautious Willard.

Spectators got ready to blush as the district attorney told him to go ahead and say it right out loud.

"Well, he said he got the witch," said Clayton.

Right then and there the district attorney indicated he was willing to adjourn court for the night and he retired quickly from the scene, leaving the courtroom to the witches, the hobgoblins and all the kindred things which York does not care to have people talk so much about.

Alice Rehmeyer, widow of the murdered conjurer, had been the first witness called. She was a little wizened woman, dressed in black. Her little eyes, in a pinched and wrinkled face, peered brightly from beneath an overlarge black hat.

During the afternoon she had sat in a front row seat with her two daughters. The older was dressed in black, a younger daughter was attired in a brilliant orange dress, bright red hat with silver trimming and black stockings—a decided study in colors.

Widow Begins to Weep.

Mrs. Rehmeyer had seemed in high spirit for a time and laughed and smiled with her thin lipped, sunken mouth. Then, when she heard the district attorney describe the murder of her husband, she wept into a handkerchief, which either through nervousness or by intent, she had carefully folded into a triangle and then twisted into a long roll.

On the witness stand she used that handkerchief to dry her eyes, then looked out over the courtroom, and awaited the first question. A sharp, penetrating, high-pitched voice shrilled the answers. Some time it would carry away into a weird whistle. Perhaps in another case it would not have been noticed but it added its part to the eerie atmosphere of this unusual trial.

Her testimony was brief. She told how Blymyer had come with a "man named John" to her home, next to Rehmeyer's farm, the night of the murder. They asked where Rehmeyer lived, and she told them. She identified the keys to Rehmeyer's kitchen door—for a purpose not yet clear.

She also revealed that she and her husband had not lived together for four years prior to his death. She had moved with her daughter to an adjoining farm which they owned, leaving the giant, black-bearded and haired Rehmeyer alone with his magic and his studies in witchcraft. She and her husband had remained on friendly terms however, seeing each other frequently. She was ready to explain why they lived apart, but the court ruled it was nobody's business.

Frank Lehr, clerk in a hardware store, was given a piece of the rope with which Rehmeyer had been trussed up after being beaten into unconsciousness and identified it as similar to a sale of 25 feet of rope he made the day before the murder to Blymyer and an unnamed companion.

Then came young Clayton Hess—and with his the first entry of the witches into the day's proceedings.

Throughout the court session Blymyer sat between an attorney and a deputy sheriff, keeping up a lively interest in everything. As each prospective juror was called the bailiff went through the formula:

"Juror, look at the prisoner; prisoner, gaze upon the juror; challenge or no challenge?"

Each time the formula was repeated—and it was done 45 times in the process of jury picking—Blymyer would rise, standing painfully erect, point his long sharp nose at the juror and look sharply with his small eyes. He is a pasty-faced fellow with stringy blonde hair, a small chin and sloping forehead. His most noticeable peculiarity of form is his exceptionally long arms tipped with a small-palmed hand and fingers of amazing length.

Appears Too Timid.

At times he would rub his chin with those long fingers; again he would toy with his "salt-and-pepper" cap which he rested on his knees. He was dressed in gray, with soft collar and dark four-in-hand tie, neat but not gaudy.

Blymyer plainly could not be a strong-minded man; might be taken for a man a bit eccentric, but he seemed like one too timid to do murder, and more likely to run away from ghosts and goblins than to call them around him as a practicing witch doctor.

The trial is set in a building and a courtroom far too modern to fit into its theme. The courthouse is a handsome, white stone, tall-columned structure, which even York, which is justly proud of its architecture, is ready to acclaim. The courtroom is large, as courtrooms go, having a seating capacity of 200 spectators and much room for court, jury and lawyers behind its massive oak rails. The bailiff sits in a marble stand; the witnesses within a marble booth.

The judge—Ray P. Sherwood—tall and pleasant, wears trailing black robes with dignity. Court is conducted with due solemnity, but with irksome restrictions. The crier proclaims the opening in measured words, but perhaps it is just imaginary fervor he puts into the prayer: "God save the Commonwealth and this honorable court."

Radio "Blue Law" Rule By Board Held Illegal

(Associated Press.)

There will be no blue laws governing Sunday radio broadcasting, so far as the Radio Commission is concerned. Louis G. Caldwell, general counsel of the commission, ruled yesterday that the commission has no power under the law to restrict Sunday broadcasting to religious music and oratory, as asked by the Lord's Day Alliance.

"The commission is without authority to censor programs which are broadcast over the air," Mr. Caldwell said, "or to make any regulations interfering with the right of free speech by the means of radio communication."

Savants Shun Hymen's Lure, Scientific Survey Reveals

Records Show That Only 62 Per Cent of America's Scholars of Science Are Married, Columbia Professor Finds—Physicists Fight Hardest.

New York, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—The pursuit of science has become the safest way for American men to elude marriage and scientists are perhaps the wariest prey stalked by women, it is revealed in a personal survey of nearly 10,000 men of science just completed at Teachers College of Columbia University.

Many of the fellows are so wedded to their test tubes and retorts that they escape wedlock altogether, according to the survey, which quite unexpectedly exposed hundreds of marriageable men looking happily forward to a free and single dotage. Only 62 per cent of American scientists were revealed to be married at all.

Dr. Ching-Ju Ho of Columbia, conducted the survey. He obtained the personal records of 9,912 scientists and compiled records and charts from them which are a challenge to any maiden with a drop of sporting blood in her.

A woman who sets out to marry a scientist has her work cut out for her. She has tackled a job in which the percentage of error is very high, and her own margin of provable success about eight times less than if she were stalking a matinee idol. This is the more irritating because scientists are notoriously more desirable husbands than actors, being much less likely to become a liability in their old age.

Of all scientific men, Dr. Ching-Ju found, physicists are the hardest to lead to the altar. Dr. Ching-Ju does not pretend to say why this is so in the case of physicists. He merely points out that in any gathering of 1,000 physicists, 580 of them may be expected to be eligible but confirmed bachelors. Only 42 per cent of physicists marry, and, for that matter, only 46 per cent of the chemists. Exactly half the agriculturists, engineers and geologists avoid the wedding ring successfully.

But the strangest revelation of the survey concerns the psychologists. They deal with the nuances of the mind, and are popularly credited with being the subtlest of all fighters on the frontiers of knowledge. And yet the woman who has a tamed psychologist in her home has little to boast about. The psychologists are push-overs and marry at the rate of 72 per cent.

Dr. Ching-Ju spent a great deal of his time ascertaining the median age at which the various classes of scientists softened up and became most susceptible to the charms of whatever ladies took a fancy to them. Bacteriologists succumb mostly at 27, and are the first to marry, he found. The last to give in are the physicists and medical men, who weaken, if at all, at the mean age of 30.

"We observe not infrequently that a man's vocational progress is delayed or hastened, as the case may be, by marriage," Dr. Ching-Ju remarked.

COOLIDGE GETS BILL FOR ANNEX OF HOUSE

Senate Passes Measure That Will Create New Building on Capitol Hill.

GIVES ADEQUATE OFFICES

Another addition to the stately array of public buildings on Capitol Hill was assured yesterday when the Senate passed and sent to the President the bill authorizing an annex to the House Office Building.

The legislation, which has been sought by the House for a decade, authorizes $900,000 for a site and $7,500,000 for the proposed annex. It will be erected within the area bounded by B street southeast and southwest, C street southeast and southwest, New Jersey avenue southeast and Delaware avenue southwest.

For years the members of the House have been complaining about a lack of space, especially those who now are limited to one room. When the new building is completed, each member will have a minimum of two rooms.

At times it has been necessary for a member to send his secretary and clerks out of the office in order that he might carry on a confidential conversation with a visitor. At other times, members have been known to take their visitors out in the corridors or into wash rooms in order to have privacy. The members also have said that it is difficult for them to concentrate when they have to sit in an office where typewriters are clattering.

The new building will be fireproof. Presumably it will be connected with the present House Office Building by a tunnel.

8 Threatening Letters Sent to Detroit Widow

Detroit, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—It was revealed today that the black hand squad of the Detroit Police Department has for nearly three months been seeking to learn the source of eight threatening letters sent to Mrs. Joseph A. Martin, widow of a former acting mayor of Detroit, who was killed in an automobile accident several months ago.

The first letter arrived the day after Mr. Martin's funeral and contained a demand for a large sum of money under threat that Mrs. Martin's daughters, Eileen, 12, and Marian, 8, would be kidnaped. Other letters have demanded that Mrs. Martin send $50,000 to a Chicago address, or that she meet the writer in Chicago and pay the money. Efforts to apprehend the writer in Chicago and Toledo have proved fruitless.

PACIFISTS WILL HOLD ANTICRUISER MEETING

Sprouting germs of internationalism are in evidence throughout the vast pacifist organizations now rallying against the American cruisers. Several of the most prominent church leaders have been feted and praised for their work at church conferences in London, or have received special favors from the British government, or been given positions with the league in reward for services rendered by their exploitation of public opinion in furtherance of the cause.

But today's program will, for the most part, be carried out by American pacifists and there will be an unusual frankness in dealing with the issue, while in one respect the meeting will be absolutely unique.

Senators to Be Questioned.

For example, the conference is to be called at 10 o'clock to discuss "important phases of the cruiser question," after which pacifist delegates by States are to swoop down and buttonhole the senators at the Capitol and then report publicly how their lobbying activities were in each instance rewarded.

This means that, unless plans are changed, there will be a most interesting public discussion from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. as to what this senator or that senator said when the pacifists cornered them at their offices or in the lobby. When, where and how the particular senator was buttonholed, how he responded, what was said to him and what he replied will all be in order. The assumption is that there may be very spicy reports from those delegates who have the duty to buttonhole Senator Jim Reed, for example, and in some instances it is probable that the exact wording of the senatorial replies may be censored before reproduced for the public.

The big anticruiser banquet is scheduled for 7 o'clock. All are invited to attend, provided reservations are sent in time to the "Citizens Conference on Cruisers, Hotel Washington," and provided further that these reservations are accompanied in each instance by a check for $3.

Prominent Men to Speak.

Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue of New York, who was born in Budapest, Hungary, but has become a prominent factor in American public affairs, will be the first speaker. He is to be followed by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, who was recently elected head of the Federal Council of Churches and who breathed additional power into the great pacifist lobby by recently bringing to the White House a huge petition in favor of the Kellogg treaty and against the cruiser bill.

Parker T. Moon, professor of international relations at Columbia University; Everett Colby, chairman of the executive committee of the League of Nations since 1923, and Reinhold Neibuhr, professor in Union Seminary, New York, are also listed as speakers.

Advance notices of today's proceedings include announcement that the speakers during the day will include Representative Morton D. Hull, of Illinois; F. W. Dallinger, of Massachusetts; Senator Brookhart and Senator Nye "who are among the leading opponents of the cruiser bill;" Edward T. Evans, Philadelphia lawyer; William T. Stone, editor of the research department of the Foreign Policy Association, and Frederic A. Delano, president of the American Civic Association and president of the Washington Community Chest.

Born in Hongkong.

There is no foreign aspect to this group of speakers, it being a mere coincidence that Mr. Delano was born in British territory at Hongkong, China.

"Forceful expression of widespread public opinion against this cruiser construction program is expected to result from this conference together with substantial arguments to sustain the position of the opponents of the measure in the United States Senate," according to the advance announcement.

The fact that President Coolidge, as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, has told Congress and the American people that the cruiser bill is necessary to national defense and should be passed will not deter the pacifists from their course. Nor will the fact that President-elect Hoover, in his acceptance speech, insisted upon adequate national defense have any weight with the anticruiser organizations. They are striving for a goal far more lofty and far more in accord with true internationalism and peace than are American statesmen.

ROYAL DICTATOR

Henry Miller Service.

KING ALEXANDER I of Jugoslavia, who has assumed control of his government after suspending the constitution and dissolving the chamber of deputies as the result of a cabinet crisis.

Prince of Thibet Sued for "Balm"

Chicago Woman Seeking $27,000 in Breach of Promise Case.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Joveddah de Rajah, who styles himself "Prince of Thibet," was all too convincing when he preached over the radio on "How to be happy though married" Mrs. Wilhelmina Halliday complained in a Superior Court suit filed today.

She heard his radio lecture from New York while listening in New Brunswick, N. J., she said, and when she called on him she felt that his second lecture on "the true attainment of happiness," was being realized. And now, Mrs. Halliday charged, the self-styled prince is practicing the precepts of his third sermon on "how to love and forget."

So Mrs. Halliday asked Joveddah for $25,000 for breach of promise and $2,000 for fraud and deceit. She said the prince registers from Tiscenter, Thibet, son of the maharajah.

DICTATORSHIP HELD JUGOSLAVIA'S HOPE

King Alexander Sets Up Military Government for His People.

EUROPE WATCHES RESULT

London, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—King Alexander's establishment of a virtual dictatorship in the triple kingdom of Jugoslavia brought Europe up against another step in the postwar disintegration of artificially formed parliamentary governments, observers pointed out today.

Italy, Germany and England are watching closely the swiftly moving drama in Belgrade and it is generally expected that the king's ability to conduct a military government will decide the fate of the strife-torn kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, according to United Press dispatches.

The Italian capital expressed no surprise at the establishment of a dictatorial government as a result of jealousy between Serbs and Croatians. Since the formation of the kingdom in 1921—when European men arbitrarily manufactured one nation from three most contrasting races—the Croats have charged the Belgrade government with infringement on Croatian rights, especially in connection with relations with Italy.

It was understood at Rome today, however, that Italy positively would not take advantage of her neighbor's plight to further her own ends.

London observers saw King Alexander's action as adding another to the list of dictatorships or semidictatorships in Europe, which already includes Italy, Spain, Russia, Hungary, Turkey, Bulgaria, Roumania, Poland and Albania. It was pointed out that, in the decade since 1919, about nine-tenths of the area of Europe has abrogated parliamentary government for some form of personal dictatorship.

Berlin is chiefly interested in the purpose of the dictatorship, which is said to envisage only temporary abolition of the national parliament, town councils and to have the ultimate purpose of granting autonomy to component nationalities in the triple kingdom.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Jan. 7 (United Press).—Premier Gen. Petra Zivkovitch expressed the attitude of the new government of Jugoslavia briefly but pointedly when newspaper men attempted to question him today after he had announced the military cabinet.

"We will not talk," he said. "We intend to work hard, and you may judge the results."

The king was given a great ovation when he appeared at a window in the palace after issuing the proclamation suspending the constitution and dissolving parliament.

There was great excitement in the capital, but the king's drastic action in attempting to overcome the political rivalry between Serbs and Croats met with the approval of crowds, at least.

They swarmed the streets crying:

"Long live King Alexander! Long live Jugoslavia!"

The country was compar tively quiet tonight. Police had to stop one political fight in a cafe at Zagreb, Croatian capital, Sunday night.

Suicide Gives Horror Of Blindness as Cause

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—H. R. Hartenstein, 45 years old, of New York City, leaped to his death today from the ninth floor of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel here.

He left a letter and two notes, one addressed "To Whom It May Concern," in which he said that he ended his life because he feared he was going blind.

AUTO INJURIES KILL HIT-AND-RUN VICTIM

B. R. Queensberry, Knocked From Machine, Was Hurt by Third in Mishap.

WITNESSES ARE CALLED

As a result of injuries suffered Sunday night when he was struck by a hit-and-run automobile and hurled in front of another machine going in the opposite direction on the highway between Baltimore and Laurel, Buford R. Queensberry, of Benedict, Charles County, died early yesterday morning at St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore.

A short time after being admitted to the hospital, another Benedict resident, James C. Payne, who was said to have been a companion of Queensberry at the time of the double accident, was admitted to the same hospital and was treated for denatured alcoholic poisoning.

He was much improved yesterday and is being held for the coroner's inquest at 10 o'clock today at the Southwestern Police Station at Baltimore.

Another witness at the inquest will be James Schnaar, of 135 Broadway, New York City, the driver of the second automobile that struck Queensberry.

Schnaar, who said he was bound for Florida to work for Tex Rickard, surrendered to the police at Laurel. He was not detained, but volunteered to remain for the inquest.

Queensberry was struck and fatally injured while walking along the road, according to details gathered by Baltimore and Laurel police. He was hit by an automobile headed for Baltimore, and was hurled directly in the path of Schnaar's machine, which ran over him. The first car did not stop and vanished before it was identified.

Queensberry's skull and one leg were fractured, according to hospital doctors.

Bandits Wearing Rouge Get $5,000 in Dice Game

New Orleans, La., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Five men, made up with rouge, burned cork and false eyebrows, staged a private show entitled "Hands Up!" before a select little dice party in St. Bernard Parish yesterday, and today they were $5,000 richer because of their efforts.

Although the act was far from funny for the gamblers, six shooters made it convincing. One of the "actors" threatened to "blow the audience to hell" if the skit was stopped. It was not stopped.

Shopping with Bab on Connecticut Avenue

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

What do you think? Our beautiful George Houston is in town this week in a new musical comedy. I saw him last night. Of course, his performance was too wonderful and he sang divinely. He is the most romantic figure, isn't he? You remember he sang a short program for us at the luncheon we gave for Mrs. Coolidge a few weeks ago and she seemed to enjoy it so sincerely.

Isn't it exciting to have the Hoovers back again, if only for a short time? I envy them going to Florida. So many people are going down this month. It seems I have never known a time when so many of my friends had the same idea.

Going Away Means Clothes

—for warm climes. I had the pleasure of seeing the first arrivals in clothes for Southern wear at Margaret Gray's, 1702 Connecticut avenue, yesterday. What charming things! A pale blue moire evening gown follows the featured trend of fashion and takes its chic from its clever cut. No trimming on it whatever, needless to say. Margaret Gray shows numbers of satin evening gowns in pastel colors for Southern wear, angora coats in pale colors and has the sweetest negligees. Mrs. Gray says the things are snapped up almost as soon as they arrive.

Reduced Prices Still Prevail

—in the shop of Mrs. Gaither and Miss Williams, 1621 Connecticut avenue. There are two or three ensemble suits which are such spectacular values that I urge you to go in and have a look at them, providing, of course, that they are not gone already.

A Paris model in soft green cloth has a short coat and a sweater of green and silver. The coat has an upstanding collar and flared cuffs of shaded gray krimmer. The suit is just too smart!

A green satin evening dress will interest you, I am sure, as the price is greatly reduced, and satins are just reaching the peak of their interest.

Several cocktail jackets in unusual designs, sports dresses with kerchief scarfs and odds and ends of casual frocks may be picked up here this week to your great advantage.

Portraits to Travel With

—may seem a bit of an innovation. This is the season when people, particularly older people, start off on cruises to the East, West and South. You wish them bon voyage—and hope they'll have a dandy time—but how much happier their going away would be with a new Underwood and Underwood portrait of the dearest members of the family.

Underwood and Underwood have splendid leather cases for carrying pictures securely when traveling. You will be glad to find all styles for varying numbers of photographs. One style is very flat and thin, just right for carrying in the pocket.

Going away with pictures of dear ones in pocket or traveling bag gives one a feeling of peace and security, which adds greatly to the happiness the journey should bring.

Delicious Waffles Or Toasted Sandwiches

—are particularly appetizing these crisp, wintry days. Venezia, 1336 Connecticut avenue, makes a specialty of several other toothsome dainties too.

This is one of the most unique restaurants in Washington. It is a replica of an Italian courtyard and very well done.

Venezia is open for a la carte service from eight in the morning until midnight. Luncheon is 55 cents and 75 cents. Dinner is one dollar.

You Will Have a Better Time

—at any party if you go knowing that you are looking your very best. A professional woman or a busy society woman has enough on her mind, so that lines and tired marks may show at the end of even a perfect day. It is only sensible to have some one you can trust give you a face treatment which will bring up the circulation, iron out the disfiguring wrinkles and leave you blooming and beautiful. You feel wonderful and look it after a treatment at Lollie Marsden's, 1702 Connecticut avenue. This salon is just across the hall from Margaret Gray's. Lollie Marsden will come to your house and will make appointments after hours. Call North 6709.

Old Hangings Of Sail-Cloth

—stitched perhaps by the idle pirates of an uneventful cruise, have found their way, as mysteriously as these old things do, into that interesting antique shop known as The Junk-snuppers, 1338 New Hampshire avenue. They were brought to this country by somebody's sea-faring great-grandfather many years ago. They are of gayly colored patchwork with crude sail-stitching, a perfect find!

Two old grandfather clocks of early origin will interest you immensely. There are bits of Sheraton and Hepplewhite, glass and brass. Do go in to see what a treasure place it is!

The Beauty of Russian Women

—has been famous since time immemorial. The beauty secrets of the ladies of the Russian court were as jealously guarded as their jewels. Modern women seize every opportunity to acquaint themselves with the mysteries.

Russina, 1609 Connecticut avenue, has a Russian chemist who prepares the preparations used in her salon. Those who know say that many of the best Russian methods are used right through the Russina treatments. This salon gives a complete service with attention to the hair and scalp, a shampoo that women are so enthusiastic about, smart cuts and waves, and everything to make it easy to be well-groomed.

Call Russina for an appointment. Dec. 1677.

"Diner Parfait" At Wardman Park

—every Saturday night brings out gay parties of dancers, young and old. There is no place in Washington where you have more fun, with such a small expenditure too. Dinner and dancing in the most attractive imaginable environment, for $2.50 a plate makes a combination few can resist.

The Wardman Park Orchestra and special entertainers add greatly to the gayety. If you are thinking of giving a party to pay back some of your obligations, or just because you want to get your friends together, I can think of no way you could do so much with so little expense, and after all that is an item with most of us.

Affectionately,

BARNETT INDIAN CASE BRINGS PLOT CHARGE

Commissioner Burke Claims Senator Pine Is Trying to Destroy Him.

FALL IS NAMED AGAIN

(Associated Press.)

The case of Jackson Barnett, an aged and wealthy Creek Indian, which in years gone by has filled many pages of congressional testimony, bobbed up again at the Capitol yesterday at a hearing of the Senate Indian affairs committee and immediately a flow of charges issued.

Charles H. Burke, commissioner of Indian affairs, one of the witnesses, declared Senator W. B. Pine, of Oklahoma, was involved in a conspiracy to "destroy me and the Indian service." He said Pine, who is a member of the committee, sought to do so because Judge Hepburn, who Burke described as "a certain Oklahoma politician," had not been appointed superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes.

Burke appeared after the committee had called for questioning a number of witnesses, including Hubert Work, a former Interior Secretary; Attorney General Sargent, Assistant Attorney General Parmenter and Solicitor General Mitchell to explain why a grand jury investigation of distribution of more than $1,000,000 belonging to Barnett was not pressed last summer.

Pine Questions Witnesses.

Senator Pine, who was present at the hearing, at one juncture brought out that an official of the Department of Justice, who Burke said was appointed by Pine to aid him in carrying out this "dastardly conspiracy" to destroy him, in fact, had not entered the department until after the Barnett case had developed.

Another witness, Charles B. Selby, of Oklahoma City, a special assistant to the Attorney General, said under questioning by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, and Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, that he had been directed by the solicitor general not to proceed with the case after he had been investigating it for three years.

During the questioning of this witness, the Montana senator also read a letter said to have been written by the solicitor general to Selby in which the Attorney General said he has received "information" from the Department of Interior which caused him to order the proceedings stopped.

Fall Accused Again.

While on the stand, Selby charged that Anna Laura Lowe, who married Barnett, her attorney, Harold C. McGugan, and A. J. Ward, a Creek tribal attorney, had joined in a conspiracy.

He accused Ward of suggesting a plan by which more than a million dollars of Barnett's money was divided between the woman, the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, and M. L. Mott, a former Creek attorney. Continuing, Selby also said it was his opinion that Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, who, he declared, had promulgated an amendment to the Indian law by which the restrictions on Barnett's estate were removed, was guilty of conspiracy "if he was not deceived by others" connected with the case.

Further, Selby added, Commissioner Burke also was guilty of the same charge.

CLASH ON INDIAN ADMINISTRATION

Senator W. B. Pine, of Oklahoma (left), was the object of a verbal attack launched yesterday before the Senate Indian committee by Charles Burke (right), Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Pine, Burke said, was involved in a conspiracy to destroy him and the Indian service.

LEADERS IN CONGRESS LIST HOOVER FOR EXTRA SESSION

itor at the Hoover headquarters in the Mayflower Hotel, where all of the conferences took place, but he did not talk with Mr. Hoover. Klein's name has been prominently mentioned in connection with the post.

The belief is growing that no one like Morrow will be named Secretary of State. Instead there is a feeling in many quarters that Mr. Hoover will be his own Secretary of State, and that the appointee to the post will be one to carry out his ideas rather than always be evolving ideas of his own.

Fletcher to be Considered.

It is inevitable that the name of Ambassador Fletcher should come prominently into the discussion now after his tour with Mr. Hoover as an advisor on Latin-American affairs. The President-elect is known to have been highly pleased with Mr. Fletcher's work, too, and it is quite likely that the ambassador will have some place in which his knowledge of Latin-American affairs may be made use of. It is considered unlikely that he will get a Cabinet post.

Causing more interest in observers, in fact, than any of the names submitted yesterday to Mr. Hoover was the call of Henry M. Robinson, of Los Angeles, who served on the Dawes reparations commission. He conferred with Mr. Hoover. He has heretofore been mentioned for Secretary of the Treasury in the event Mr. Mellon should not remain.

Steady Stream of Callers.

If Mr. Hoover really has an open mind about his Cabinet at this late stage of things, he, of course, did not make any progress on it with yesterday's recommendations. It was not a day for decisions with him, this first day at his desk since his return from his good-will mission. Instead, with the exception of the call on President Coolidge at 9:30 in the morning, his role was that of listening to those who called on him.

The callers kept up a fairly steady stream, too. The President-elect has taken over ten rooms on the third floor of the Mayflower and there he is to hold conferences for a week or ten days before leaving for the South. On the mezzanine floor of the hotel a workshop has been set up for newspaper men. His stay here, it has been explained, is for the purpose of getting information and not to give expression to anything he has in mind.

He was closeted with President Coolidge for three-quarters of an hour. The conversation was later said to have dealt with Mr. Hoover's trip. The subject of the forthcoming European reparation parleys may have been broached but could not have been given an extended study.

Vice President-elect Curtis was a dinner guest at Mr. Hoover's S street home last night. It was the first time they had met since they were elected together in November. Quite likely some of the more important of Mr. Hoover's conferences here will take place at the Hoover home of evenings Edgar A. Ricard, of New York, Mr. Hoover's close private business partner, is a house guest. Fanciful flights of popular cabinet discussion sometimes include him, but his staying at the Hoover home at this time would have no bearing on it, even should be really turn out to be one of the official family.

Senator Borah is expected to be invited to the hotel for a conference today. It had been understood, in fact, that he would be one of the first callers yesterday. By the time he gets up to the hotel he will quite likely find that Mr. Hoover has already accepted the senator's view of the need for the extra session.

McCarl Again Loses In Alien Escape Trial

Action of the District Supreme Court some months ago in ordering issuance of a writ of mandamus against Comptroller General John R. McCarl directing him to certify a voucher to the Treasury Department for a refund of a $7,000 immigration fine to the Societa Ligure di Armeamento, an Italian corporation, was upheld yesterday by the District Court of Appeals.

The fine was assessed against the corporation as owner of the steamship Marto, from which seven seamen escaped while the ship was docked at New Orleans on Nov. 20, 1924. Permitted to leave New Orleans, the ship docked at Norfolk, Va., for coal, and there immigration authorities insisted on payment of the fine. Decision that the fine was improperly collected came from an investigation, and a refund was authorized by the Secretary of Labor, but McCarl refused to certify the voucher.

Supreme Court Denies Navy Tragedy Review

(Associated Press.)

The tragedy of the submarine S-51 is not a subject for judicial inquiry by the Supreme Court. In refusing a review of cases brought from lower courts, the highest court yesterday so decided.

The S-51 was rammed by the steamship City of Rome off Block Island September 25, 1925. The estates of Lieut. Rodney H. Dodson, its commander, Lieut. James D. Haselden, jr., and Ensign Edmund W. Egbert, sued the Government for damages. They lost in the lower courts, which held the pension law was the limit of the Government's liability.

SALVATION COUNCIL FACES CRISIS TODAY

Gen. Booth, Ill, May Lose Power as Result of London Meeting.

DECLARED COMPETENT

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—A veil of silence was drawn over both camps in the Salvation Army controversy today on the eve of the meeting of the high council which is to decide whether Gen. Bramwell Booth is to continue as commander in chief of the organization. It was broken only by a bulletin issued by Dr. John Weir, physician to the Prince of Wales, and Dr. Ernest Wardlaw Milne, regular advisor to the general. In it they said that the general's mental capacity had been unimpaired by his long illness and that he would be ready to resume his work in six months.

The medical pronouncement was recognized by both sides as a strong weapon for the adherents of the general and one of the officials at international headquarters said tonight: "I shall be the most surprised man in the army if Gen. Booth is not adjudicated fit to continue his leadership."

Booth Unable to Attend Meeting.

The medical certificate revealed, nevertheless, that Bramwell Booth was too ill to attend the council meeting at Sunbury-on-Thames with safety.

It was stated officially at international headquarters that the leader would send a message to the council, but there was no hint as to its import. He will be kept in touch with the proceedings by his wife and his daughter, Catherine, who will have at their disposal direct telephone between Sunbury House and the Booth cottage at Southwold. They intend to use this means of communication in order to obtain advice and instructions from the general.

It was learned also that Commander Evangeline Booth, the general's sister and leader of the element which seeks reform in the army constitution, intends to address the council several times. She is expected to emphasize that there is no desire on the part of her faction to weaken in any way the international solidarity of the army.

General Needs 16 Votes to Hold Place.

Only 63 members of the high council will gather tomorrow. The absentee is Commissioner William E. Oliphant, of London. He is in the south of France on sick leave. His absence means that Gen. Booth needs only sixteen instead of seventeen votes to retain his leadership. Nine of these are assured in the four members of his immediate family and five other commissioners from international headquarters in London.

Deep secrecy is to surround the council proceedings. Once the councilors have entered the grounds they will not be expected to leave until the meeting is over. Newspaper reporters will be rigorously excluded and the only news given out will be through official bulletins authorized by the councilors.

An authorized statement from Southwold tonight said that while Gen. Booth had been strong enough to sit up lately he was in no sense strong enough to attend the council meeting. Mrs. Bramwell Booth will attend the high council tomorrow as a commissioner in her own right and will lead her husband's defense before the council.

Gen. McIntyre Takes Position in Philippines

Maj. Gen. Frank McIntyre, recently retired chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, War Department, has accepted a position from Gov. Gen. Stimson of the Philippine Islands as resident trade commissioner there.

The offer is in accord with a recent measure enacted by the Islands Legislature authorizing Gov. Gen. Stimson to employ by contract for three years a person to work with the Insular Affairs Bureau in development of trade between this country and the Philippines.

Teapot Dome Up In Senate Again

Walsh Explains to Bruce Why Fall Has Not Been Put on Trial.

(Associated Press.)

An old familiar subject, Teapot Dome, came back to the Senate floor yesterday for a moment when Senator Bruce (Democrat), Maryland, asked Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, the status of the Government's effort to bring to trial Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, on charge of conspiracy with Harry F. Sinclair.

Bruce asked Walsh, who prosecuted the inquiries before a Senate committee, why Fall was being dealt with "with such superior gentleness."

Senator Walsh replied that a date had been set for the trial but that Fall had pleaded inability to appear because of illness. A similar plea was made by Fall when he was asked to appear before the Senate committee, Walsh said, whereupon a commision was appointed to determine Fall's physical condition.

"Subsequently, Fall appeared before the committee and refused to testify," Senator Walsh added. He said he understood the courts here had decided upon a commission to determine when the former Secretary could stand trial.

Fall was to have been tried with Sinclair, but when the former Secretary fell ill the oil operator was tried alone and was acquitted.

KEYES CODEFENDANT TO AID PROSECUTION

Berman Indictments Dismissed to Obtain Bribery Testimony for State.

MORE THAN 40 SUMMONED

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—On motion of Robert Stewart, deputy district attorney, the indictment against Jacob Berman, promoter of the defunct Julian Corporation, charging bribery and conspiracy, was dismissed by Superior Judge Edwin I. Butler today. Stewart said that Berman had agreed to turn State's evidence against former District Attorney Asa Keyes, who is accused of accepting bribes to obtain the acquittal of Julian officials on fraud charges.

Keyes and six codefendants were ordered to appear for trial here today on charges of bribery and conspiracy growing out of the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock overissue frauds.

District Attorney Buron Fitts, who once was a subordinate to Keyes, subpenaed more than two score witnesses and announced that he was prepared to demand immediate trial.

Among the first expected to be called are Joseph Sherman, Milton Pike and John Rettenger, whose notes in a small diary became the testimony upon which the grand jury largely based its indictments. The trio were employes in the now famous Spring street tailor shop of Ben and David Getzoff, alleged go-betweens in the payoff of asserted bribes.

In addition to Keyes and the Getzoffs, the defendants now are Ed and Jack Rosenberg, brokers and former defendants in the Julian fraud cases, and Charles Reimer, former confidential investigator for Keyes.

Appeal Lost by U. S. In War Canning Action

The United States Government may be prevented from recovering a claim of $439,210.64 from the Alaska Packers Association, of San Francisco, Calif., as the result of a ruling made yesterday by the District Court of Appeals. The court decided service of a process against the packers association was faulty, as the association had no officer in the District and the suit could not be properly brought here.

The Government claimed the sum involved on the ground it was collected fraudulently by the association in connection with the sale of canned salmon to the Army during the World War. The case was argued last spring and has been under advisement by the court since. The opinion, rendered by Chief Justice George E. Martin, affirmed the action of the District Supreme Court.

"I know an easy way to keep from getting fat . . . . . Light a Lucky instead of eating sweets."

Nazimova
Famous Stage Star

THE modern way to diet! Light a Lucky when fattening sweets tempt you. That's what thousands of lovely women are doing—successfully. The delicately toasted flavor of Luckies makes them a delightful alternative for fattening sweets. Toasting does it. Toasting removes the impurities and improves the flavor of the finest tobacco. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Men who pride themselves on keeping fit discovered this long ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition—many prominent athletes have testified to this fact. They discovered, too, that Luckies don't irritate the throat—a fact subscribed to by 20,679 physicians.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

MEANS OF SELF-DEFENSE.

There are indications that an agreement will be reached for a vote on the Kellogg treaty, whereby senators apprehensive of the integrity of the Monroe Doctrine may be satisfied by the adoption of a resolution stating that the treaty, in the Senate's opinion, does not impair the national right of self-defense.

If the Senate will only go ahead and approve the treaty without attaching reservations or amendments, it will not matter what resolution it may adopt. Any resolution purporting to reserve the right of self-defense and the unimpaired integrity of the Monroe Doctrine would be mere surplusage. The treaty does not affect the right of self-defense, and therefore does not affect the integrity of the Monroe Doctrine, which is the soul of American defense and nothing else.

After the treaty shall have been approved the Senate should proceed to the enactment of the cruiser bill. Only the feeble-minded hold that the Kellogg treaty makes national defense unnecessary. If the cruisers had already been provided, does any one imagine that their existence would have made the Kellogg treaty inconsistent with American policy? The treaty renounces war, but does not provide against the contingency of war. The nations that are ready to ratify the Kellogg treaty are providing for their defense by armies and navies. Several of these nations are so strong on the seas that they could destroy neutral commerce with impunity. American commerce would be destroyed along with all other neutral commerce unless the United States Navy were strong enough to protect ships flying the American flag.

It is hoped that the Kellogg treaty may be the precursor of a world agreement limiting navies. It is a pious hope, in which the United States shares. But the limitation of armaments is a reciprocal proposition. The existence of the United States warns it not to assume that naval limitation will be easily arranged. No nations have yet agreed to any limitation except when they obtained an advantage over the United States. Their agreement to renounce war may help to convince them that it is safe and wise to agree to a general and genuine limitation of navies. Whenever they reach that conclusion the United States will be found ready to join in the agreement. The proposed cruisers are not intended to make the United States supreme upon the sea, so that the other nations will be browbeaten into an agreement; the cruisers will barely provide for the safety of American commerce in the event of war in which this country is not involved.

The Navy must be kept effective if the United States is to be safe and fairly exempt from war. The overture for limitation of navies should come from the naval powers that are stronger than the United States. They can safely quit further building, as their fleets are already strong enough to protect them as neutrals. But the United States Navy is not strong enough to protect this Nation as a neutral; so the United States can not safely neglect the strengthening of its fleet.

After the Kellogg treaty has been ratified by all nations it will be proper for them to consider the reduction of naval power by common and equitable agreement. Until the nations have actually reached a naval limitation agreement the United States must face the situation that now exists, with foreign navies stronger than the United States Navy, and with no law except the guns of the United States Navy to prevent the destruction of American commerce.

All senators who are laying stress upon the necessity of retaining unimpaired the right of self-defense are bound to vote for the means of maintaining the right.

TAKING HUMAN LIFE.

Another innocent citizen has been killed as a result of a breakneck race in the streets between police and bootleggers. For the sake of enforcing one law the police join criminals in breaking a vital, fundamental law designed to protect human life. The Police Department has adopted a rule that suspends the rights of citizens to safe occupation of the streets whenever a policeman decides to chase a bootlegger. The traffic laws are thus amended so that their true meaning is as follows:

"The object of traffic regulation in the District of Columbia is to protect human life, provided that protection of human life shall be suspended, and human life may be taken without recourse during the chasing of bootleggers or persons suspected of bootlegging."

In the Capital, under the eyes of Congress, the agencies set up for the protection of human life are swept aside by the public's own defenders. The excuse for this violation of the laws is not that a sudden assault is made upon the public by red-handed outlaws burning, pillaging and killing, and that private safety is necessarily subordinated in an attempt by the police to quell the marauders. The only excuse is that individuals suspected of having liquor in their possession have come within sight of the police. On the ground that the suspects must be captured at any cost, the public safety laws are instantly suspended and citizens upon the street are subjected to danger of maiming and sudden death, both by the suspects and by the police.

This situation is so insane, so violative of fundamental rights, that Congress is warranted in turning aside from other matters for an hour or two, long enough to put a stop to the official insanity that threatens the life of citizens using the public thoroughfares. No one, from the President of the United States down to the humblest citizen, is safe on Washington streets so long as this official abuse of the law is permitted to continue.

CHICAGO'S WORLD FAIR.

Vice President Dawes and Senators Deneen and Glenn, of Illinois, appeared before the House ways and means committee last week in the interest of the Hawley bill dealing with the proposed world fair in Chicago in 1933. The Vice President, whose brother, Rufus Dawes, is chairman of the fair organization, spoke favorably of the Hawley bill in the belief that collective activity will give the fair a chance of success.

The new idea on which sponsors of the fair base their hope for its success is cooperation of all interests in the same industry in exhibitions that will show the progress of the entire country. The plan is to select only those exhibitions which have a definite bearing on the progress of the industry they represent. It is safe to assume that this arrangement would be an improvement over the old competitive type of displays, but its merits are hardly sufficient to justify the conclusion that the proposed fair would be a success.

The Government should carefully guard against any attempt to involve the United States in the undertaking. If Chicago insists on having another world exposition in spite of the failure of all such recent ventures it is Chicago's privilege to do so. But the Government should not be drawn in with the expectation that any deficit shall come from the Treasury.

The Hawley bill does not call for an appropriation, but authorizes the President to invite the participation of other nations after it has been proved to his satisfaction that the Chicago World Fair Centennial Celebration Corporation has available a sum not less than $5,000,000. The plan is to have the industries represented make their exhibits at their own expense. While the bill does not call for any specific expenditure by the Government, care should be taken that the United States does not become morally obligated to meet any deficit. Philadelphia was not legally bound to meet the expenses of the recent Sesquicentennial Exposition, but the moral responsibility incurred left the city with a debt of more than $800,000. The Government can not afford to sponsor the Chicago fair or any other fair.

It is extremely doubtful whether any new plan of exhibition is novel enough to make an international fair pay. Under such conditions Congress should not allow the Government to be drawn into the venture with any semblance of responsibility for the financial outcome.

DO AWAY WITH CASH PAY ROLLS.

Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Crime Commission, has announced appointment of a committee of study pay roll robberies and to devise some means of eliminating this type of crime. This is probably the most profitable type of robbery practiced in the United States. It is to be hoped that the committee will work out some plan for better protection of money during the transfer between employer and employe.

Not long ago an armored car was held up in New York and a gang stole $150,000 from the guards while a large number of people looked on. The criminals were never apprehended. Such a robbery is only possible when plans for the transfer of money are known by the criminal element. Pay roll money is usually carried regularly over a definite route, making it easy for gangs to lay their plans in advance and to escape without a very great risk.

When a change of method can make a robbery impossible the change should be made. In this case it appears that much more can be done by changing the methods of transferring money from employer to employe than by trying to checkmate pay roll robbers. The special committee will no doubt attack the problem from this angle.

The carrying of large amounts of cash into a factory is an invitation to robbers. Many large institutions have adopted the modern method of pay checks, and there is no reason why some such system can not be universally adopted. At present many employes object to payment in checks or warrants on the ground that they are difficult to turn into cash. But this drawback can be easily overcome. A large percentage of the business of the country is done on paper. Checks can be drawn in such a way as to permit the payee to identify himself without confusion or danger of fraud. This method has been found acceptable to banks and insurance companies, and should certainly prove satisfactory to concerns with large pay rolls.

HOUSE OF DETENTION.

Where is the House of Detention to be located? No satisfactory suggestion has been brought forward. The site suggested by police officials, far out in the northeastern section of the city, was opposed by the chief of the Woman's Bureau, and is obviously unsuited to the purpose. The Woman's Bureau finds most of its work in the congested zone; its headquarters should not be established far from the center of activity. It was suggested that the Government hotels, in Union Station Plaza, might be used temporarily, but Corporation Counsel Bride has held that their use would not be legal. A committee has been appointed to search further for temporary quarters, and it is suggested that when the time limit on the B street address expires, January 21, the bureau and the House of Detention be moved to a police station.

The Woman's Bureau could function from a police station headquarters well enough for a short time, but the House of Detention should never be located in a station house. Women and children are given shelter in the House of Detention. Not all of them are criminals, and they should not be stigmatized as lawbreakers.

It was suggested at one time that one of the old hotels in Pennsylvania avenue might be converted to this purpose. Might it not be wise to consider temporary occupation of a building of this sort, one that will not be demolished until toward the conclusion of the Federal building program?

PUGILISM'S MAGICIAN GONE.

The death of Tex Rickard leaves the fine art of pugilism without its most important agency—the link between the fighters and the public pocketbook. Tex Rickard, by exercising peculiar gifts, made money for himself, created millionaires out of bruisers, and gave a jaded public much diversion, for which it willingly footed the bill. But who else can do that?

Like other American industries, pugilism rapidly expanded when it came under the magic sway of a master of mass production. Tex Rickard thought he was entering the class of big business when he offered a purse of $30,000 in the fight between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson at Goldfield in 1906. But the public hadn't seen anything yet. It was so easy to increase the purses by public cooperation that pugilism became a leading industry. Tex Rickard found that he could bring about such cooperation between the lovers of the sport and popular contenders that the size of the purse was a secondary consideration. The main difficulty was in finding a stadium big enough to accommodate the crowd. Tex also transformed the sport, making it a smart society event to which women contributed by the charm of their presence in expensive boxes.

Tunney's withdrawal left a hiatus that would have taxed the ingenuity of Rickard to fill. He relied upon Jack Dempsey as the chief drawing card, but the problem of finding a foeman worthy of Jack's steel fist was not easy. Now, with Tex Rickard gone, the problem is more difficult than ever, and pugilism may fall upon seedy and shabby days unless a promoter possessing some of Rickard's genius should appear. Prize fights are a poor show unless at least $1,000,000 hangs in the balance, to be captured by a happy jab or lost by a second's lack of wind.

AIR MAIL HEROES.

When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was an air-mail pilot and the world had not yet heard his name, he upheld the tradition of the United States mail service so well that an astute person might have discerned heroic qualities in him. The young pilot was flying with a load of mail from St. Louis to Chicago. Arriving at the Chicago airport he was unable to land because of a dense fog, and for hours he circled about the field. When it became apparent that his gasoline would not hold out until the fog lifted, he flew away from the city and saved himself with his parachute as the motor ceased to hum. Landing successfully he groped his way two miles across the country and salvaged the mail pouches in the wrecked plane before he would submit to medical examination.

Col. Lindbergh's act was not unusual, however, if the record of other air-mail pilots is taken into consideration. An example of devotion to duty no less striking was given Sunday by Pilot Norman Potter, who flies the route from Cheyenne to Omaha. Potter's plane crashed, clipped off the top of a large cottonwood tree, and struck a residence east of Fort Crook, Nebr. The pilot suffered a gash on the head, but this did not prevent him from reentering the plane, after it had exploded, to save the mail cargo. Rescuers had to fight the pilot to keep him away from the plane, so anxious was he to preserve the mail intrusted to his care.

Such incidents as these bear witness of the fact that Herodotus' famous saying, carved in the stone of the New York City Postoffice, has become the motto of the air-mail pilot: "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed tasks."

Russia's scheme is to make the farmer sell his wheat at 40 cents; then selling it abroad at 90 cents and keeping the 50 cents profit to enrich the cities.

Big universities are losing interest in football. When hick colleges lick you, there's nothing to do but yawn and say it's no game for gentlemen.

Bolivia and Paraguay won't fight. By the time an orderly is assigned to each general there won't be anybody left to serve as cannon fodder.

Various groups claim credit for the recent victory at the polls, and there's nothing to do except wait and see who gets the job.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why not ask Congress to call a convention to prepare a District of Columbia code to submit to Congress?

NATHANIEL BACON.

Constitution Suspended.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Among the headlines in this morning's Post is one which reads, "Jugoslav King Suspends Constitution." The Jugoslav King is only following a conspicuous precedent. Here in the United States we have a Congress which every now and then suspends our Constitution. It has been suspending that instrument in one notable particular since 1921, and gives no material evidence that it will at any near date follow the injunction and give the people an opportunity to elect a genuinely lawful Congress. The one we now have is only a Congress de facto, and not a Congress de jure. F. M. J.

New Talkies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In editorially discussing the need of an extra session of Congress you say "By concentrating its efforts upon farm relief and tariff revision Congress can complete this legislation by July 1." In writing that sentence you evidently did not take into consideration one important fact, and you also went upon a violent presumption, that Congress can or would concentrate its efforts. The fact you did not take into consideration is that the new Congress will contain about 70 new talking machines, and being new they will talk ad libitum. They may not, and probably will not say anything that is important, but they will have to say something. In addition to the 70-odd new talking machines a large number of the old ones have been recondtioned, and will think they are as good as new.

OBSERVER.

Easy Divorce.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Judging from what the papers say, Idaho is preparing to set an example that should be followed by many of the other States. I refer to its efforts to curb the easy way in which divorces are granted. For years the ease by which divorces can be obtained has been a burning disgrace to the country, and now it is sapping all moral and home life. Idaho has not been, by any means, the worst offender in this matter. There are other States which practically pay a premium on divorces by making the way so easy that persons from other States are attracted there.

There has been much talk for a number of years about securing uniform marriage and divorce laws. Were it not for a clause in our Constitution much of this evil might be wiped out. The Constitution declares that court decrees in one State are binding in the other States. Were it not for this clause those States which narrow down divorces might refuse to recognize such decrees obtained in another State. This would prevent the citizens of one State going to another seeking a dissolution of the marriage tie, but it would not wholly eradicate the evil.

E. C. PARSONS.

Federal Employes Must Go Dry.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: All must have read with interest Mr. Joslyn's release on Hoover's plans for law enforcement. Report says that he will not only keep the law himself but will require all who serve the Federal Government to obey that government's law. This seems consistent. The only wonder is that it should come as a new idea.

One is reminded of Burke's fine saying: "Example is the school of mankind and youth will learn in no other." Mr. Hoover evidently means to develop that idea to its fullest.

Let's hope this virile country will see the light and respond. There has been a war let down and a prosperity let-down but this country was founded by farmers and pioneers who saw that continued successes depended on a 100 per cent efficiency, a 100 per cent clean manhood and 100 per cent self-control. Just in so far as the spirit of these founders remains intact our nation is still strong to meet inner and outer foes. Too many thoughtless men, too many rich men, have forgotten this truth. Let's hope that Hoover's manly example will reawaken the virility which is the natural child of a country of pioneers and that under Herbert Hoover all patriots and all who have a developed sense for public welfare, will glory in observing the law of the land.

A Deadly Railroad Crossing.

To the Eidtor of The Post—Sir: The Maryland News of December 28, 1928, contains a vivid account of an almost miraculous escape of a party of five young children on the Monday before Christmas at one of the three remaining railroad crossings in the District of Columbia. The scene was at the Chestnut street crossing in Northwest Washington, D. C., on the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The children were returning to their homes from a moving picture play in Takoma Park, D. C., and after a moment's waiting for a northbound train to pass, started to cross the tracks, unmindful of a fast passenger train approaching at the same time from an opposite direction. The latter train virtually cut the party of youngsters in two as it were, since one of the children barely succeeded in getting across, as the others hastily sprang back from imminent danger and death. Thus it may be ascribed to the kindness of Providence that these little ones were saved from a horrible fate on Christmas Eve.

It is true there is a watchman stationed at the Chestnut street crossing in the daytime and automatic stop-lights are installed there as a means of protecting the public. Nevertheless with all such safeguards, the crossing is still a death trap. In fact the watchman on duty there on February 6, 1926, was himself killed on the spot along with a schoolboy whose life he had attempted to save. The dangerous situation was recognized by the Sixty-ninth Congress, which by act of March 3, 1927, authorized the appropriation of $405,000 to eliminate this and two other railroad crossings in the District of Columbia, but to date no funds have been actually made available for the removal of these traffic hazards.

It is thought by the residents of that part of the city and in the Maryland suburbs near the Chestnut street crossing that measures should be taken without useless delay to obviate at least this one outstanding nuisance in the midst of a populous urban area, and not wait until another disaster has enshrouded the community in mourning.

In this connection it might be modestly remarked that the Bureau of the Budget has been exasperatingly slow in dealing with the railroad crossing problem in the confines of the District of Columbia. Only once has there been included in the national budget an item for the elimination of a railroad crossing, to wit: That for Van Buren street in 1925, which indeed is the only one that has been eliminated (at least in Northwest Washington in the last eighteen years. Meanwhile the people of Maryland have displayed less selfishness and far more progress, having made their roads safe for Washington city tourists by abolishing some six or seven railroad crossings in territory contiguous to the District of Columbia.

HOW TO HOLD BANK DEPOSITORS.

SAVINGS banks report that deposits have fallen off heavily, due to the craze for stock market speculation. Bankers are expressing considerable concern over the situation and are wondering what to do to draw and hold depositors. Well, it's all very simple; the thing to do is to have in every bank a big room filled with comfortable furniture in which the depositors can lounge and swap pipe dreams, hallucinations, illusions and quaint little whimsies.

The room should be kept full of tobacco smoke and never under any circumstances ventilated. It should be well supplied with boyish clerks, talking through their hats, and every half hour or so a bank president should saunter in and tell the customers a bed-time story.

This bed-time story feature has been neglected by our savings banks, which have made the mistake of sticking to hard facts and telling the truth.

The officials should stroll through the customers' room now and then and remark, "Well, I hear on very good authority that the directors are to meet soon and declare every $5,000 account worth $20,000," or "there is good information going around that within the next six months this bank will put up $10,000 for every $500 deposited by a depositor."

There should be information sheets distributed, too, to kindle the imagination. Items along this line might do:

"We expect an important announcement soon which will mean substantial profits to certain bank depositors. It is understood one of the directors has been left several million dollars by a rich uncle, and having more money than he needs, he intends to split it among depositors whose names begin with A, D, H and K. Another rumor is that he will add $20,000 to the account of every depositor whose first name is Charles, Gustave, Frederick or Prentice."

"The directors are to hold a meeting tomorrow and something big may be expected. It is understood a vote will be passed to honor all checks at 33 per cent above the amount called for. The bank has had a good year and all the officials are anxious to be good fellows."

This sort of thing will draw the public away from the brokerage offices right back into the savings banks. It is their gravy. And once back it will be simple enough to hold them. All that will be necessary will be to tell them every few weeks that their account will be closed out unless they come across with another few thousand dollars. This will keep them fascinated.

PRESS COMMENT.

Thoughtful Indeed.

Louisville Courier Journal: That Mississippi mob at least was considerate enough to do its lynching Monday night, permitting the new year to start off with a clean sheet.

Still Hope.

Atlanta Constitution: The "five and ten scheme" is to be extended to grocery stores. The millennium will come when it is extended to meat markets.

The Three X's.

Boston Evening Transcript: The three R's may be neglected in the lower schools, but the college youth knows his X's when he meets the head of the family—'Xpenditure, 'Xplanation and 'Xtraction.

Including Whom?

Detroit News: "A canvass shows that college athletes in the main are good students." Hm—does this include the Southwestern football squad whose coach complained that he occasionally had to use students?

Innocence Abroad.

Ohio State Journal: Ginger ale jelly is among the heart and home editor's latest achievements and the nicest old lady in this neighborhood thinks that must be what the people next door need so much ginger ale for.

Improved Candy.

New Orleans Times Picayune: We notice in the financial news that the Hershey and Houdaille corporations are to consolidate. Is it possible that the chocolate king is planning to place shock-absorbers on his almond bars?

Not So Young.

Ohio State Journal: Of course we're young yet, but we can't remember the time when one Booth didn't think it would be better if some other Booth than the one occupying that important position at the moment were at the head of the Salvation Army.

Paper Wealth.

Minneapolis Journal: Speaker Reed once said, "This is now a billion dollar country." The market value of the securities now listed on the stock exchange is upwards of one hundred billion dollars—and there's a lot of other property lying around.

Too Tame.

New Orleans Times Picayune: "Annual Conventions Are Tame," says a headline. Yes, nearly always! The inside group generally has the thing all fixed up and when the chairman puts the motion the delegates vote as desired.

Needed Birth Reform.

Louisville Courier Journal: While speakers before the Association for the Advancement of Science are predicting the indefinite prolongation of life, Sir Arthur Keith, famous London chemist, says, if he had his way, he would time human existence to end at 45 or 50. Yet there are philosophers who think it would be a happier solution to have it start about there.

Scientific Solution.

New York Evening World: Sir Arthur Keith is an eminent British scientist who says that nature intended that man should not live beyond 50. But man, as a matter of fact, is quite commonly living to 70 and beyond. Nature has thus been defrauded. Who or what is the guilty culprit? Science, obviously. Hence, to restore nature's status quo ante, as Sir Arthur would have done, should we not rather kill off the scientists than everybody else above 50?

Omnipresent Fool.

Houston Post-Dispatch: The fool who shot a Roman candle in a fireworks store in Georgia, causing the death in the flames of four children, reminds the world that fireworks have no place in Christmas celebrations, any more than wax candles on tree or cotton whiskers on Santa Claus. But the idiot who sets off Roman candles in a fireworks store, who rocks the boat and who snaps an unloaded pistol at a friend will always be with us.

SEERESS FORESEES WORLD ENVYING U. S.

American Prosperity in 1929 to Cause Nations to Gasp, Says Mme. Faya.

PREDICTS A SMALL WAR

Paris, Jan. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—America's financial prosperity will reach unheard of and phenomenal proportions in the fall of 1929, women will obtain a firmer grasp in national administrations everywhere in the world; there will be one little war in the course of the year, and several large-scale disasters, such as floods, earthquakes and famines. These are the new year's predictions of the clairvoyant, Mme. Faya, on whose shoulders has fallen the mantle of prophecy formerly worn by the famous Mme. De Thebes.

In making her predictions for 1929, the well-known Parisian soothsayer reminds the world that in casting the world's horoscope in December, 1927, she prophesied the death of a prominent financier, the violent death of a cabinet minister in France and the eruption of Mount Etna. It will be recalled that Capt. Lowenstein, the Belgian banker, met a violent death when he fell from his private airplane while crossing the English Channel, and that M. Maurice Bokanowski, French minister of aviation, met with a tragic accident in the south of France.

For 1929, Mme. Faya saw several ghastly events in the crystal globe that serves her as inspiration for her glances into the future, of these she does not wish to speak in detail.

Unwished By Providence, She Says.

"It would not be wise to reveal matters that even providence does not wish to become common knowledge," she said. "The most merciful part of human fate is that we do not know the hour of our death.

"The French government will fall in the spring. It may come as early as March, but I rather think that April will see an entirely new administration.

"I see a constantly changing government for France for at least two more years. But in the third year an unknown man arises. This man will be a dictator, like Mussolini and Primo de Rivera. He will have absolute power. He is a short, dark man, of Napoleonic features, who will change the whole complexion of Europe."

This prediction has thrown French chroniclers into consternation. Looking around Paris they can locate only one individual who answers the description of the famous soothsayer, and they pick on M. Jean Chiappe, present prefect of police. M. Chiappe not only has marked Napoleonic features, but he was even born on the Island of Corsica. Another candidate to whom Mme. Faya's prophecies seem applicable is M. Francois Coty, perfume merchant, who is also the owner of prominent newspapers.

World Will Gasp, She Says.

World finance will pass through an unsettled period right from the start in 1929 till the beginning of summer, she further predicts. But by the end of summer the stock exchanges will be swept by a wave of confidence and prosperity. This financial recuperation will reach its apex in the United States. All past records will be eclipsed. America will cause the world to gasp in wonder and envy, said the prophetess.

One great European nation will recognize the Soviet government in the course of 1929. By all appearances this will be Britain, which is at present carrying on unofficial negotiations to that effect. Relations between Russia and America will become much closer, but recognition by America will not dawn yet.

For Soviet Russia Mme. Faya sees a period of bitter strife and trouble ahead. Famine will take hundreds of thousands of lives. Violent internal quarrels will disturb political harmony and tranquillity. The result will be that the form of government will undergo material changes, ever getting further away from the pure communist doctrines of Lenin. There is not the slightest possibility of an overthrow of the present regime, however, she said.

Predicts New Rise of Women.

"I see women rising to new and great power almost everywhere in the world," said the soothsayer.

"Does this apply to the United States also?" she was asked.

"That would be impossible," replied Mme. Faya. "In America women rule the roost already. They can hardly be expected to gain greater power. In the United States their strength and influence is real. They dominate the men, even if the men do not realize the fact. American men only think they have something to say. Questions of vital importance are nearly always decided through the influence of women in that country."

Mme. Faya further prophesies that an invention of inestimable importance will be made in America in the course of 1929. This invention will change the face of civilization. It will be greater than television or aviation.

U. S. JUDGE ASSAILS WHALEN'S 600 RAIDS

More Than Half of Prisoners Discharged for Lack of Evidence, He Says.

GANG ROBS FOX THEATER

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Police Commissioner Whalen's drive against speak-easies, which has resulted in more than 600 raids, with vigorous uses of axes, during his three weeks in office, ran against snags and criticism today.

Police inspectors were summoned to testify before the Federal grand jury in Brooklyn because of allegations that there had been bungling in preparing prohibition cases.

Federal Judge Moscowitz, charging the grand jury in Brooklyn, said that more than half the prisoners taken before Federal commissioners by policemen usually were discharged because of lack of evidence or because raids were illegal.

The Brooklyn inquiry is under the charge of Federal Attorney De Groot, who resented the fact that he was not invited to attend a conference on cooperation against rum-selling held by Commissioner Whalen and Charles H. Tuttle, Federal Attorney for the district that includes Manhattan. The Brooklyn district comprises Staten and Long Islands.

With a blood-spattered, bullet-marked car as their only clue, detectives today were seeking a gang of gunmen who escaped with $2,500 after a gun battle in the lobby of a crowded Brooklyn theater.

While 2,500 patrons scrambled for shelter from the score of shots, six gunmen fought their way out of the Fox Folly Theater, in the Williamsburg district last night, with two policemen pursuing them and six others seeking to bar their way to the car where two other gunmen waited.

The manager and treasurer of the theater had just placed the day's receipts in the office safe when the six entered. Samuel Schullhalter, the manager, was forced to open the safe.

A uniformed policeman in the theater with his wife was called by an usher and joined the special officer employed by the theater as the robbers backed out of the office.

The two policemen opened fire on the retreating gunmen, who returned their fire. Two sergeants and four patrolmen attracted by the shooting joined in the gun fight while women and children in the theater screamed and sought cover.

One of the policemen was wounded in the hand. The robbers' car, which had been stolen and bore stolen license plates, was found later with 27 bullet holes in it. Blood on the floor and cushions indicated at least one of the gang had been hit.

"Newcomers" Hear Treaties Praised

Alfaro Sees Benefits From Pan-American Accord; Simopoulos Speaks.

Declaring that the Pan-American conciliation conference averted war between Bolivia and Paraguay, Ricardo J. Alfaro, Minister of Panama to the United States and vice president-elect of his country, speaking before the Newcomers Club in the Carlton Hotel last night, expressed himself in favor of the conciliation treaty.

Charalambos Simopoulos, Minister of Greece, also spoke. He said his country was trying to adjust all its difficulties with the other Balkan states and that in this spirit it had accepted the peace pact offered by Secretary of State Kellogg.

The new officers of the Newcomers Club were installed. They are Col. Charles R. Stark, jr., president; Henry P. Sideman, first vice president; Dr. P. S. Constantinople, second vice president; Edward M. Tyler, treasurer, and J. B. McPherson, secretary. Dr. Ovid C. Foote is the retiring president.

Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, who has been here assisting Secretary Kellogg in connection with the Pan-American Conference on Arbitration and Conciliation, has gone to Nassau, Bahamas, for a rest.

He will be gone a week or ten days and will come back to Washington before returning to Mexico City.

Judge Sentences Jury To "School" for 11 Days

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—A jury was sentenced to eleven days' schooling when it freed a prisoner today.

In ten minutes the jury in circuit court had acquitted a defendant who, a policema testified, was found at midnight on the roof of a house with a kit of burglar tools. The charge was attempted burglary.

Then Judge George F. Rush pronounced sentence on the jurors:

"If the evidence in this case will not sustain a verdict of guilty, no evidence ever will in any case. You have eleven days more to serve, but I won't let you hear any more cases as jurors. For the remaining eleven days you will sit in the rear of this court and try to learn something of your duties as jurors."

Edwards Building Sold To Francis H. Duehay

Purchase of the Edwards Building, adjoining the Woodward Building, at Fifteenth and H streets northwest, from the estate of the late John L. Edwards, was announced last night by Francis H. Duehay, owner of the Woodward property.

Mr. Duehay declined to mention the consideration involved in the transaction. He stated that present plans contemplated the destruction of the Edwards property, and the erection of an addition to the Woodward Building on its site. The sale was negotiated through the trust department of the Riggs National Bank, trustees for the Edwards estate.

Man, Shot by Wife, Unwilling Witness

To Tell Truth "Reluctantly" if Called to Stand, Says D. H. Wilson.

Dallett H. Wilson, formerly of this city, wealthy lawyer and a former member of the Republican national committee, "will tell the truth, though reluctantly," he said in New York yesterday, according to information received here, if he is called as a witness in the case in which his wife, Mrs. Esther Evans Wilson, former Capital society woman, and big game hunter, is charged with shooting him.

Wilson's appearance in court was surprising, in view of the fact he had disappeared for months subsequent to the shooting March 29, 1928, to avoid testifying, it was said, against Mrs. Wilson. She is charged with assault in the third degree and violation of the Sullivan law forbidding even big game hunters carrying firearms.

The case against Mrs. Wilson was continued, and for the ninth time, until January 18. Though Wilson said "I have no desire to appear as a willing aid to this prosecution," he promised he would tell the truth if called to the witness stand, and the judge permitted him to go. Mrs. Wilson's bail of $10,000 was also continued.

Manor Park Citizens Demand Free Delivery

Declaring that it is now time for the express companies to give free delivery to every section of the District of Columbia, the Manor Park Citizens Association, at a meeting last night, passed a resolution urging that free delivery be extended to that section.

The association indorsed pending legislation before Congress for an appropriation of $147,000 for sewer, street and school improvements in Manor Park.

Rum for Papa's Asthma No Excuse, Judge Holds

New York, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—"I have to make it to treat my 73-year-old father's asthma," said Walter Schwartz, 26, today answering a charge of operating a still.

"How much does the still hold?" asked the judge. "Fifteen gallons, he was told. "Does your grandfather bathe in it?" the judge asked.

Schwartz was fined $10.

Jars of Vicks daily

Compared with 1918, this epidemic, so far, is mild; and yet, in spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks Laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency demand for more and more Vicks VapoRub. Over 375,000 jars are now being produced daily.

approved method of using Vicks for FLU

1. AS A PREVENTIVE

Several times a day, insert Vicks up the nostrils. Also melt a little night and morning in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors. This helps to ward off germ-infection.

2. IF A COLD STARTS

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot, wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

3. AFTER A FLU ATTACK

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, colds, attacking the weakened system, may lead to bronchitis, sinus-trouble or pneumonia. This is especially true of children or old folks.

Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal. Vicks is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely, as often as needed, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

ANITA LOOS — Brilliant Young Satirist, says, "Completely baffling."

MRS. JOHN HARRIMAN
Charming Society Hostess, says, "Absorbing . . . fascinating."

—say these 3 distinguished readers of "The DISAPPEARANCE OF MARY YOUNG"

BY MILTON M. PROPPER

THIS story will get you! It will baffle you! It will fascinate you—just as it did these three distinguished judges—Grover A. Whalen, Anita Loos and Mrs. John Harriman.

They say this is the most ingenious mystery story you are ever likely to read.

It opens with a bang at a Philadelphia amusement park.

A beautiful young girl is found on the scenic railway, stabbed to the heart.

There's not one clue to her identity, but . . . there are clues, and clues, and clues as to the murderer, so conflicting that police detectives find themselves in a maze. So will you!

STOCK LEADERS HIT BY SELLING STREAM

Recessions Ranging Up to 14 Points Are Recorded Throughout List.

FEW SPOTS ARE STRONG

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Jan. 7.—With the character of the speculative market undergoing considerable change as the new week got under way today on the Stock Exchange, there came a steady stream of selling into pivotal stocks and recessions ranging up to more than 14 points were scored in all sections of the list. To a large extent the selling was inspired by nervousness over the outlook for the credit market, with the belief growing that conditions of late have been shaping in such manner as might soon find reflection in the raising of the rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

While obviously the whole financial community was a deal less sanguine about the outlook for speculative credit, money for such purposes was in fair supply throughout the session at the ruling rate of 7 per cent. No further easing of the situation in that direction, however, appears on the immediate horizon.

The stocks which had been the leaders on the recent rise today were notably soft—the coppers, motors and steels. But recessions for the most part were limited to ffom 1 to 6 points in these issues. In the more speculative descriptions, of course, occurred the losses of larger proportions. Radio, for instance, was nearly 24 points down at the bottom of the session, but despite the fact the general market ended the day heavy in tone, with prices in most cases at or near the low levels. Radio had rallied about half way, closing 12 points under Saturday's final quotation.

Oils Tend to Heaviness.

The petroleum list also was disposed to heaviness, with Atlantic Refining and Sinclair yielding with particular ease. Merchandising shares, likewise, slid off, with the mail-order stocks giving way from 2 to 5 points or so.

As a lot, the rails yielded with the industrials. Nickel Plate gave way 4 points, Canadian Pacific, 7½, Teas and Pacific, 3 points and numerous others a point or two. Wabash preferred A, was an exceptionally strong feature during sporting into new high ground following announcement of the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals holding that the stock was entitled to receive dividends for past years in which earnings would have warranted such disbursements before any payments were made on the Class B preferred or the common stock of the road. The preferred A rose nearly 7 points and held 4, while, naturally, the decision had a reverse effect on the common stock, which dropped back 3 points.

Virtually all the old leaders gave ground, including United States Steel, General Motors and Westinghouse Manufacturing, and the recently sensationally strong General Electric yielded nearly 8 points, then recovered somewhat to close 5 points down.

Studebaker a Strong Spot.

But the market was not without its strong spots. Among these Studebaker was outstanding, those behind it apparently inclining to do a little advertising in an otherwise quite generally weak session. It moved 6 points net higher and within a minor fraction of its new high, established in mid-session. Talk of favorable dividend action at the directors' meeting scheduled for January 31, was heard in connection with it.

American Can was prominent, being exceptionally well taken and closing near the top, 3¾ points to the good. Abitibi Power and Paper, American Chain preferred, Commercial Investment Trust, Atlas Powder, St. Joseph Lead, Wright Aero, White Rock, General Gas A and a few more registered gains of from 2 to 6 points.

Commission houses reported good supporting orders present just under the market, and it was evident in the late session that considerable scale buying was taking place, especially in issues favored by substantial dividend yield and here and there this produced part recovery.

The volatile Midland Steel Products preferred, with a drop of 14¼ points, was the day's largest loser.

Other Outstanding Losses.

Other outstanding losses included Burroughs Adding Machine, 8½; National Tea, 14; Rossia Insurance, 11; Du Pont, 6; Greene Cananea Copper, 5; Warren Brothers, 6¼; National Supply, 5¾; American Smelting, 5¼; Booth Fisheries first preferred, 8; Union Carbon and Carbide, 7; Montgomery Ward, 5½; Air Reduction, 4⅜, and Johns Manville, 4½.

The selling of the copper shares on a rather liberal scale was one of the disappointing developments of the session. This group had come to be regarded as occupying an unusually strong position backed up by exceptionally good earnings last year and bright prospects for 1929 with the price of the metal the best in more than five years. Today's selling, however, was attributed in some parts of the street to the belief that the test of the actual metal market is still ahead. The point was made that the upward revision of metal prices has been quite rapid with the possibility that it has stimulated a good deal of buying against future needs in the last month or so.

Trading in foreign exchanges still was in small volume and in the European group little change showed in price movements. Sterling held at 94.86⅛ for cables, and Italian moved up ⅛ to 5.23⅞. Belgian and Dutch rates improved ½ point, Swiss eased a like fraction, as did pesetas and Norwegian crowns, and reichmarks yielded a point. Far Eastern and South American exchanges were steady, although Brazilian receded 2 points. Canadian was quoted at ¼ discount.

FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

Paris, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Prices were firm on the bourse today; 3 per cent rentes, 67 francs 45 centimes; 4 per cent loan, 95 francs 60 centimes; exchange on London, 124 francs 8 centimes; the dollar was quoted at 25 francs 57½ centimes.

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Bar silver, 28 7-16d per ounce; money, 2¾ per cent; discount rates, short bills, 4¼@4 5-16 per cent; three months, 4 5-16@4⅜ per cent.

FEW CONVERTIBLES GAIN IN BOND MART

CARRIER GROUP IS MIXED

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Trading was dull and listless in the bond market today. While a few speculative and convertible issues made substantial gains the general trend of prices again was irregularly lower. The heaviness of the stock market rather than an easing tendency in money rates seemed chiefly to influence traders.

Although a number of the less active utilities advanced, the group leaders, Public Service of New Jersey 4½s and International Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s, continued to sag, Public Service losing more than 3 points.

Stronger issues in the industrial list included Dodge Brothers 6s, North American Cement 6½s, Keith Corporation first 6s, Inland Steel 4½s A. Certain-teed 5½s and Chile Copper 5s. There were some fairly wide declines, however. Abraham & Straus 5½s selling off more than 3 points, Anaconda Copper 7s 2, and Transcontinental Oil 6½s, Humble Oil 5½s, Cuban-American Sugar 8s, General Motors Acceptance 6s and Kayser & Co. 5½s showing smaller losses.

Rails were mixed, with the secondary items chiefly in demand. Most gains were fractional, although Soo 5s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s, Denver & Rio Grande 4s, Long Island & North Shore 5s, Texas & Pacific 5s B and others advanced more than a point each. Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul 5s, Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, New Haven 6s, Frisco 4½s and others yielded to selling pressure.

The foreign list was inclined to heaviness, with Italian industrials showing the wider losses. United States Government bonds attracted little attention and price trends were mixed.

CITY BANKS' BOARDS TO BE CHOSEN TODAY

Directors of Many Institutions Are Expected to Be Reelected.

STOCK TRADING SHRINKS

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Stockholders of Washington's twelve national banks and shareholders in as many more trust companies and savings institutions, will meet in annual session at their respective institutions today to elect (in most instances to reelect) boards of directors for the year.

Although a moderate expansion is planned in the directorate of a few institutions, and there are some vacancies to be filled in others, there is expected to be little change in the major line-up of the boards when returns are reported.

The newly elected boards, in a few cases, will meet immediately following the shareholders' sessions for reorganization purposes.

Washington Loan & Trust Co., Union Trust Co., Continental Trust Co., Washington Savings Bank, Seventh Street Savings Bank, Park Savings Bank, United States Savings Bank, McLachlen Banking Corporation, Departmental Savings Bank and Prudential Savings Bank. In nearby Maryland stockholders of the Silver Spring Bank and the Bank of Bethesda will meet.

M. C. Hazen Is Reelected.

At the annual meeting of the Columbia Permanent Building Association held last night at the offices of the association, Melvin C. Hazen was elected president; William P. Richards, vice president; Floyd E. Davis, treasurer; Fred A. Smith, secretary, and C. Clinton James, attorney.

The following directors will manage the affairs of the association for the ensuing year: Melvin C. Hazen, Floyd E. Davis, Alfred H. Taylor, Alpheus E. Riddle, William P. Richards, Thomas W. Bones, L. Perry West, Howard R. Morton and Fred A. West.

Floyd E. Davis and William P. Richards were elected to the appraisal committee, and Walter G. Davis and Ernest R. Colvin were elected trustees. The finance committee is composed of Melvin C. Hazen, William P. Richards and Alpheus E. Riddle. Last year was one of the best years in the history of the association, showing a gain in assets of nearly $140,000. Total assets of the association this year are nearly $900,000.

Peoples Drug Leads Trading.

Peoples Drug Stores preferred, which rose 5 points to 133, a new high, led moderate trading yesterday on the Washington Stock Exchange. The total volume of all stock traded reached only 1,200 shares, while transactions in the bond division attained the high total of $42,100.

Fractional gains were noted in Washington Gas Light, which rose to 106; Potomac Electric 6½ per cent preferred, to 108¾, and Washington Railway & Electric preferred at 99¾. Federal-American Co. common was firm at 56½ and 53¾ and District National securities preferred brought 100¾.

Outstanding in the bond division was the sale of $40,000 Washington Market 5s at 96. Potomac Electric 6s, $1,000, traded at 108, and $1,100 Washington Gas 6s, series A, brought 102⅞ and 104¾.

After Christmas Lull Sets In.

The usual after Christmas is apparent in most retail lines in this territory, judging from reports from the Fifth Federal reserve District, which includes Washington.

Indications are that the Christmas business in this district was better than in 1927. Deposits for 23 banking centers, the week ended December 26, were $284,221,000, as against $272,043,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Unusual activity is reported in the cigarette field. Plants that usually shut down for the holiday period were obliged for the first time in years to work to meet demands. Textiles and coal in this district show decided improvement, and there are indications of a more uniform prosperity. Sales of cotton cloth in recent weeks have exceeded the output.

Reserve Board Statement.

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of 624 reporting member banks in leading cities, as of January 3, shows an increase for the week of $574,000,000 in loans and discounts, partly offset by a reduction of $93,000,000 in investments, and increases of $717,00,000 in net demand deposits, of $51,000,000 in time deposits, and of $12,000,000 in borrowings at Federal Reserve Banks.

Loans on stocks and bonds, including United States Government obligations, were $555,000,000 above the December 26 total at all reporting banks, an increase of $490,000,000 being reported by member banks in the New York district. "All other" loans and discounts increased $19,000,0000 at all reporting banks.

Holdings of United States Government securities declined $82,000,000 at all reporting banks, and holdings of other bonds, stocks and securities decreased $10,000,000. Government deposits declined $31,000,000.

Railway Operating Income.

The net railway operating income of class 1 railroads in November amounted to $113,694,856, which, for that month, was at the annual rate of return of 4.76 per cent on their property investment, according to reports just filed by the carriers with the Bureau of Railway Economies here, and made public yesterday.

Gross operating revenues for November amounted to $531,218,888, compared with $504,314,198 in November 1927, an increase of 5.3 per cent. Operating expenses in November totaled $374,183,894, compared with $377,167,017 in the same month of 1927, or a decrease of eight-tenths of one per cent.

The net railway operating income of the class 1 railroads in the Eastern district for the first eleven months of 1928 totaled $545,023,885, which was at the annual rate of return of 5.17 per cent on their property investment. For the same period in 1927, their net railway operating income was $517,555,083, or 5.02 per cent on their property investment.

THEATER MEN UNITE FOR CZARISTIC RULE

MANY PROBLEMS TOPICS

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Theatrical producers, actors and playwrights came together in New York today and decided to present a united front to what are generally described as the worst conditions the American theater ever has experienced.

The outcome, they hope, will be a fifteen-man "Judge Landis" of the theater, to be composed of representatives of all three groups and to be known as the American Theater Board. The board, according to present plans, will have powers corresponding somewhat to those of the high commissioner of baseball. The difference is that no one member will be exploited above the others. There will be no permanent chairman.

At the suggestion, it was said, of William A. Brady, although Mr. Brady, conforming to the idea of nonexploitation of individuals, would not admit it, representatives of the Actors Equity Association, the Dramatists Guild of the Authors League of America and the Organized Legitimate Theatrical Managers Association met this afternoon and went through the preliminaries of forming the American Theater Board. It was an executive session.

They formed a subcommittee of representatives of each of the three factions to draw up a constitution and bylaws for the board, which will be submitted to the members of the three organizations for their approval.

Every phase of the theater problem, from crowded traffic conditions on Broadway to high cost of transportation for road companies, was discussed this afternoon, it was said.

The idea of the theater board is not new. First steps were taken toward establishing it four years ago, but nothing definite has been done until now.

TEA AND COFFEE PLEASE MILLIONS
Sugar Also Adds to Their Flavor
Millions of adults enjoy the flavor of coffee and tea as a beverage, and yet there are some who, because they do not add sugar, miss a great part of the delicate taste that coffee and tea should have.
Why do these people leave sugar out of their coffee or tea? Perhaps some do not know what they miss. Perhaps others feel that they should not enjoy any drink so much. There are people, for example, who persist in taking cold baths when a warm or tepid bath would be much more beneficial. Do they feel that they are benefiting themselves by the hardship of a cold bath? Do people who leave sugar out of their coffee or tea feel that they are benefiting themselves by missing part of the enjoyment?
Just try sugar in your coffee and tea if you haven't yet learned how much it improves it. Learn to use the amount that just suits your taste. Sugar is the perfect flavor developed by Nature. It makes nearly all foods and beverages more delightful to the taste.
Coffee and tea are America's popular beverages. Sugar enables every cup to promote happiness by affording individual flavor. The Sugar Institute.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.
Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.
Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.
No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.
If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.
Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

TARIFF BODY HEARS CHEMISTS' PROTEST

DOMESTIC BASIS SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

The opening of hearings yesterday by the House ways and means committee on tariff readjustment was signalized by a concentrated march of more than 30 witnesses to the committee room, seeking protection for the chemical industry.

With all except one Democratic member present and the large committee room packed to the doors, many standing, witness after witness took the stand with mathematical deductions that stumped the layman and with technical names that frequently caused committeemen to call for definitions.

The Democrats did most of the cross-examining, with Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking minority member, taking the lead.

Committee Behind Schedule.

While only five to ten minutes was allotted each witness, the reading of briefs and cross-examinations took so much extra time that the committee got far behind schedule. Only eight had been heard at the end of the morning session, but time was saved later on by permitting one witness to speak for several, when all were agreed on the same item.

The principal witness of the day, Salmon W. Wilder, of Boston, representing the Manufacturing Chemists Association, declared that while the present tariff law was aiding the chemical and other industries in general, certain rate changes are needed, such as an increase of 15 per cent in the present ad valorem duty of 25 per cent on chemicals not now enjoying a specific import rate.

He said the higher rate was desired to protect chemicals not now produced at a profit in this country and to allow American manufacturers to risk starting production of new materials which constantly are being introduced from abroad. He also argued that in order to equalize the rates on raw materials, compensatory duties should be given the finished products where the raw material is dutiable.

Urge Domestic Basis.

Domestic instead of foreign valuations should be used in determining the ad valorems,' Wilder said. This question has often been at issue in tariff making. Foreign valuations are now used.

To insure the permanency of the industry, Wilder urged a tariff that would "warrant the extension of existing plants, permit of payment of the American standard of wages and at the same time justify the expectation of reasonable profit on the capital investment."

Conspicuous in the beginning of the tedious revision process, one of the biggest peace-time tasks a Congress can undertake, was the absence of all principals or authors of previous and existing acts. Such tariff synonyms as Payne-Aldrich, Fordney-McCumber and Underwood were lacking in the picture yesterday.

Larkin, Actor, Dead One Cent in Pocket

On Way to New York's City Lodging House When He Succumbs.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—John Larkin, who once had a part in "From Rags to Riches," but whose life off the stage had been a drama of decline, was found dead in a subway station today with a single cent left in his pocket.

In the same pocket was a letter from the Actors' Fund of America recommending Larkin to the Municipal Lodging House. It was believed that he was on his way to cast himself on the city's charity when death saved him from the last humiliation. Death was attributed to natural causes.

At the Actors' Fund it was said that years ago Larkin appeared with Joseph Santley in "From Rags to Riches," with Julia Marlowe in Chicago and with a Milwaukee stock company. For the past two years he had worked during the summer in a Coney Island side show. A sister, Edna Larkin, lives at 217 West Sixty-first street, Chicago.

B. W. Catlett, Once State Senator, Dies

Was Active in Democratic Politics in Virginia and West Virginia.

Brice W. Catlett, 75, former State senator, of West Virginia, from Morgan County, died yesterday at his hime in Boyce, Va., according to word reaching his relatives here.

Mr. Catlett was active in Democratic politics of both West Virginia and Virginia, where he moved in 1898, after having served one term as senator in the West Virginia legislature. He was a colleague of Representative Stuart F. Reed while in the State legislature, and an admirer of Judge Nathan B. Goff.

Surviving are his widow, Frances Smith Catlett, who is visiting in Miami, Fla., and five sons, William B. Catlett, O. W. Catlett, and L. W. Catlett, all of Washington; Charles Victor Catlett, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Dr. J. G. H. Catlett, of Miami. Funeral services are to be held Wednesday morning in Berryville, Va.

Berlenbach Denies Engagement.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight champion of the world, denied tonight published reports of his engagement to Miss Clare Feldner, 24-year-old Astoria, N. Y., girl "I know the lady, but there is absolutely nothing to the report of our engagement," Berlenbach said.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

It has interested me tremendously during the past few weeks to observe the number of commentators upon the motion picture who have devoted their time to the compilation of lists of the ten best pictures shown during the year just ended. Having refrained from any such futile attempt myself, I have been especially diverted by the wide diversity of view among the brethren and sistern as to which of the many celluloids released in a twelvemonth are entitled to a place in the limited group of superior achievements. No two, of course, agree. In fact, it seems to me that there is a more than ordinarily flagrant absence of unanimity among the talent. The duplicatoins on the various lists are surprisingly few. This can mean only one thing.

Obviously, if, say, ten close observers of the screen are able to compile ten lists of the best pictures and no two lists agree, the logical deduction must be that there are more good pictures on view than has ever heretofore been the case. That, I believe, is true, and I have so contended on numerous other occasions in these and the Sabbath columns of this family journal. Since a majority of the tabulators also name ten second choices which they admit are only a shade behind those on the first string in merit, and these, too, fall of any degree of unanimous rating, it seems no less than inevitable that the pictures of excellence must far outnumber the punks. So I have decided to follow my natural lazy bent and, if I compile any at all, list the ten worst pictures of the year.

On second thought, I shall do no such thing. I don't think there are ten worst pictures of the year!

When I asked the fellow I thought ought to know to tell me something about the cartoonist appearing this week at Loew's Palace, this is what the man wrote down on a sheet of paper:

"At first glance he looks as though he might be a saxophone player; then, at once you change your opinion and decide he must be an actor. He wears a fur coat, carries a walking stick, has a ready laugh and talks like a musical comedy funny man. When he takes his hat off you see a meager half moon of thin hair—none of it in front—and he then takes on the appearance of a monk, because his face is round and his eye is clear and very bright.

"And, though you'd never think it, and, fourthermore, might doubt it until you see him work—he's a cartoonist. And his specialty is 'kids'—to be more precise, 'Just Kids,' the comic syndicated through papers throughout the world.

"But once you watch him handle a crayon you know this fellow's business—cartooning. And when he signs off, as they say on the radio, you recognize his name: Ad Carter.

"Right now he's on the stage; not as an actor, but as a creator. His comic strip has been motivated on the Palace stage as a production with real, honest-to-goodness live people acting out his characterizations, while Carter himself does some rapid-fire sketching and monologues amusingly.

"His cartoon strip has been responsible for one of the greatest safety campaigns in history. He originated te 'Just Kids Safety Club' and it now boasts well over 3,000,000 members, all of them kids. It has been taken up by civic organizations and boards of education, and turned to the finest of protective ends.

"Carter himself—after a brief chat with him—is more of a kid than he is a grown adult. He is humorous, light of heart, a naive fellow who appreciates and understands children."

Found in my office mail box, without envelope and written on Post copy paper:

"Dear Mr. Bell (not Baker):—

"Possibly it is a 'Synthetic Sin' to mention this to you, but I am wondering if 'Sunrise' will mean fine weather for us over 'Three Week Ends,' or whether this weather is simply 'On Trial' and is subject to 'Interference.'

"Yours cinemically,

"FONDA MOVIES."

I may say that there are several clever devils under suspicion.

It comes to mind that when "Win That Girl" was recently presented at the Fox Theater many critical members of the audience objected that the stunt of making Peggy Rollins' young brother, David, run the length of the gridiron toward the wrong goal was stretching credulity a little too far.

I was inclined to think so myself, but now comes this Capt.-elect Riegel, of the University of Southern California and does precisely that thing, thus throwing the game unintentionally to Georgia Tech, 8 to 7.

How are you going to get around the fact that truth is stranger than fiction, after that?

Mr. Ewing, you will be glad to know, has just dropped in to say that the Earle Theater will once again go on the air. Their first program was presented several months ago to familiarize the Washington movie-going public with the first 100 per cent all-talking picture, "Lights of New York." At that time a novelty was introduced over the air in the presentation of a Vitaphone talking trailer, direct from the theater, and the voice of Conrad Nagel was heard over the ether waves. Tonight the voice of Monte Blue will be heard through the medium of Vitaphone, and he will tell in a novel way the story of "Conquest," the screen offering at the Earle next week.

Others to entertain during the Earle program from 8:30 to 9 tonight, over Station WMAL, will be members of the Stanley-Crandall musical organization in specialty offerings. Ida V. Clarke, a former Keith star and an artiste on the piano-accordeon; Milton Davis and Sylvia Kaplowitz, in piano duets of popular melodies; Dorothy Wilson Halbach, contralto, and William Raymond, tenor, all will be heard. Robert Bond Gotta, of the Metropolitan Orchestra, will be the piano accompanist for the vocal numbers.

It is beginning to feel a little like overcoat weather—hope I haven't lost that ticket!

Capital Man Held By New York Police

Nikola Lipok Guarded in Hospital as Arson Suspect After Suicide Try.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Police today identified Nikola Lipok, 35, who attempted suicide Saturday by shooting himself, as a man wanted in Washington, D. C., on charges of arson, writing threatening letters, and for threatening lives. Lipok is now under guard at Bellevue Hospital, where he is being treated.

Until about two months ago, police said, Lipok was employed at Washington by Myron A. Hoefer, of 2029 F street. He had been in Mr. Hoefer's employ since coming to the United States several years ago from Montevideo, Uruguay. Lipok was to have sailed Saturday for South America.

The Washington Detective Bureau and the police of the Third precinct said that they could find no record of such a man and that the New York police have not notified them of the case. Myron A. Hoefer, 2029 F street northwest, was not at home last night.

Death of Cardinal Tosi Shocks Pope

Demise at Milan Puts Italians in Minority; Appointments Due.

Rome, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—An unprecedented situation in the sacred college was created today by the death of Cardinal Tosi, Archbishop of Milan. For the first time since the so-called Babylonian captivity (when the Popes lived at Avignon in the fourteenth century) the Italian cardinals are in a minority of four.

There are now 29 Italian cardinals, 33 others and 8 vacancies. This makes it practically certain that the Pope will bestow several red hats at the spring consistory.

Pope Pius was greatly touched at the archbishop's death. He was a warm personal friend who succeeded the Pope in the Lombard Diocese and he showed particular affection when he brought a Milan pilgrimage to Rome to usher in the pontiff's sacerdotal jubilee year. Cardinal Tosi at that time was apparently in good health. He was stricken shortly after his return to his diocese.

HENRY ARTHUR JONES, DRAMATIST, IS DEAD

Famous English Play Author Dies in Hampstead of Lung Congestion.

HELD HARVARD DEGREE

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Henry Arthur Jones, famous dramatic author, died at his home in Hampstead tonight. He was 77 years old last September.

Mr. Jones died of a lung congestion. In the latter years of his life he became a propagandist, indulging in literary conflicts with George Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells among others. In the bedroom in which he died were hung the framed programs of 50 plays which he had written.

Mr. Shaw, when informed of the death, said:

"I have paid so many tributes to the work of Jones when it was really of some use to him that I do not see any need to pay tribute now when it can not gratify him. We remained good friends to the last."

Mr. Jones was a member of the Players Club of New York and received the honorary degree of master of arts from Harvard University in 1907.

His first play, "A Clerical Error," was published in 1879 and he continued his active career until after the World War. Among his more famous works were "Saints and Sinner," in 1884! "The Hypocrites," in 1906; "The Evangelist," in 1907; "The Lie," in 1914, and "Cock O'The Walk," in 1915. During the war he devoted his pen to patriotic subjects and social problems. His recreation was given in Who's Who, as "hunting sedition."

Hoover Library Head, Dr. F. A. Golder, Is Dead

Palo Alto, Calif., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Frank Alfred Golder, director of the Hover War Library at Stanford University, died today at Palo Alto after several months illness.

Dr. Golder was instrumental in bringing to the library information not contained in any other library in the world, university authorities said. Born in Russia in 1877, he came to America and was graduated from Harvard in 1903. President-elect Hoover visited Dr. Golder at a hospital here before starting on his recent Latin-American tour.

Antibes, France, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia will be held at 10:30 tomorrow morning at Cannes with the utmost simplicity. The rites will be performed by the orthodox priest, who accompanied the head of the Romanoff family into exile.

Only relatives and close friends will attend the services in the little Russian church appropriately situated on Avenue Alexander III, named for one of the grand duke's ancestors.

The Italian court will observe 30 days of mourning but the French government has taken no official cognizance of the death of Nicholas. The grand duchess is a sister of the Queen of Italy.

DR. A. L. MILLER'S BURIAL TOMORROW

INVENTED CASUALTY AIDS

Funeral services for Dr. Archibald Louis Miller, prominent dental and plastic surgeon, who died from cerebro spinal meningitis in Emergency Hospital Sunday after a brief illness, will be held from his late home, 1400 Madison street northwest, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Miller, 48 years old, became suddenly ill last Friday afternoon. Examination by Dr. B. L. Hardin revealed necessity for a spinal puncture, performed by Dr. John J. Shugrue.

During the World War he organized and was in charge of the first American plastic surgery hospital for treatment of facial wounds. He was selected for this task by Col. Robert T. Oliver, chief of the dental service, American Expeditionary Forces.

Rose Rapidly in Army.

Dr. Miller rose from lieutenant to the rank of lieutenant colonel, United States Army, before the end of hostilities.

Faced with the problem of keeping the wounds and bone structure of wounded soldiers' faces from being moved when their jaws were opened, Dr. Miller designed a special headgear to support the face.

Through use of this device, facial wounds which had been dressed remained intact, even during cases of seasickness when casualties were returning to the United States.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Elsie Miller; a daughter, Miss Evelyn Miller, and two brothers, one, George Miller, of Washington.

Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery. Dr. Thomas C. Clark, pastor of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the services.

After the war, Dr. Miller helped to organize and became a director and vice president of the Columbia Building Corporation and of the Washington Medical Building Corporation.

His leadership in plastic surgery brought him a fellowship in the American Medical Association. He also was a member of the District of Columbia Dental Society, the Takoma Lodge, F. A. A. M., the Mystic Shrine and a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason.

He was the son of the late Charles and Louise C. Miller, of Elmira, N. Y.

Gave Services to Charity.

Dr. Miller regularly devoted certain days of his practice each week to charity cases at Emergency Hospital. For eight months after returning from France he continued plastic surgery work on soldiers at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, and Camp Meade, Md.

He attended the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

A sister, Mrs. J. G. Rogers, of Barnesville, Ga.; a brother, Charles Miller, of Moore, Pa., and a brother-in-law, William E. Dyer, will attend the services tomorrow.

Pallbearers will be medical men who were associated with Dr. Miller. They are Dr. Charles Stanley White, Dr. Charles W. Hyde, Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, Dr. R. M. LeComte, Dr. B. L. Hardin and Dr. E. G. Breeding.

Germans Reported Held as Spies.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—A dispatch to La Critica from Ascuncion, Paraguay, today said that two German citizens had been arrested by the authorities on charges of being Bolivian spies. They were alleged to have been acting suspiciously in the vicinity of a Paraguayan fort.

MRS. TAYLOR TO BE BURIED.

Services for Mrs. Adeline Taylor, 78 years old, who died Sunday from an attack of grip at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Elder, 2828 Twenty-eighth street northwest, will be held at the Tabler funeral home, 926 M street northwest, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor was the widow of the late Capt. H. P. Taylor. A son-in-law, Frank E. Elder, practices law in Washington. Five daughters, Mrs. H. C. McCammon, Mrs. Alice M. Relston, Mrs. Sue Peet, Mrs. A. E. Gemberling and Mrs. Elder, all living in Washington, and a son, Dr. Harry Taylor, of Cleveland, Ohio, are survivors. Dr. Taylor will attend the funeral.

A continuity program, consisting of four related episodes depicting phases of Beethoven's career, together with selection from his compositions, will be broadcast from WRC. Frederick Forrester will enact the role of the great German, who claimed Vienna as his home, with a supporting cast including Rosaline Greene, Richard Abbott, Edwin Thompson, Jack MacBryde and Marcella Shields. Reginald Barlow will be the narrator.

The four episodes are based first, on Beethoven's arrival in Vienna to study under Haydn, second, a concert at the home of his patron, Count Lichnowsky, third, the composer's composition of the famous second movement of his Fifth Symphony, and, last, the tragic climax of his life in the approach of deafness, shutting him out from hearing his beloved music.

The 1929 series of Voter's Information Service, a radio feature of the 1928 campaign, will be ushered in at 7 o'clock tonight, under the joint sponsorship of the National Broadcasting Co. and the National League of Women Voters.

A "Voice of Columbia" program, originally scheduled for presentation on Christmas Night, will be heard over a Nation-wide chain at 10 o'clock this evening. The program, which includes sixteen musical numbers, will call upon the services of a symphonic jazz orchestra, both men and women's vocal choruses, soprano, tenor and barytone soloists. The numbers heard will include selections from such grand operas as "Carmen," "The Bartered Bride," "Barber of Seville" and "Coq d'Or" and, as a contrast, will also include such popular pieces as "June," "Russian Rag" and "Southern Rhapsody."

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

ERRORS OF VISITING CARD INVITATIONS.

THE number of times women write, or telephone, to know whether they may not answer invitations on their visiting cards ought to swell the receipts of the post office and the telephone company to an enormous extent. I answer till I am tired—but the questions come. Perhaps, if I explain (for the double-dozenth time) how the custom of informal invitation by visiting card began, it may help! But before I do, let me state that no answer on a visiting card is ever correct. There is not an exception to this rule. Under no circumstances is it right.

An afternoon tea is the one informal occasion upon which it is considered entirely proper to invite people by sending out one's card, with the day and hour for receiving written in one corner. If a reception of more formal character is intended, a larger sort of "at home" card is usually sent out with the date and hour engraved, as well as the name of the hostess and the words "at home." To neither of these cards is it necessary to send an answer, for, at a general entertainment like this, guests are expected to come or not, as they please, and about three-quarters of those invited do please. This proportion is the average.

Now, once upon a time, a well known New York woman wanted to give a small musical in haste, so, to her intimate friends, she sent her visiting card with "Music, at 10 o'clock," written on it. Gradually, the idea that this was an easy way of inviting people began to spread through the country and all the "near socialites" adopted it for all the wrong occasions. They tried to give bridge parties (to which a definite number of players must be properly invited) in this way. Lunches, and even dinners, they imagined to be thus conducted. It is not so. If the manners of polite society are to be copied, they must first be understood. They do not, and never have, included the visiting card formal invitation, nor its answer on a visiting card.

The Work of Jack Frost

I FIRST heard of Jack Frost about 25 years ago. I asked what made the flowers on the window panes and some one said that it was the work of Jack Frost. I was interested in those flowers and also the trees and bushes and hills which I found on the windows on cold mornings.

A bit of the work of Jack Frost.

I can not remember making any search for Jack Frost himself. I had reached the age of 6 or 7 years and was old enough to guess that there was no such gentleman, and that my elders were just putting me off by giving me a name.

My question was not really answered Has yours ever been on the same subject? Probably not, for people still talk about that magic artist with the icy paint brush.

The truth is that the flowers are made by nature out of ice crystals. The crystals form when moist air in a room grows cold.

Ice crystals come from tiny drops of water. Each one has six sides or points. They start forming at the edges of a windowpane and then cover it up toward the center.

It is possible to help Jack Frost along when it is cold enough outside. If a windowpane is well covered with steam and the room is not too warm, ice crystals will begin to form before long.

Each crystal is very, very small, but when there are enough of them a pretty design will be made. We can not tell in advance what the design will be, but there always seems to be a pretty pattern.

Frost is also formed on windowpanes when ice melts and the water is frozen again into crystals.

So I have told you secrets about Jack Frost. I think that even when you know them you will continue to think that he is a magic fellow.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE LESSER JOYS.

Laughter and love and mirth
And of friendships tried and true,
A brave-hearted one or two;
These are the joys of earth,
The best that this life can give
However we choose to live.

A garden of summer flowers,
Books and an easy chair,
Small pleasures which we can share,
Though little or great our powers
Are the joys of our toilsome years
When the end of the way appears.

Not fortune or fame or place
Continue their charm for long.
Not ever the arm stays strong,
The joy of the hunt and chase,
With its sharp, insistent cry,
Grows wearisome by and by.

And the bravest of hearts requires
Glad hours of the lesser kind.
The calm and the peace of mind
That are found at his own hearth fires.
In friendship and flowers and mirth
He gathers the joys of earth.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 7, 1929.

FASHION forecasting is, if anything, a more dangerous and uncertain thing than weather forecasting. But be that as it may, we are going to hazard the prophecy that for some seasons to come you are going to see a good bit of stiff velvet.

The story of velvet in the last decade is a curious one. Always associated with a certain type of garment, stiff and heavy in texture, it had virtually sunk into oblivion. Then a daring spirit conceived the idea of making velvet which would have the suppleness and draping qualities of sheerer qualities. The result was transparent velvet.

Great Wave of Popularity.

That delightful fabric brought about a terrific wave of popularity for velvet, and it was used for virtually every type of garment.

Fashion being what it is, it was almost inevitable that sooner or later that would bring with it a revival of interest in other types of velvet, and particularly the stiff sort known in Paris as "velour antique," or English velvet. While it has not the sort of grace possessed by transparent velvet, it has qualities of its own, such as dignity and richness, equally valuable.

Stiff Velvet Now Sponsored.

At the moment stiff velvet is being definitely sponsored by such important houses as Martial et Armand and Molyneux. How far that movement goes depends upon its acceptance by the elegantes of the world—but we shall be very much surprised if we do not see a considerable amount of interest in this aristocratic old fabric in coming seasons.

* * * *

It took me 46 years of living—("How many?" growls Le Secretaire Galant in what would have been his Vandyke if we hadn't contrived to make him shave it off)—as we were saying, 56 years to acquire a sufficiency of costume slips to make life really worth living.

And then we discovered that 72 of those years had been wasted in the useless agony that the knowledge of not being well dressed is, because eight costume slips lasted us 25 years, whereas the two that we had always thought we could get along with before never lasted more than one year!

We hope you will not overlook the opportunity to profit from our ghastly experience, for we have prepared an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make eight costume slips, each with a minimum of time, of exertion and of material. And it shouldn't take you 1 per cent of 128 years to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the leaflet.

"Casanova"—Joseph Paquin's inspiration for an evening coat unusual. ('Nif our delightful editor corrects this to read "an unusual evening coat" we will just naturally—well, do something desperate. Because the talent, nay the genius, that could evolve a creation in the combination of flame red velvet and red velvet lame, deserves a few split infinitives or inverted or transposed adjectives or whatever grammatical maneuver I have just indulged in.)

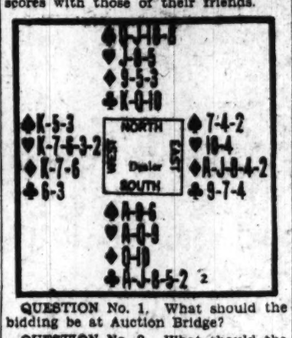
WORK ON BRIDGE

AUCTION BRIDGE AND CONTRACT BRIDGE.

TODAY sees the start of another five days of Bridge hands and the questions and answers concerning the bidding and play of them. Readers will find it interesting to see what percentage of questions they can answer correctly and compare their scores with those of their friends.



QUESTION No. 1. What should the bidding be at Auction Bridge?

QUESTION No. 2. What should the bidding be at Contract Bridge?

QUESTION No. 3. What four cards should be played on the first trick?

QUESTION No. 4. What suit should be led to trick 2 and which hand should win that trick?

THE ANSWERS.

1. At Auction South should obtain the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

2. At Contract South should bid one No Trump, North two No Trumps, South three No Trumps, which should obtain the contract. South, with a count of 18 but one of his suits not stopped, should not bid two on the first round; but after North's jump to two, South has the strength to bid three.

3. The first trick should be: West, Trey of Hearts; North, Five; East, Ten; South, Ace. South takes the first trick with the Ace, instead of the Queen, with the idea of deceiving West into thinking that East held Q-10 and has finessed the Nine against Dummy's Jack. The Declarer can make two Heart tricks, five Club tricks and three or four Spades, depending upon whether the Spade finesse will win—ample for game; but subject to this danger: If the Spade finesse lose and West then shift to a Diamond (which he will do if the Heart situation is disclosed to him), game would not be made as the adversaries must make at least four Diamonds. As the cards lie, they would make five.

4. To trick 2, South leads a small Club. North winning the trick so as to be in position to lead a Spade to trick 3 for the finesse.

Old Melodrama Haven In Detroit Is Razed

Detroit, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The Garrick oldest and gayest of Detroit theaters, which lived to survive many of the stars of its heydays of melodrama, has passed to the realm of memories. Yielding to newer and finer show palaces, as its stage gave way to modern drama, the old opera house landmark has been removed.

The theater opened in 1887 as the Whitney Grand Opera House with a then popular comedy, "A Chip of the Old Block." Then it ran the gamut of "daring" plays and daring stars. It was here that the plays of Lincoln J. Carter were staged, and here also Al. Woods and William A. Brady brought their early-day thrillers.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

An Unusual Boy.

MANY working girls give up nice clothes and a good time for the sake of helping the younger members of the family secure an education. Many young men have written me that they are denying themselves a family and a home of their own in order that some mother or younger brothers and sisters may have the comforts of life. But today's contribution on personal sacrifice is the first I have ever received from one so young.

"Dear Dr. Dean: I love to study and I am sending you my semiannual report card showing how well I do in school. The question now is should I stay in high school and drain my dad of the few dollars he earns? There are three younger ones besides myself. We have no mother and live in two rooms.

"I can go to work with my dad and thereby insure my smaller brothers and sisters a chance to be educated. If I do, my own plans and dreams will be ended.

"I can not stand seeing my father slaving for me to stay in high school. My 10-year-old brother wants to be an artist and I am going to try my best to get him there. What should I do?

"JUST FOURTEEN."

You are a courageous, conscientious boy. Your father should be more than proud of you. By every test I can apply it appears that continuing in school is the wiser plan for your family, to say nothing about yourself. You are a steady, thoughtful lad, able and eager to absorb the education offered you.

Your father must realize that every cent drained from his pocketbook is going to be returned to you and the other children and therefore indirectly to him at least fourfold. I know of no other investment which will pay such returns.

The first question employers ask youthful applicants these days is, "Are you a high school graduate?" If you take the right vocational course in the high school you will be prepared immediately upon graduation to earn your living at a good wage. At the present moment you could only earn the wages of the unskilled and untaught and your progress will be much slower than if you face the world with a trained brain.

Apparently you think a great deal of that brother who wants to be an artist. That's fine! But as a budding artist he will have no need for financial assistance from you for six years. By that time you will have been two years out of high school and with a good start in life.

With your common sense and mental capacity no grass will grow under your feet. You are likely to stand well up in the front ranks of the procession, and then you can help your brother to be an artist at the very time when he is ready for the training.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

A New Three R's.

First Mother: "How's your girl doing at school?"

Second Mother: "She's doing pretty good in the three R's."

Second Mother: "No, Rouge, Ragtime and Reading Confessions."

For Boys.

Does drafting lead to architecture?

Do office boy jobs have chances for advancement?

What do you think of reporting for a go-getting boy?

Answers to any of the above questions will be sent to you if you check the ones which interest you. Clip and forward your request with a stamped, addressed envelope.

Some Dirt in Every Job.

"I want to be a nurse. Mother says I must be a teacher. She says a nurse's work is constantly in an atmosphere of filth, and many of the things a nurse has to do are indelicate, to say the least. But, after all, nothing we do in life is particularly easy. Do you agree?

"WANT-TO-BE-A-NURSE."

Answer—In many walks of life the point of view is everything. To some laymen—and laywomen—the priceless service rendered by the physician, surgeon, dentist are very often of a disagreeable nature. Quite otherwise, fortunately for the rest of us, the professional man, the scientist, sees the situation as an essential human service and an interesting scientific problem. To a surgeon an operation well performed is "beautiful." The unedueated mind sees it as something—well, shall I say disgusting and horrible? Matter is never disgusting. Only wrong thinking makes it so.

The Gingham Gown Is Smart.

Quite the smartest frocks of all to pack away in the trunks marked "Palm Beach" are made of checked gingham. Over these frocks are worn knee-length coats of linen in a shade to match or contrast with the dress.

New Sweaters and Caps.

Intriguing new sweaters and caps are striped cross-wise, with two tones of one color or contrasting hues. They are ever so smart for sport wear.

For the Athletic Young Girl.

Surely nothing could be nicer for the athletic young girl than a suit that consists of a silk blouse with panties attached to it, and over which is worn a flannel or wool crepe skirt and coat.

Shaded Chiffon.

Extremely appropriate for seashore wear is an evening frock made of shaded chiffon, with long floating ends, which lengthen the skirt at either side.

Score-Keeper's Aid.

A clever little aid to scoring correctly in auction is a tiny gilt tablet, wafer thin, inscribed on either side with the proper honor and trick score, and the penalties for revoke, etc.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SOME children are pot-bellied—some more, some less. For this there are two reasons. In babyhood the diet consisted principally of milk and that food is principally water. In order to get sufficient nourishment it was necessary to distend the stomach. Older children who drink too much milk are likely to be unduly pot-bellied. But a more potent cause is weakness of the abdominal muscles. The abdominal muscles of a baby are little more than membranes. It is important that this condition be overcome as early as possible in life. To do this the child should be set to tasks to build up the abdominal muscles. Lying on the back and kicking upyard, raising the legs to the perpendicular will help and, therefore, should be encouraged. Dresses should be short, or bloomers should be worn as a means to this end.

When the child is able to run around he should be encouraged to stoop over and pick objects from the floor. This does not require a lot of persuasion. The mother or nurses should let objects drop on the floor and have the child pick them up and bring them to her. Playing stooping games and helping with the housework will develop these muscles.

It is important for the welfare of the growing child that the pelvic and shoulder girdles should be set at right angles with the spine. To keep the shoulders right requires development of the shoulder muscles. For this purpose tug-of-war play, climbing, pulling on ropes are good examples. There is nothing else so good for keeping the spine straight and the pelvic and shoulder girdles straight as balancing weights on the head. The woman who carries a bucket of water that way has found the perfect exercise for keeping these girdles as they should be. We are told that the German people are now paying more attention to muscular development and bodily vigor than are any other people. The parents of young children having gone through the "turner" system in their youth are giving "turner" exercises to their young children.

PUNISHING POOR EATER.

E. S. I. writes: I have observed certain methods of punishing a boy with poor appetite, who is finicky about eating and has sinus trouble and a tendency to nose bleed. I do not think the methods proper, and I want your opinion.

1. Should a parent put mustard on a child's tongue as a punishment?

2. Would the mustard cause blisters on the tongue, throat and stomach, as it does on the skin?

3. Should a child be given one teaspoonful of cod liver oil three times a day, or three teaspoonsful once a day?

4. If a parent boxes a child's ears, will that cause sinus trouble or nose bleed?

5. Should a child be given medicine that has stood in the bottle three months or longer?

REPLY:

1 and 2. While mustard will cause a blister on the skin, it will not have the same effect on the child's tongue or stomach, because it is diluted and washed away.

3. Probably three times a day, but there is probably no great difference. The dose you mention is somewhat small.

4. Not sinus trouble. Nose bleed is possible. So is rupture of the ear drum.

5. Depends on the medicine. Most alcoholic solutions keep well.

DEMPSEY'S COMEBACK WAS RICKARD'S LAST PLAN

Tech-Western Fives Clash Today

Surprise Winners in Openers to Feature Double Header.

Business and Central to Play Other Game in New Tech Gym.

BEGUN in a whirl of upsets which saw the favorites crumple and the underdogs come into their own in the opening contests last Saturday, the high school basket ball series will be resumed this afternoon with Tech meeting Western and Business engaging Central in the new Tech High School Gymnasium, beginning at 3:15 o'clock.

The games will offer an entirely new angle from those of last Saturday at Catholic University, which saw Western unexpectedly triumph over Central and Tech do likewise over Eastern. First of all, the new Tech Gymnasium will be thrown open for the first time to house the series, an event which will give none of the teams which played last Saturday any advantage over the other in the way of floor experience, while the program also will mark the series' debut of the Business High Quintet.

The victories of the Western and Tech Fives on Saturday makes their game the feature one on this afternoon's program.

The Business Five's clash with Central, however, should be interesting because of its being the Stenographers' first appearance in league play. A win against Central would make things complete in the way of upsets and would deal the Central Five a death blow in the series.

The Western-Tech fray promises to be a brisk combat from start to finish, with the series lead at stake.

Coach Artie Boyd plans to start the same array which performed throughout against Eastern without a substitution, with the possible exception of Capt. Jakie Goldblatt, who may play in his regular guard position held down by Jones last Saturday. Goldblatt, still nursing a cold, likely will be used if his condition warrants, although Coach Boyd plans keeping him out unless it is necessary for him to play.

Carl MacCartee, who was the highlight of his team's play against Eastern, will again hold down the center position, with Talburtt and Johnson in the front court. Paul Brown, whose performance Saturday was the one steadying influence for his team, will cavort at left guard, with Johns as his running mate.

Coach Moore will start Capt. Woods and J. Thompson, forwards; Freeman, center, and Herbie Thompson and Mike Hunt, guards, for Western. This combination played in excellent fashion against Central.

Although little is known as to the strength of the Business Five, the manner in which it toppled Washington and Lee High and St. John's last week impressed. Coach Lynn Woodworth has a bulky collection of performers to draw from and expects to use most all who played in the two winning practice games last week.

Of course, he had a regular line-up in mind, but his second string array is almost as good as his first-string men. However, the line-up will be picked from Lester Jones, L. Singman, Newman and Mahoney, forwards; M. Singman and Payne, centers; Finley, Linwood Jones, Denniberg and Lewis, guards. The Business Team has no captain, it being Woodworth's plan to appoint an acting leader before each game. Lewis probably will get the call today.

There is a possibility that the Central team will start with a slightly different line-up from that of last week.

BOXERS ON WHOM CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY BANKS HEAVILY THIS SEASON

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.

Catholic University faces a program of four gruelling boxing matches this season, but Coach Teddy Mitchell is confident the Cardinals will be ready and able to meet the issue, having an abundance of hardy mittmen drilling in daily workouts. Pictured above are five in whom he places much faith. They are, across the top—Neal McGrath, light heavyweight; Joe Bell, welterweight; Jack Malevitch, heavyweight, and Capt. Mickey McGuire, lightweight. Below—Frank Fullam, middleweight, and in inset, Coach Mitchell.

Joe Dundee and Fields May Fight in Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 7 (U.P.).—Promoter Jim Mullen announced tonight he will attempt to sign Joe Dundee, welterweight title holder, for a championship bout with Jackie Fields. The match would be staged in Chicago.

Dundee has not fought a championship match since June 3 of last year, when he was matched with Pete Latzo. Mullen made no mention of the terms he will offer either fighter.

Mullen will leave here tomorrow to attend the funeral of Tex Rickard. He termed Rickard's death "one of the greatest blows the boxing game could have suffered."

A.A.U. Approves Nurmi; In America for Year

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi, most famous of Finland's great array of distance runners, was granted registration as an amateur athlete by the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union today.

Appearing in person at association headquarters Nurmi announced he intended to remain in the United States for at least a year and took occasion to deny emphatically that he had any intention of turning professional.

Nurmi, a draftsman for a Finnish automobile firm, said his visit to this country was primarily for study of American automotive methods.

Although he plans an active track campaign the "Phantom Finn" said he was not yet ready to announce his athletic program.

Nurmi did say, however, that he had not yet agreed to accept any of the many invitations showered upon him. He will compete unattached during his stay here, representing no club. He will maintain his home in New York while here, although he plans numerous trips to Detroit and other cities, where there are large automobile companies.

Revamped G. U. Five Faces Duke Tonight at American U.

A SHAKE-UP will be effected in the line-up of the Georgetown University five when it takes the floor tonight against the Duke Blue Devils in the American University gymnasium.

This revamping by the Hilltop mentor takes Hal Meenan, veteran guard, out of the starting array, at least temporarily, but in explaining the changes Ripley stated that he was not dissatisfied with Meenan's playing; rather he was actuated by the exceptionally fine work turned in by Captain Mesmer as a guard and Dillon as a tap-off man in Georgetown's recent road games.

So much dash and pep, together with an excellent knowledge of the game's fundamentals, were shown by Dillon against New York University last week, Ripley said, that the former substitute could not be denied a place in the starting line-up any longer.

When Georgetown staged a remarkable uphill fight in the second half against N. Y. U., nearly wiping out the huge lead the Violet enjoyed at halftime, Coach Ripley traced the cause to the inspired efforts of Dillon. With Mesmer at guard the mentor also noted an improvement, the midget Hoya leader doing much to check the New Yorkers' powerful offense.

Meenan will be on the Georgetown bench tonight and likely will be among the first to get the emergency call if needed. Bill Shea, forward, and Jack Byrnes, guard, also will be first considered reserves.

Duke is bringing two former Washington schoolboy stars here and interest in the game therefore exceeds any shown for previous local collegiate contests this season. Harry Councilor and Bill Werber, who were mainstays on the court for Tech High School for three years, will cavort for the Blue Devils. "Slim" Carson, another former Tech satellite, is on the Duke squad but will not play because of the freshman rule. He will not be eligible for varsity competition until February 1, when he will have completed his first year at the Durham (N. C.) school.

Both Councilor and Werber are rated highly on the visiting quintet for which they now are playing their second season as regulars. Councilor is a forward and Werber a guard, but both are exceptionally keen scorers. Janowski, another veteran, also plays a leading role in the Blue Devils' offense, and he, coupled with the District products, constitutes an attacking force that Georgetown will likely find troublesome.

Contrary to reports, Georgetown did not defeat New York A. C. in New York City last Saturday night, for the simple reason that there was no game. An engagement with the Gotham clubmen had been scheduled, but was called off at the last moment. Nevertheless, some highly imaginative person circulated a story by telegraph that the Hoyas had won by a score of 28 to 20.

Atlanta's Greatest Welcome Greets Georgia Tech Eleven

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech, the South's greatest football storm of years, was finally subdued tonight. Some 60,000 cheering home folks accomplished the feat as the team returned from its Rose Bowl victory over the University of California.

The moment the players disembarked in the station yards, surrounded by hundreds of hilarious admirers who had forced the gates, the celebration started. Scores rushed Coach William A. Alexander as he stepped from his car with his mother and he laughingly grasped as many hands as possible before the rush carried him into the station corridors. Every man of the squad had his own little army of well wishers milling around.

Photographers' powder flashed almost in unison at different spots in the waiting room and lobby. In front of the station several thousand had massed, unable to gain entrance. Several bands were playing "Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech."

"Miss Atlanta," Mrs. Winfrey Stuart Ramsey, was at the forefront and, with "Colonel Georgia" and "Uncle Sam" by her side, greeted the gridiron stars as they entered automobiles, and then the parade began. National guardsmen, reserve officers training corps youths, high school bands, police bands and other organizations were in the van, and the players following. For blocks thousands crowded into the streets to cheer as the procession swept by.

It was probably the greatest outburst of Atlanta's history, a temperature of below freezing notwithstanding. Those for Bobby Jones, on his return from golfing triumphs abroad, seemed tame in comparison. The parade finally dispersed at Grant Field, Tech's stadium.

Catholic U. Ring Team Schedules 4 Matches

Four team matches complete the boxing schedule of Catholic University, which was announced last night. Coach Teddy Mitchell's glove pushers will compete in two local matches and two in foreign rings.

They will open up against New York University on February 2 at New York City and will stage their first home match in the Brookland gymnasium with Temple, of Philadelphia, on February 13. On February 23 the Cardinals will travel to Lexington, Va., to meet Washington and Lee, following which their concluding performance of the season will come on March 2, with Western Maryland visiting here.

Frank Fullam, freshman middleweight, is causing a sensation at the Brookland school with his clever showing in recent practices. Coach Mitchell is counting on him to produce several winning efforts when the campaign starts.

Arm Ailment Is Cured, Moore Advises Yankees

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Wilcy Moore, New York Yankee pitcher, who led the American League in effectiveness in 1927, but was so handicapped by a sore arm last year that his usefulness to the world's champions was seriously impaired, believes that his arm has been restored by rest.

The pitcher has written from his Hollis, Okla., home to Secretary E. G. Barrow that he is "as fit as a fiddle." Moore, who is on the voluntary retired list, will apply to President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, for reinstatement and will go to Hot Springs, Ark., February 1 for a course of baths and mountain climbing. Secretary Barrow instructed him not to put on a baseball uniform at the Spa and told him not to throw a baseball.

George Godfrey Loses On Foul to Al Walker

Freak Score Registered As Pets Beat Saks, 112-1

The Petworth Metropolitans amassed a 112-1 victory last night in the Petworth Gymnasium, completely submerging the Saks Trojans in a freak game. The losing team went scoreless during the second half after getting its lone point in the first half on a foul shot by Schector. The Pets ran up a score of 48 points in the first two periods, and literally staged a track meet in the final two quarters.

Heinrichs scored 18 baskets, Jasper 14 and Buehm 9, to lead the deluge.

Rickard to Lie In State at Garden

Remains to Be Honored in $5,000,000 Temple He Built.

Sports Events Called Off; Public Will View Body.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The body of Tex Rickard is to lie in state in Madison Square Garden, the monumental sports arena his genius made possible.

A change of plans, agreed to by Mrs. Rickard this afternoon as the fast express bearing her husband's flower-strewn coffin sped northward, will permit the public to pay its last respects to the late promoter within the $5,000,000 building which stands as a testimonial to Tex's success.

The public will not be admitted until Wednesday morning, however, although the Havana Special of the Florida East Coast Line, bringing the body to this city, is due at 10:19 a. m. Tuesday.

After the public has been permitted to file past Rickard's coffin from 10 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday, private funeral services wil be held in the Garden, attended by close friends and associates of the promoter.

Instead of in the ornate chapel of Frank Campbell's funeral parlors, therefore, Tex is to be honored as he probably would have wished, in the vast arena erected for him after he had successfully raised professional boxing from an underworld "racket" to a respectable and highly profitable business.

When the crowds storm the entrances of the big garden on Wednesday for a last glimpse of the dead promoter and a last prayer for him on his greatest adventure, it will seem strange to miss that unobtrusive, almost furtive figure who used to stand smoking his cigar in the shadows, estimating the attendance with a gratified smile wrinkling his bronzed features. It will seem strange that Tex isn't there, leaning on his cane, shifting his cigar rapidly and chuckling:

"Greatest lot of people I ever saw. Never saw anything like it."

Rickard loved crowds, and his genius concentrated upon attracting them. It is probable that the largest crowd in the history of the new Madison Square Garden will be that which goes to pay its respects to Tex.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes James M. Bush, one of the three largest stockholders in the Garden, and Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of directors of the Scripps-Howard newspapers. They are awaiting the wishes of Mrs. Rickard before reaching any final decision as to the funeral services.

Rickard, a man of the early West, had no personal religion, but his friendship was for all people, and the committee is considering inviting a rabbi, a Protestant minister and a Catholic priest to participate in the services at the Garden.

Mrs. Rickard herself is a Catholic, and services of that faith were held for the late promoter before his body was placed aboard the "Havana Special" at 11:35 last night.

If the young widow chooses, services will be confined to those of the Catholic religion. Otherwise Rabbi Stephen Wise, Bishop William Manning and Father Francis P. Duffy, chaplain of the Rainbow Division, may be invited to officiate.

Dempsey Is Through As Boxer, Will Promote Miami Bout, Is Word

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—James M. Lynch, local hotel man and friend of Jack Dempsey, who arrived today from Miami with the Rickard funeral train, declared Dempsey told him he will not enter the ring again but will "pick up where Rickard left off and devote his time entirely to promotion."

"Dempsey told me that if Tex Rickard had lived he would have fought the winner of the Stribling-Sharkey bout," said Lynch, "but added that now since Rickard is gone, he will pick up where Rickard left off."

"It can be said officially that Dempsey will never fight again," Lynch continued. "He told me so yesterday while we waited to start North. If Rickard had lived, Dempsey would have fought again, but not now."

Lynch joined Dempsey here when the latter passed through en route to Miami, a few days ago. He long has been a close friend of the former heavyweight champion.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey will be matchmaker and promoter of the Stribling-Sharkey fight here the night of February 27, details of which had been arranged by Tex Rickard just two weeks prior to his death, according to G. R. K. Carter, associate of Rickard in his kennel club and fight venture.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The train bearing the body of Tex Rickard to New York passed through here shortly after noon today.

During a brief stop, Jack Dempsey alighted and walked with Steve Hannegan, another member of the funeral party, to the baggage coach in which

Dempsey, Called Best of Group, Needed to Stimulate Game.

Names Labarba Best of Bamtams; Ignores Izzy Schwartz.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—"Tex" Rickard's last contribution to boxing literature is his ranking list for 1928, coupled with what he planned to be the definite announcement of Jack Dempsey's comeback this year. It is contained in a copyrighted story written by the promoter for the issue of The Ring, monthly boxing publication, appearing this Friday.

Rickard's rankings are especially significant, as giving the promoter's final analysis of the game he developed so extensively. Equally interesting is his forecast of Dempsey's plans, even though they now are in doubt as a result of the promoter's death.

The promoter ranked the former champion as the outstanding heavyweight now that Tunney had retired and declared that Dempsey would fight once, either in August or September, as a finalist in the elimination tournament that gets under way with a battle between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Fla., February 27.

"Jack Dempsey will come back this year," Tex wrote in a signed article. "One cannot think of Dempsey except in terms of greatness and therefore in his case, inactivity last year must be disregarded in the rating of the world's leading heavyweights, for he is greater than any fighter now basking in the limelight and striving for the title left vacant by Gene Tunney.

"The return of Dempsey will cause the public to accept the appointment of a successor to Tunney as a genuine champion. The fellow who can whip Dempsey will earn the recognition of the public as champion. He will win their confidence and after all public opinion is what will count most in deciding Tunney's successor. Although Dempsey lost the verdict to Tunney at Chicago, there are thousands of fight fans throughout the world who feel that he is the uncrowned world's heavyweight champion.

"Dempsey will fight only once and that one battle will be for me and it will decide the holder of the crown. He will be one of two finalists, the other to be selected from other contenders. Dempsey is the former champion and as such is entitled to more consideration than Sharkey, Stribling, Paulino, Heeney, Risko and the rest of the field. The date of the title bout will depend on how long Dempsey needs to get in condition.

"Dempsey is coming back to give the heavyweight class the punch it now lacks, to reinject a lot of the old interest and Dempsey color into the situation. The public wants Dempsey to return and he will heed public clamor as did Jim Jeffries."

In rating 416 boxers from all parts of the world in the various divisions on the basis of the ring wars of 1928, Rickard placed Gene Tunney, although he is retired, at the head of the heavyweights, named Fidel Labarba as the outstanding bantamweight in a division that knows no generally recognized ruler, and gave the same recognition to Spider Pladner, of France, of the leaderless flyweights.

The promoter gave Jimmy McLarnin the palm among the junior welter-

COCHET RAPS U. S. HOSPITALITY TO FRENCH NETMEN

Forest Hills Welcome Is Called Cool

Team, as Champions, Not Treated Same as Formerly.

French Ace Declares Courts Were Poor; Lauds Hunter.

PARIS, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Henri Cochet, world's ranking No 1 tennis player, complains that Forest Hills was cooler to the French this year and that the courts were in bad condition.

The coolness of which the conqueror of Tilden, Lacoste and Hunter complains was not that of the weather, but in the spontaneity of the welcome both from the officials and the spectators, which, he says, lacked the warmth of previous French invasions when France was the underdog in tennis.

The former Lyons ball boy, now at the top of the tennis heap, unburdens himself of the following in a signed article in a Paris tennis and golf publications:

"Deception was my ruling emotion in Forest Hills in spite of the fact that I had the satisfaction of succeeding Rene Lacoste as American champion. My comrades and myself felt less at ease at Forest Hills than in the past.

"I was conscious that we were not welcomed with that enthusiastic cordiality which had been the charm of our previous visits. The American organization also seemed less perfect than usual.

"Several times I left the stadium discontented, and that because the courts seemed defective, badly cared for and far from being in a condition worthy of such an important tournament as the American championships."

Turning from knocking to boosting, Cochet concludes, picking Frank Hunter as the object of special mention:

"The finals I disputed against Francis T. Hunter, one of the most sympathetic and loyal adversaries I have ever met.

"I was extended to the full of my resources of energy to win. Hunter demonstrated that on his own courts and before his own public. His tennis is 'O per cent better than he has ever shown us here in France."

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT S. COLLYER.

GROUCHER.

Chalk up another victory for Mose Goldblatt, the blonde-haired gent from Cincinnati, who trains the mavericks of H. P. Whitney at New Orleans. Mose believes in hunches. He won the fifth race with Virado Saturday and he has more than his eye on the fifth race today. GROUCHER'S previous race behind Macedon makes him look like a standout.

The Seagram boys dropped TETRA GLASS in a nice spot in the second race and I understand the commissions are planted in Detroit in large gobs.

FALSE PRIDE and GENUINE hook up again in the third, and to me it looks like another easy victory for FALSE PRIDE. PHANTOM FIRE is likely to grab the place if he keeps up with the early pace.

Word reaches me via the grapevine route that BIG SANDY goes for the coonskin in the opening event. While his races have been just fair, he showed a sensational turn of speed the other morning. UNUM, a commission horse a while back, is bound to go well here.

HELEN DEAN, a dame with a little class, is taken to beat VIRADO in the fourth race.

SPORT DRESS is the hot tamale in the sixth. Her last race was a trifle better than the dope would indicate.

VANDUSE was the medium of an overnight plunge in the seventh. MISS MEISE and LUCKY DRIFT figure close up.

ZUKER appears to be the standout at Havana, carded to start in the second spasm. GERMAINE CHAUVELOT has little to beat in the opening affair.

GLAD ALICE comes to me as the sweet patootie in the opening race for 2-year-olds at Tia Juana.

BRAVES' HEAD FLAYED BY CITY CHIEF

Boston Councilman Says Fuchs Is Liar, Adams a Hypocrite.

BOSTON, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The Boston City Council postponed at its meeting late today the election of its 1929 president and imposed further delays in the way of granting a permit to the Boston National League Baseball Club to play Sunday baseball in this city. Its action was taken after another attack on Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, whose charges of attempted extortion by city council members in connection with local ratification of the Sunday sports law are being investigated by the finance commission and by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner.

Councilman William G. Lynch, named by Fuchs as the man who sought from him bribes of $5,000 apiece for himself and twelve other councilmen to vote for Sunday sports, was to have been nominated for the council presidency today by colleagues, irate at Fuchs' charges.

An order introduced by Councilman John F. Dowd, calling for the appointment of a committee of five to consider regulations governing the granting of Sunday baseball permits, was adopted unanimously. On introducing the order, Dowd declared, "We have a right to tell these gentlemen outside of Boston, who come here thinking Boston is a hick town and they can get away with anything, how much they shall charge us.

"I will go down to political defeat before I'll let Fuchs, the liar, or Adamse the narrow-minded hypocrite, blackjack or coerce a Dowd into giving them that permit."

Tomorrow the finance commission will resume its hearings on the bribe charges and countercharges brought by those accused.

The attorney general's office, meanwhile, continued today its investigation into charges made before the commission by Joseph P. Walsh, attorney for Lynch, that a list of contributors to the Outdoor Recreation League, sponsors of the Sunday sports bill filed with the secretary of State, was false. Walsh alleged that Fuchs gave almost all the $30,000 listed as coming from various contributors.

G. U. TRACKMEN TRAINING FOR ACTIVE INDOOR YEAR

Wildermuth's Triumph Is Impressive

Brooklyn Showing of Burke, Downing and Kennedy Pleases.

Coach O'Reilly Plans Interclass Meet Saturday.

ELATED over the showing of his pupils in the Brooklyn "Casey" games last Saturday, Coach John D. O'Reilly resumed practice for the Georgetown University trackmen yesterday on the board oval at the Hilltop.

The sensational display of speed uncorked by Karl Wildermuth, the Hoya sprint ace, was, naturally, the thing that tickled the venerable coach the most, for Wildermuth proved in winning all three races of the special sprint series that he had regained the form that made him an Olympic prospect last year before he encountered the misfortune of an injury to his leg that killed his chances of going to the Amsterdam games.

Wildermuth tied the world's record of 7 1-5 seconds in winning the 60-meter dash, while he decisively headed the field in the finish of the 80 and 100 meters, taking the latter by 2 feet "under wraps," as they would say at Bowie. His time in the "80" was 9 seconds and in the longer sprint 11 1-5 seconds.

Coach O'Reilly was cheered not a little, too, by the performances of three of the freshmen runners—Vic Burke, John Kennedy and John Downing. The first named won third place in the Gov. Smith 500-yard special, while Kennedy was second in the "1,000," with Downing taking third in the first section of the same event, which was split owing to an unwieldy field.

Competition for the Hilltop thinclads will come in large and frequent doses from now on. Starting on Saturday, January 19, a number of them will get into action in northern meets on almost every Saturday until early March.

This Saturday O'Reilly will put his charges through their paces in a handicap interclass meet, but on the following week-end he will select eight or ten of the varsity athletes to take part in the Brooklyn College games at Brooklyn and thereafter will send about the same number to the following meets:

Boston Knights of Columbus at Boston, January 26; Boston A. A. at Boston, February 2; Millrose A. A. at New York City, February 9; Meadowbrook Club at Philadelphia, February 12; A. A. U. national senior championships at New York City, February 23; Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships at New York City, March 2. In addition to this program the Hilltop also may be represented in the New York A. C. games on a Saturday yet unannounced.

Grove, of Macks, Ill At Lonaconing Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Lonaconing, Md., Jan. 7.—Robert M. "Lefty" Grove, the star pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, is recovering from an attack of grip at his home here. He is taking every precaution to ward off influenza, which has attacked a large number of residents.

He had planned to start his preseason training by hiking the mountainsides during the early morning hours, but will have to forego this work for the present. He expects to leave Lonaconing about February 20 to join the other Mackmen to Southern training quarters.

Outfielder "Red" Barnes Signs 1929 Nat Contract

Emile Barnes, the Alabama redhead, who promises to have something to say when Manager Walter Johnson picks his 1929 Nat outfield at Tampa next month, has signed his contract and it was received by President Clark Griffith yesterday Barnes is the second player now in the fold, Pitcher E Garland Braxton having affixed his name to a contract some time ago.

In a letter accompanying the document Barnes advised the Washington owner that he is in first-class physical condition and anxiously awaiting the time to start work at the Smoker City Camp.

Basketball Shots

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

FITTINGLY enough, few colleges have made a better record in basket ball year in and year out than Springfield, where the game was invented and first played with peach baskets with the bottoms knocked out as goals back in the winter of 1891-1892. This season appears to be no exception.

Starting the campaign with only one regular surviving from the year before, the strong though green team representing the birthplace of the game won its first two tilts on successive nights on a New York trip.

After outclassing Pratt Institute, 30 to 11, the little Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. college nosed out the Crescent Athletic Club, a powerful assemblage of college stars of other years, by 27 to 25, and Capt. Red Duncan, the lone regular, was crippled, at that, by an ankle injury suffered on the football field.

More jolts than had been received in all the half dozen seasons previous were absorbed last year and thus far in the present one by the University of Kansas.

As though inspired by the presence of Dr. James Naismith, who first conceived the game of basket ball while a student of physical education at Springfield, and who has been a member of the Kansas faculty, it seemed that an unbreakable tradition of victory had been established as the Jayhawkers reeled off five straight Missouri Valley conference championships after tying with the Missouri Tigers in 1922.

Over that great stretch Kansas won 87 out of 94 conference games and averaged about 30 points a game to its opponents' 19, a remarkable tribute to the coaching genius of Dr. Forrest C. Allen

Sooner or later the lean years come along for the best of them and last season Kansas finished fourth in the field of ten while Oklahoma topped the conference. The jinx bobbed up again this season when a Notre Dame Five that had not been cutting any great swath in Middlewestern play felled the Jayhawkers by 32 to 21 and 29 to 17 in December games on their own court.

It will be interesting to see how well the Kansans make out in their quest of sectional glory in the new "big six" circuit, and also to note their progress in an ambitous program of intersectional games which takes in such teams as Notre Dame and California.

Nat Holman has a few things to say about the professional influence over the amateur game in basket ball. Doing double duty as leader of the Hakoah all-Jewish Five, New York's entry in the American Professional League, and coach of the City College of New York Quintet, the great exforward of the now disintegrated original Celtics should know whereof he speaks.

"The pro game's principal influence," says Nat, "has been over the amateur's game. The pro knows that his team can not score if the ball is continuously in his opponent's possession. He is careful of his passes; he makes no wild shots at the basket; he 'nurses' the ball until an opening comes for him to plunge through.

"A decade ago amateur basket ball was marked by long-distance shooting. Today through the influence of the professional, the amateurs aim for more conservative and methodical passing, with the result that the game has changed considerably and has improved from the spectator's point of view."

Holman adds that college coaches recruited from the professional court have brought this influence to bear to a great extent. Among them he names Ed Wachter of Harvard, Lew Wachter of Dartmouth, the late Joe Fogarty of Yale, "Chief" Muller of Manhattan, Rube Cashman of Villanova, Elmer Ripley of Georgetown and Lew Sugarman of Princeton and Pennsylvania.

160 BOYS OUT FOR TRACK AT TECH

Only 4 of 1928 Team Return; Good Hurdler Is Needed.

ANY one visiting Tech High School on T street northeast these days might note early signs of the spring season, for inside the four walls of the spacious new gymnasium for the past four or five days 160 or more boys have been going through exercises in attire much more suited to outdoor work such as used in the spring months.

These 160 boys, on close observation, form the track array from which Coach Hap Hardell will pick a team from this year. And quite a task he is going to have, especially in view of the fact that only four of last year's team are back as a nucleus. Three of these are part of the relay team, namely, Edwards, Nebel and Reichman, while Fountain is a dash man.

Practice, which started only last week, so far has been confined to limbering up work with the entire cast taking part. Even during this work Coach Hardell keeps close vigil on the many candidates in the hope of "finding" a performer possessing natural ability. "Sometimes you can almost tell a good track man when you see him," is the way "Hap" puts it, and it is true.

Quite often a man stands out from his first appearance whether he practices running, jumping, &c., or simply goes through the limbering-up work. Although no "natural ability" men have shown so far, Coach Hardell is still looking and hopes to find one or two to round out his team which he hopes to send in the spring meets fully conditioned.

Hardell will have to build up every department of his team before spring if he expects it to make a good showing in the spring and in the indoor meets this winter. Especially will he have to look around for a hurdler to take the place of Al Pope, who was his best man in this department last year, and who is not returning to school this year.

In addition to supervising the work of his athletes and separating the sheep from the goats, Hardell is faced with the task of finding a suitable place to hold indoor workouts prior to the spring months. His hopes of using the new Tech gymnasium altogether this winter are blasted because of the playing of the high school basket ball series there twice a week and basket ball practice by the Tech Five on the other days. He hopes, however, to squeeze in practice sessions in the spacious gymnasium until March, when he plans to take his squad over to the Eastern stadium, where his charges can run and jump to their hearts' content until time to cut the squad comes around. Arrangements for the use of the Eastern grounds are already in progress.

CENTER POST WEAKNESS OF G. W.

Snow Has Edge, But Lacks Experience; Fine Is "Find."

INVALIDS found themselves able to once more don basket ball togs last night at George Washington University and Coach "Maud" Crum found his squad complete for the first time since the holidays. Bill Snow and Paul Bowen, both victims of the flu, reported back for their first workout in the new year and showed no trace of their recent illness. With their presence, Crum was able again to enter the preseason training in earnest.

However, only Snow took his place in the so-called "Varsity." Crum is in dire need of centers at present and is trying numerous men at the position. At present, Snow appears to have the edge, although lacking in experience. Outside of the tap-off position, the Colonials appear to be fairly well fixed in material.

With Barrow and Gray at guard, and Allshouse and Fine at forward, the downtown coach thinks he has the best combination from among his squad. The last named is one of the "finds" of the year, according to Crum. Although standing a little over 5 feet, Fine appears to be heading straight for a varsity berth.

This is his first year in varsity competition, but the diminutive forward looks to have the goods. If he can keep up the good work, he probably will be in the starting line-up when the Crummen open their season.

Barrow and Gray, from last year, are both going well and exhibiting midseason form at present. Both played with the Buff and Blue in 1928 and, with this experience behind them, should be in for a big year. "Reds" Allshouse, the other forward, is also showing great form at this stage of the game and is popping them in from every angle.

Crum is trying no less than four men at the important center post. Besides Snow, he has Christopher, 6 feet 6 prospect, but sadly lacking in polish; Bill Blaine, a regular guard, whom he is trying to convert into a center, and "Jake" Schaffert, who has seen much service with independent teams. So far, he is unable to pick a favorite.

The Colonial coach was endeavoring last night to get in touch with the Elizabethtown Five, which is coming to the city Friday for a game with the American University Methodists. If successful in his plans, Crum will send his men against the Pennsylvania lads in a game Saturday evening.

He hopes to play them as a preliminary drill for the American University game, which is to be played Wednesday, January 16. The G street boys will give everything they have to take the measure of the Methodists, who held them to an even break in two encounters last year.

MILLER WINS PIN TOURNEY AT TEMPLE

642 Set Remains High; Hefflefinger Gains Second Place.

TWO changes among the leaders were recorded last night in the holiday tournament of the Northeast Temple alleys as the event came to a close after it had been extended an extra day because of the huge entry list.

Those breaking into the elite class were F. Mischou and Tommy Nolan, whose set of 1,155 put them in third place in the doubles, while a 629 set by Pete Hefflefinger enabled him to pull down second prize in the singles.

First singles honors went to Frank Miller, who shot a 642 to win by thirteen pins. Seven pins behind Hefflefinger was Sam Benson, with 622, while Paul James' total of 611 was good enough to let him finish in fourth position.

In the doubles, J. H. Hiser and F. Holloran copped first prize. This pair turned in the only set above the 1,200 mark—1,229—which was 59 higher than the 1,170 total credited to R. Houck and J. Langford, who had a 15-pin margin over Mischou and Nolan. The R. Watkins-J. H. Lynch combination sneaked into fourth place, with 1,144.

All of the four leaders in the battle for team honors were well over the 1,600 mark, first place going to the Anchor A. C., which had a total of 1,694. Parkway Filling Station was next, with 1,676, with the Plumbing Industry Five third. The latter's 1,669 was just one pin higher than the total credited to the Potomac A. A.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

"AFTER the ball is over—" then what? Do you come into your room, throw your wrap on the nearest chair, drop your clothes in a heap where you stand and fall into bed? And, if you do, aren't you confronted with a sad melee when you awake in the morning, and doesn't it tend to destroy the glamor of the night before?

It takes but a fraction of time to arrange your clothes as you take them off, and, of course, it is infinitely better for the clothes themselves! Your evening wrap, for instance, is going to keep its freshness far longer if you hang it on its hanger. Your frock, too, belongs on a hanger, and it is well to have that hung on the outside of the closet door, so it may be aired. Lingerie can be laid across a chair, together with stockings, rather than thrown hither and yon. And shoes—if you don't do anything else, you should put shoetrees in your evening slippers! For, with their pliable, fragile fabrics, they lose their shape almost immediately unless this precaution is taken.

And, after your clothes, what about your face? Unless you remove every trace of make-up, you are taking great liberties with your skin! I think a liquid cleanser is especially good for such occasions, because all you have to do is pour some on a bit of cotton and apply it, but, of course, any cleansing medium that you use regularly is satisfactory. If you are very sleepy, the cleansing will suffice, but I think every cleansing process is improved by following it with bathing the face gently with warm water and a soft cloth, then with a dash of cold water. Eye make-up is another item that should be thoroughly removed before going to bed; if that isn't done, there is often real danger of some of the cosmetics getting into the eyes while you sleep. And, if you can take a minute to bathe the eyes with an eye cup, they will be far fresher in the morning.

Like so many things in the quest of beauty, these take almost more time to tell than they do to perform. And these few simple rites are going to make a vast difference in your appearance and your mental aspect on the morning after the night before!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

ARE there any girls today who look forward to marriage as an end instead of a means to some end? Are there any who actually look forward eagerly to marriage at all?

We will agree that girls still say, "Yes," hem the curtains, and finally settle the question of whether it will be a bungalow with a one-car garage, or a city apartment. But what we want to know is whether any girls still exist who would rather be married than be movie stars, business executives or law-makers.

Listening in upon conversations between girls is our every day lunching thrill. And our eavesdropping has been rich in its rewards.

"Why don't you take him and get it over; you can't do any better and you ought to know it by now. Every other man you ever went with was a false alarm and you know it."

"Yes, I guess that's right. I guess I will; I told him I'd take him at Easter."

Blessed be Easter! How can any girl look for success in any venture embarked upon with so little spirit, such dearth of enthusiasm? How can any marriage thrive on such poor fervor? Yet the number of marriages made in just this half-hearted fashion is appalling. Jane starts out to win fame and fortune with her voice. She fails and after a year or so, marries gold old Tom who bored her to tears a year ago and bores her to tears today. They manage to remain married by dint of self-control. But is that sort of union marriage. Far be it from Jane to consider she had done an unholy and horrible thing. She has done what thousands have done before her and what thousands do every day. It is one of the things that is undermining a very necessary institution.

True, grandmother married the boy on the next farm because he was handy and also dependable. But at least grandmother got a thrill out of the idea of marrying him; marriage in itself was thrilling to her. Not so with Jane whose soul sighs for the sight of her name in electric lights a foot high. Grandmother did the best she could according to the light given her, which was little enough. But Jane!

What can a half-hearted bride bring to marriage? And are any girls today really thrilled over marriage?

Tell the truth girls, this once. Why are you going to marry, if at all?

BUCK ROGERS, 2429 A. D. — The Awakening — By Phillip Nowlan and Richard Calkins

WHEN I EMERGED FROM THE MINE WHERE I HAD LAIN IN A STATE OF SUSPENDED ANIMATION, IT WAS TO FIND A STRANGE WORLD.
I STOOD IN A VAST FOREST AND A GIRL SOLDIER, SAILING THROUGH THE AIR, CRASHED AT MY FEET UNCONSCIOUS.
I GUESS THAT'S KNOCKIN' 'EM FOR A ROW, TH' DIRTY PUPS!
TAKE IT EASY, SISTER- THEY'VE GONE
YOU DROVE THEM OFF? BUT WHO ARE YOU? YOUR ACCENT AND CLOTHES ARE SO STRANGE. WHAT ORG. DO YOU BELONG TO?
WHAT D'YOU MEAN, ORG? ORGANIZATION? I DON'T BELONG TO ANY- I'M BUCK ROGERS. A FALL OF ROCK TRAPPED ME WHILE I WAS SURVEYING THAT MINE. I JUST GOT OUT A FEW MINUTES AGO
YOU'RE EITHER CRAZY, OR A SPY! IF THAT CAVE EVER WAS A MINE IT WAS BEFORE THE DESTRUCTION OF ANCIENT PITTSBURGH- IN 2029 A.D.,— 400 YEARS AGO.

ED WHEELAN presents A SENSATIONAL "GOLD-RUSH" SERIAL KLONDIKE...
WITH AN ALL-STAR CAST
FOREWORD
THE YEAR 1898 SAW ONE OF THE STRANGEST PHENOMENA OF ALL TIME- THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF EXCITED FORTUNE-HUNTERS, FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE, ANSWERED THE CLARION CALL OF "GOLD," AND RUSHED IN A MAD STAMPEDE TO THE ALASKAN KLONDIKE TO STAKE OUT CLAIMS, RECKLESSLY UNMINDFUL OF THE HARDSHIPS, THE AGONY, AND THE BITTER DISAPPOINTMENTS IN STORE FOR MOST OF THEM.
AN ENDLESS CHAIN OF HUMANITY, FIGHTING ITS WAY SLOWLY AND PAINFULLY TOWARDS THAT GOAL OF SUDDEN WEALTH, KLONDIKE!
ON THEY PRESSED, DOGGEDLY AND DETERMINEDLY, UP OVER THE WASTE STRETCHES OF THE GREAT WHITE NORTH — MEN AND EVEN WOMEN, ALL WITH THE THROBBING, FEVERISH HOPE OF "GOLD" UPON THEM
MANY THERE WERE WHO FELL BY THE WAYSIDE, TOO EXHAUSTED TO CONTINUE, BUT THEIR PLACES WERE QUICKLY TAKEN BY OTHERS
AND NOW WE COME TO A SMALL, ISOLATED CABIN IN THE GOLD-FIELDS, TEN MILES FROM THE BOOM TOWN OF DAWSON TO-MORROW, FANS, YOU WILL MEET THREE OF THE OCCUPANTS — WHO CAN THEY BE?

CAPPER HAS FULL CAR MERGER DATA READY FOR ACTION

Senate Subcommittee Will Have Maltbie, Clayton and Brown Reports.

ONE STATEMENT SHOWS TEN CHANGES FAVORED

Possibility of Having Bus Line and Car Service Joined Mentioned.

Ten changes in the resolution authorizing the street car merger here were recommended in a letter sent to Chairman Capper, of the Senate District committee, late yesterday by William McK. Clayton, chairman of the utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

A few minutes later, Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, arrived at Capper's office bearing a statement in reply to the one recently made by the heads of the traction companies. In the morning, Capper received a letter from Dr. Milo R. Maltbie, New York utilities expert, containing his reply to the traction men.

Thus, all the evidence in the case of the merger is now in, and it will be considered tomorrow morning at a meeting of the merger subcommittee of the Senate District committee.

Clayton's Recommendations.

Clayton's ten recommendations follow:

1. The new company should operate under a charter granted by the Congress of the United States.

2. If it is considered wise to authorize the purchase of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. (the bus company) by the new company, the merger resolution should direct its merger with and as a part of said company.

3. The new charter should provide that but one fare should be charged from one point to another in the District of Columbia, and that all transfers from car to car, bus to bus, car to bus, or vice versa, necessary for a rider to complete his journey, should be issued without charge.

4. That children attending the public schools should be charged one-half the current fare in going to and returning from school.

5. No valuation for rate-making purposes should be written into a charter granted by the Congress.

6. The present rate of fare now in force on the car lines, 8 cents or 6 tokens for 40 cents, to remain in effect until a valuation is finally completed of the merged company, and then only upon application by the company or people to the public utilities commission.

Limits Securities Issues.

7. The initial authorized bond and stock issues of the merged company should not exceed in amount the present combined bond and stock issues of the separate companies.

8. The depreciation funds of the separate companies should be carried over and become the depreciation fund of the merged company.

9. The charter of the merged company should provide highest standards of service, best type of cars and buses, and provide that all cars be operated only with full crews, both motorman and conductor.

The statement of the Bureau of Efficiency, which was submitted yesterday, contained a mild rebuke for the traction heads. In the letter which the latter recently sent to the committee they quoted from a statement contained in an earlier report of the bureau to defend their contention that a $50,000,000 valuation for the consolidated company was fair.

Yesterday the bureau made it plain that it had only given a "qualified" approval to a $50,000,000 valuation. The conditions of its approval were two in number: First, that a new valuation be made as soon as practicable, and second, that the new company would continue accounting for depreciation on the money cost of property to the present operating companies and providing that the accumulated depreciation reserves of the present companies be transferred to the new companies.

Lower Valuation Is Possible.

The bureau declared that it was "highly desirable" that the merged company start out with a fixed valuation for rate-making purposes, but it pointed out that the traction men had never stated that they would refuse to accept less than a $50,000,000 valuation. Hence, it was pointed out, the traction people might be willing to go into the merger with a lower valuation.

The bureau warned that unless there should be a continuity of depreciation the result might be an increase in fares.

A recommendation was made that the merger agreement provide an "indeterminate" franchise for the new company, and a number of arguments were cited in support of the recommendation, one being that it would make investment in the company more secure and encourage the company to keep its stock in good condition.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride declared in a letter to Capper yesterday that Congress could make definite and certain the question of the franchise by adding a provision to the merger resolution specifying that the merged company could use the streets here for a certain period of time. As the resolution now is written, he said, the company will have an indeterminate franchise.

MANY SEE MIDCITY BLAZE IN FUR SHOP

Gas Masks Used by Firemen in Thick Smoke; Damage Put at $20,000.

FLAMES ON TWO FLOORS

A fire in the Capitol Fur Shop, 1208 G street northwest, discovered at 9:40 o'clock last night, damaged goods and interior furnishings of the store. The damage was placed at $20,000 or more, according to a rough preliminary estimate.

Firemen from Station No. 2 responded to the call from a fire box at Fourteenth and G streets northwest. They found flames beginning to make headway on the first and second stories of the shop, with smoke issuing from door and windows.

Several firemen donned gas masks and hose and short ladders were brought out. A crowd of theater goers and passersby stared curiously from across the street.

David P. Silverman, president of the corporation, of 301 Taylor street northwest, was notified of the blaze. He was unable to form an exact estimate of damage. While the store's inventory, he said, had not been completed, the total value of goods in stock often runs above $100,000.

The basement, given over to cold storage of fur goods, had few pieces in storage during the winter months. Clearing up of debris was completed at 11 o'clock.

Traffic Chief to Talk At Meeting of Citizens

William H. Harland, director of traffic, will be the guest of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at 1415 Park road.

Dr. A. A. Cheney, commander of Lincoln Post, No. 17, American Legion, and Milton R. Vollmer and H. Mason Welch, of the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association, also will be present. B. A. Levitan, president, will preside. Plans for the association's midwinter dinner on January 17 are to be discussed.

Four Are Injured In Auto Accidents

Man, 70, and Boy, 6, Hurt When Struck; 2 Women Victims in Crash.

Four persons were injured yesterday in traffic accidents, one a triple collision between a taxicab, a heavy truck and an automobile.

Benjamin J. Webster, 70 years old, of Seat Pleasant, Md., was the most seriously injured. He was knocked down by an automobile, operated by Richard Powers, of 1429 Columbia road northwest, at Pennsylvania avenue and Madison place northwest. He was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for shock, lacerated head and bruises.

Six-year-old Jack Shainin, of 1236 Seventh street northwest, was knocked down by an automobile operated by Dr. Lawrence S. Otell, 32 years old, of 1525 Sixteenth street northwest. The boy was running across the intersection at Seventh and O streets northwest. He was taken to Sibley Hospital and treated for a cut head and bruised knee.

Automobiles operated by Robert H. Stover, taxicab driver, of 1022 Ninth street northwest, Timothy Calvert, 20 years old, of 1015 Lamont street northwest, colored truck driver, and Addison Burrows, of 1942 L street northeast, were in collision at Third street and Maryland avenue southwest yesterday morning.

Mrs. Emma T. Doreh, 513 E street northeast, a passenger in the taxicab, and Mrs. Addison Burrows, riding in her husband's machine, were slightly injured. Both refused hospital treatment.

Confession of Robberies Gets Him in Warm Jail

Commission of a dozen roberies in the northwest section was freely confessed by Irving Green, colored, to Judge John P. McMahon yesterday in Police Court, but the judge and even the policemen, who arrested him, refused to believe Green.

Walking into the Second Precinct Station House on Sunday, Green "surrendered" to police and told them he had committed robberies. Investigating his story, police found that Green knew nothing of the robberies, to which he confessed. Believing he was attempting to gain shelter of the District Jail from the cold, police placed a charge of vagrancy against him and brought him to court.

Judge McMahon, after refusing to believe his "confession," pronounced him a vagrant and ordered him to post a $200 bond or serve 30 days in jail. If Green was attempting to gain the jail's warm inclosure, he succeeded, for he was unable to give the bond.

ASSOCIATION VOTES FOR RETAIL MARKET

Citizens of Dupont Circle Voice No Interest in Merger Question.

HEAR POLITICAL HISTORY

After passing a resolution favoring the establishment of a farmers' retail market in Washington without naming any site, Dupont Circle Citizens Association, meeting yesterday afternoon in the Mayflower Hotel, heard descriptions of the District under the privilege of the vote.

Demarest Lloyd, president of the association, read a letter in reply to a newspaper editorial, in which he declared that the association, as an organization, had no interest in the merger question.

Conditions prior to the repeal by Congress of the franchise were described by Dr. William Tyndal, of the Bureau of Information of the District. Dr. Tyndal, who declared that he has "been in politics" all of his life, said that suffrage was taken away from the residents of the District because of corruption in the municipal government and because of excessive indebtedness incurred. At the time of the repeal, in 1874, he said, Congress assumed debts of the District government totaling $19,000,000, of which $1,000,0000 was in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal.

He was followed by Rear Admiral Reginald Fairfax Nicholson, retired, who also described electioneering conditions as an eyewitness. Admiral Nicholson told of street fights between factions and of gangster methods used during local campaigns.

Two Men Are Held As Phone Looters

Brothers Arrested in Drug Store Are Suspected in Other Thefts.

Alleged by police to have been caught in the act of fishing nickles out of pay telephones, two brothers were held last night at Eighth Precinct Police Station on petty larceny charges.

The men gave their names as Leon Phillips, 30 years old, of 463 H street southwest, and Ollie Phillips, 36 years old, of 515 M street southwest. They were arrested in a drug store at Eighteenth and Florida avenue northwest by Detectives W. R. Lemin and R. L. Jones.

The detectives said last night that they will begin an investigation today on the theory that the phone at Eighteenth and Florida was just one of many visited daily by the brothers.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO REMOVE BRIDGE

Ancient Aqueduct Structure Held Menace to Navigation and Eyesore.

NOW WAITS ON HOUSE

The Reed bill authorizing the Secretary of War to remove the old Aqueduct Bridge which spans the Potomac River at Georgetown was passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House.

The bill, which authorizes an expenditure of $228,000 for the removal job, was passed by the Senate in the last Congress, but was never acted on by the House.

The Senate yesterday also passed the Swanson bill extending the time for the completion of the bridge which the Great Falls Bridge Co. proposed to erect across Great Falls, if the War Department gives it permission.

The company would have to start construction one year after final enactment of the bill passed yesterday and would have to complete construction in three years.

In connection with the removal of the old Aqueduct Bridge, Secretary of War Dwight Davis has strongly urged Congress to enact the bill which was passed by the Senate yesterday.

"The new Francis Scott Key Bridge accommodates all traffic which formerly used the Aqueduct Bridge," he wrote to Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, "and there is accordingly no need for the latter.

"The piers of the old bridge are in bad condition. Except for the three new piers built to replace the old ones beyond repair, the mortar has been washed out below the water line, and in many cases stones have fallen out, leaving cavities.

"Two piers of the Aqueduct Bridge tend to block openings in the Key Bridge. Ice floes, as past experience has shown, have been caught by the closely spaced piers of the Aqueduct Bridge, resulting in damming the water.

"The combination of the Aqueduct Bridge and Key Bridge piers increase this danger considerably."

Davis also pointed out that the National Park and Planning Commission and the Commission of Fine Arts were anxious to have the "unsightly and dilapidated structure" removed.

Pastors Commend Dry Crusade Here

Those of Baptist Churches Join Others in Backing Rev. C. N. Howard.

Baptist and Christian ministers yesterday morning indorsed the work of the Rev. Dr. Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., in a resolution passed at a meeting in Calvary Baptist Church after Dr. Howard had addressed them.

The militant dry campaigner's speech was substantially the same as that which he made at the First Congregational Church Sunday. He urged that only "known dry men" be appointed to enforce the prohibition law in Washington by Herbert Hoover after his inauguration as President.

At the same time he expressed a desire not to "embarrass" the incoming President. His address was another episode in the city-wide campaign which he is waging to secure law observance and law enforcement in the Capital.

Dr. Howard stated that he expects to remain here and continue his work until after the inauguration.

LEHLBACH PAY BILL READY AND MAY BE INTRODUCED TODAY

House Committee Chairman Plans Early Hearings on U. S. Aids' Salaries.

BARS CROWD SEEKING TO ADVISE FROM OFFICE

Work of Drafting Measure to Revise Welch Act Was Impeded by Callers.

Representative Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, chairman of the House civil service committee, has put the finishing touches to his bill to remove the inequalities in the Welch pay-raise act, and expects to introduce it in the House today.

Hearings on the bill will be held "shortly," Chairman Lehlbach announced yesterday. It is expected that these hearings will bring out the many injustices that were brought about in the administration of the Welch act, and show how the raises that many employes expected to get were cut in half by the ruling of Comptroller General McCarl.

So many employes have been besieging Lehlbach's office to ask him questions and solicit his help that he has with difficulty been able to draft his bill.

Finally, he has decided that he will decline in the future to receive "individuals who merely wish to discuss their personal matters or present their personal views."

A statement issued in behalf of Chairman Lehlbach said:

"The committee on the civil service is purely a legislative body and has no jurisdiction over the administration of the law as applied to specific instances. There is absolutely nothing that the chairman of the committee can do in such cases.

"Furthermore, presenting to him personal suggestions to be incorporated in pending legislation is not helpful, as these suggestions must be determined by the full committee and not alone by the chairman.

"For this purpose hearings on pending legislation will shortly be held by the committee at which full opportunity will be accorded to all interested to present their views.

"Persons who have matters to submit for the consideration of the committee should await the hearings and present them then.

"If they find it impossible to attend the hearings at the time they are held they should submit their views in writing with the assurance that they will be given careful consideration."

Man Sues for Right To Enter Own Home

Petition Declares Wife Has Refused to Admit Him Since Nov. 30.

An injunction to restrain his wife, Mrs. Bessie J. Ries, from denying him entrance to their home at 1139 Morse street northeast, was petitioned of the District Supreme Court yesterday by Charles J. Ries. The lot on which the Morse street house is situated was obtained by him and his wife as joint tenants on December 13, 1919, Ries declared. On August 13, 1925, Ries charged his wife complained against him and he was adjudged of unsound mind and committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Mrs. Ries served as committee while he was in the hospital until December 12, 1927, the complaint charged, when she was removed because it was said she had an interest in keeping her husband in the hospital.

On November 20, 1928, Ries was dismissed from the hospital and restored to his legal status. Since that time, he declared, he has made repeated attempts to enter his home, but has been denied entrance by his wife. Ries complained he purchased the property and has paid the taxes on it. In the event the court will not permit him the injunction, Ries asked a division of the property be made. Attorneys Thomas J. Ahearn and Howard E. Ralph appeared for Ries.

Divided Court Upholds Verdict Against Doctor

A majority opinion of the District Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a verdict of a District Supreme Court jury in awarding $10,000 damages to Gertrude L. Cooley against Dr. Edward J. Gunning. Justice Charles H. Robb rendered a minority opinion, in which the verdict was denounced.

The woman sued the physician on complaint that he poured acid into her ears while treating her for an infection, but the physician declared he used mineral oil and the patient benefited from the treatment. Attorneys Newmyer & King appeared for the patient.

Grant to Get Plans For Inaugural Today

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Hoover's Views In Detail Will Be Obtained; Fund Grows.

Whether the conservatism of the general committee in its tentative inaugural plans is conservative enough for President-elect Herbert Hoover probably will be made known today at a conference Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will have with him.

Col. Grant, chairman of the general inaugural committee, expects to interview the President-elect regarding his wishes in the matter some time this morning.

Mr. Hoover has disapproved an elaborate inaugural program more than once. He first made known his objections to ostentation at Palo Alto. He affirmed his position during the South American cruise and added reiteration yesterday on leaving the White House after a conference with President Coolidge.

The President-elect yesterday said he wanted to be inducted into office as "simply as possible." Previously he had been quoted as saying he desired an inauguration of "extreme simplicity." Today he is expected to elaborate his views to Col. Grant and tell him how far the committee may go.

Mr. Hoover is taken to have indicated by his several expressions regarding the inauguration, all of the same tenor, with reiteration yesterday that he may disapprove plans for inclusion of marching units other than the small military escort demanded by custom and precedent, in the Pennsylvania avenue parade.

Whether the next President will approve of the committee's plans for an aerial escort remains to be seen. Just what his views are on this proposed feature have not been made known. It is considered possible that he may take the attitude that the increasing importance of aviation warrants its inclusion.

Mr. Hoover tentatively approved yesterday the program for formalities at the Capitol as outlined to him at a conference by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, and Representative Snell, of New York. The actual swearing into office of a new President is always, of course, a ceremony attended by extreme dignity, and Mr. Hoover's tentative approval of plans was readily forthcoming.

"Mr. Hoover found the plans we have made entirely satisfactory," Representative Snell said, after emerging from the conference. The induction ceremony will be exactly similar to that held four years ago for President Coolidge. There will be the same seating arrangements in the Capital, with seats reserved for 8,000 persons.

"The Capitol rites will be very simple. Mr. Hoover has no objection to all formalities demanded by the importance of the occasion. Remember, the induction of a chief magistrate of the United States is an important function. The ceremony must measure up to the impressiveness and dignity. The congressional committee will notify the future President when the hour of ceremony arrives, and will go with him from his home to the Capitol and thence back to the White House."

Chairmen of the several committees making plans for the inauguration are scheduled to meet at headquarters at the Willard Hotel Thursday afternoon at which time Col. Grant is expected to report to them the exact wishes of the President-elect. It was announced yesterday there will be a fireworks display only one night, that of March 4. One of the local theaters will be engaged for a reception for the State governors attending the inauguration.

Late contributors to the $100,000 fund being raised for the inauguration are as follows:

J. T. Exnicios, $50; Max Fischer, $100; W. Montgomery, $200; Irwin B. Laughlin, $500; M. Goldenberg, $500; Gen. C. C. Hammond, $20; Boss & Phelps, $250; A. Blair Thaw, $100; Adam A. Gun in Auto Held Concealed Weapon

Court of Appeals Upholds Rule by Judge McMahon in Brown Case.

A concealed weapon was defined in an opinion rendered by the District Court of Appeals yesterday as one so near a person so as to be accessable and within reach and not necessarily carried on one's person.

By the ruling the court upheld action of Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court. During the trial of Pomeroy Brown, who was charged with having a concealed weapon in his automobile, Judge McMahon instructed the jury that if they found Brown concealed the weapon in his car a verdict of guilty should be given. Brown was convicted and appealed on the ground the weapon was not concealed on his person.

Chief Justice Charles H. Robb, who rendered the opinion, declared that the concealed-weapon law enacted by Congress forbade the hiding of weapons "about" one's person. Had Congress intended to limit prohibition "to carrying of weapons on the person it must be assumed the word 'on' instead of 'about' would have been used," Justice Robb declared.

Police Retirement Decision Is Upheld

Appeals Court Grants Two Who Sued District $87.50 Monthly.

Contentions of Spencer Roberts and Hugh McDermott, retired policemen, that they were being deprived of full benefits of the pension law were upheld yesterday by the District Court of Appeals, which decided the District Commissioners had erred in interpreting the pension laws for retired firemen and policemen.

Declaring they were retired on a pension of $50 a month before the act of February 13, 1923, and were then advanced to a pension of $63.26 a month, the complainants declared, according to the basic salary of their class, which had been increased, they were entitled to receive full pension of $87.50 a month.

The District Commissioners declined to meet the request and the fight was carried to the District Supreme Court. Defeated in the court, the District carried its fight to the Court of Appeals.

BAN ON NEW FIRE STATION HARASSES DISTRICT OFFICIALS

Plea to U. S. Supreme Court Planned as Zoning Law Forbids Building.

OWNERS OF PROPERTY NEARBY MAKE PROTEST

Commissioners Puzzled Also on Choice of Site for House of Detention.

Privately wroth but, for publication, quiescent, District officials yesterday sought some way out of the difficulty created by the decision of the District Court of Appeals forbidding erection of the proposed new fire engine house at Sixteenth street and Colorado avenue.

William W. Bride, corporation counsel, announced his purpose to appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision announced by Justice Van Orsdel, pointing out that the decisions against the District were not based primarily on an interpretation of the zoning law but on a decision that the proposed site could not be used for a fire engine house because it had been dedicated in perpetuity for park purposes as a part of Rock Creek Park. Congress, itself, specifically provided for erection of the engine house on the proposed site.

Legal Department Disgruntled.

The latest decision against the District Government found officials harassed, disgruntled and angry. Bride, legal adviser of the District, was wroth because the Commissioners and department heads had gone ahead on their own initiative and done such things as locating the House of Detention in a converted apartment house at 300 B street southwest, in a neighborhood zoned residential. He had to defend that action in court and was defeated, as he expected to be. There have been other instances, of similar nature in the recent past, and members of the legal staff of the District privately were gnashing their teeth because the Commissioners had not asked about the legal soundness of their plans before they put them in operation.

The District Commissioners, hurrying back from a hearing before the House subcommittee on District appropriations, took most of the rest of the day to inspect possible sites for a temporary home for the House of Detention and headquarters for the woman's bureau of the Police Department.

Whether there will be any move to change the zoning regulations or organic law so as to give the District government greater freedom in locating fire engine houses and police stations, Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the Board of Commissioners, said he could not say. That was a matter, Dougherty said, which would have to have careful consideration.

Property Owners Cause Protest.

The court proceedings culminating in the decision by Justice Van Orsdel yesterday were instituted by Henry L. Quinn and other owners of property adjacent to the Sixteenth street and Colorado avenue site for the new engine house. Quinn and George E. Sullivan, another attorney, represented the property owners.

The District Commissioners yesterday apparently were as far from finding a new home for the House of Detention and headquarters for the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department as they were last week.

Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, named chairman of a special committee to find housing last week, took the Commissioners to see three possible sites yesterday, but nothing definite came of the inspection. All of the sites contemplated by Maj. Davison are located in the downtown business section of the city. The Commissioners have until January 21 to find and move into new quarters.

District Committee Of Senate Changed

Senator Hastings, Formerly of Capital, to Succeed Dupont, Resigned.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Republican), of Delaware, who received part of his education here and once worked in the War Department here, was appointed to the Senate District committee yesterday. Hastings was appointed to the Senate to succeed Senator Dupont, who resigned, and he also succeeds DuPont on the District committee.

Hastings was born in Somerset County, Md., and studied law in the old Columbia College, which now is George Washington University. For a time he worked in the office of the chief engineer of the Army at the War Department.

He has been a municipal judge in Wilmington, Secretary of State for Delaware, and a judge of the State Supreme Court.

Dr. Fowler Is Confined To His Home by Illness

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, is ill at his home at 2322 First street northwest. He had been complaining of ill health for the last week, but only yesterday gave up to his illness and failed to report at his desk in the District Building.

Despite that he was ill in bed, he refused to relinquish his anxiety about health of the city in general and sent a message to newspaper reporters that he was "not suffering from the flu." Fowler, while forecasting an increase in the daily reports of influenza cases, has insisted that a public panic is not justified.

Fall Down Church Steps Costs Man Cuts and $25

A fall down five front steps of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Fifth street near G street northwest, cost Thomas E. Robinson, 52 years old, of 427 G street northwest, a cut and bruised face in addition to $25 yesterday at Police Court.

Robinson was attempting to enter the church Sunday morning when he fell down the steps. A Sixth Precinct policeman took him in custody and, after treatment to his face, Robinson was lodged in a cell charged with intoxication. Judge John P. McMahon convicted him of the charge and fined him $25.

Wife Requests Support For 7 Children in Suit

Mrs. Barbara A. Mashauer, of 3048 Rainier avenue, Mount Rainier, Md., yesterday instituted suit for separate maintenance from her husband, Charles P. Mashauer, employed at the City Post-office. The parties were married on October 11, 1911, according to the petition, and have seven children.

Through her counsel, John D. Sadler, Mrs. Mashauer declared her husband abandoned her and their children in May and has since insufficiently supported them. The husband receives a salary of $2,300 a year, Mrs. Mashauer declared.

Auto Hurls Banker Against Windshield; Injuries Serious

James P. McArdle, 69 years old, vice president of the Mutual Serial Building & Loan Association, 2140 I street northwest is in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital, suffering from injuries received when struck by an automobile while crossing at Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-first street northwest late last night.

E. N. Anderson, 21 years old, employe of the District Highway Department, of 1901 Sixteenth street northwest, who police say was driving the automobile which struck McArdle, was arrested and held at the Third Precinct for investigation pending the outcome of his victim's injuries.

McArdle's injuries were so numerous four staff physicians at Emergency Hospital were called to work over him. A cursory examination physicians said, showed McArdle to be suffering from a probable fractured skull, lacerated face, probable internal injuries, fractured ribs, broken left leg, fractured left arm and shock.

When struck by Anderson's automobile, police said, McArdle was hurled into the air and landed on top of the radiator of the machine, denting it and cracking the windshield. Anderson, in his haste to bring the injured man to the hospital, narrowly averted striking two automobiles, police said.

Reward Awaits Policeman In Hit-Run Death Arrest

Declaring that Motorcycle Officer W. A. Schotter's action in capturing Robert Darrell Dixon, colored, alleged driver of the automobile which snuffed out the life of John Francis Luitich, Government Printing Office employe, was "meritorious and extraordinary," the District division of the American Automobile Association has requested permission to give him a $100 reward.

The request was forwarded to the District Commissioners yesterday by Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the local A. A. A. division. Under District law members of the police force are not allowed to accept rewards without permission of the Commissioners.

Smith in his letter to the Commissioners said he believed "this pursuit and capture of Dixon by Officer Schotter to be one of the most daring and outstanding pieces of police work that has ever been done in the District of Columbia."
